POLITICAL.

SPEAKER DECLINES THE RENOMINATION.

Iowa Republicans Cannot Send Him Back Because He Declares That He Does not Accept Their Views.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DUBUQUE (Iowa) Sept. 16.—Speaker Henderson, finding that his views in respect to the treatment of trusts by reducing the tariff in whole or in part are not in accordance with the views of many of his party in Iowa, has this day declined to accept the nomination for Congress, and has withdrawn from the race. He has addressed the following letter to C. E. Albrook of Eldora, Iowa, chairman of the Notification Committee:

My Dear Sir: I have never answered the kind notice communicated by you and your associates, advising me of my nomination for the eleventh time by acclamation as Republican candidate for Congress for the Third Congress District of Iowa. Reported conditions in the public mind in my district upon public policies induced me to take this delay. Since my return to the district, I have made a careful study as to the sentiment in the district and State, and I believe that there is no little sentiment, and a growing one, among Republicans, that I do not truly represent their views on the tariff question.

Believing this condition to exist, and knowing that I do not agree with many of my people that the trusts, to which I am and have been opposed, can be curbed, or the people benefited by free trade, in whole or in part, I must decline to accept the nomination so graciously and enthusiastically made. I have devoted twenty of the best years of my life to my people and for my country, and have fought for what I believed best for the farmer, the laborer and the business interests of this district and State. I am grateful for the devotion that has ever been accorded me, and to the hour of my death will hold in a grateful heart the memory of that devotion.

I will, later on, give in some detail my views and convictions on our conditions and on public questions, and state my reasons why the Republican party and policies should continue in the confidence of the voters of the United States, and why the doctrines of the Democracy should find no lodgment in the faith and teachings of the Republican party.

Truly yours.

[Signed] D. B. HENDERSON.

DISCUSSES HIS LETTER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DUBUQUE, Sept. 16.—Speaker Henderson announced his withdrawal, after a conference of several hours' duration with Chairman Glasser of the Congressional Committee and friends this afternoon. The Speaker has been contemplating this action for two weeks, but had intimated nothing of it to his friends until yesterday. At the conference his friends implored him not to take this action, but to no avail. He said he had made up his mind, and no argument could cause him to change his decision. When asked for his reason for his withdrawal, Speaker Henderson said:

"My letter to Chairman Albrook is the whole thing in a nutshell. You can not kill the trusts by applying free trade without killing our own industries. The foreign trusts are fighting the American trusts, and I do not believe that, for the purpose of controlling American trusts, we should make a market for foreign trusts, thereby crushing out the industries of this country. After my conference last Saturday at Waterloo, hearing the views of the chairmen of my district, I concluded that my views on the tariff question were at variance with those of my party, and I did not desire to appear in a false position."

CAUSED A SENSATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The dispatch announcing Speaker Henderson's declination of the Congressional nomination caused a sensation in Washington. Very few public men are in Washington at this time, but all here expressed regret that the Speaker had determined on the course announced in the Dubuque dispatch. The reasons leading up to his action were perhaps as much a matter of comment as the refusal to stand for reelection.

Public men acknowledge that there is a demand in sections of the West and Northwest for a revision of the tariff along certain lines, notably in the case of articles whose manufacture is controlled by the trusts. Their opinion is that Gen. Henderson's decision will make the issue more acute, and it is suggested that the President is conferring at this time with the leading Senators from the East and West, presumably on the very question which has forced Gen. Henderson out of line with his party in Iowa.

The Speaker has always been a straight-out Republican in tariff matters, and at the last session of Congress the general understanding was that he opposed the suggestions advanced for tariff revision along certain lines, on articles controlled by trusts.

Gen. Henderson already has entered into the coming campaign, and it is stated here that both Gov. Cummings and Senator Dolliver, both of whom are said to be in favor of tariff revision, were to have stumped the district for him. The Iowa Republican State Convention, held in the latter part of July, took strong grounds on the question of the reduction of the tariff on goods whose production in this country is controlled by the trusts, making the following declaration on that subject:

"We favor any modifications of the tariff schedules that may be required, to prevent their affording shelter to monopoly."

There was a great deal of opposition to this statement, but it finally was adopted by the convention. It is thought here that this plank in the platform was the one which has raised the issue in Gen. Henderson's case, and has induced him to withdraw.

Various names are suggested by Iowa Republicans here as candidates for the Speaker's seat, among them being Mr. Courtwright, who formerly has been in the race for the nomination; C. E. Pickett, Charles Albersock and J. H. Funk.

Secretary Wilson of the Agricultural Department, who comes from Iowa, was thunderstruck when he heard of Gen. Henderson's decision, remarking that it came as rain from a clear sky. He expressed great regret that the Speaker has determined on the course announced, but further than that he declined to make any statement for publication.

To Secretary Shaw of the Treasury Department, whose residence also is in Iowa, and who is a great friend of the Speaker's, the news came with equal surprise and regret. The Secretary, in response to a request for an interview on the subject, dictated the following statement:

"I have not been in Iowa since February, and hence know little of any change in political sentiment in the State. All Republicans found congenial standing room on the platform last year. The tariff-revision plank is sufficiently general to occasion no dispute, and each put such construction upon the shelter for monopoly utterance as he pleased. The language does not say that the tariff does afford shelter, but 'demands any modification that may be required to prevent their affording a shelter.' I think most speakers took the old-time Republican view that the tariff is not responsible for trusts. If sentiment has changed, I am not advised.

"I regret Gen. Henderson's decision more than I can express, and I still hope the report is unfounded, or that he may be induced to recall his declaration. He was sure of his election."

In view of Gen. Henderson's determination, some gossip was indulged in as to his successor as Speaker, in the event of Republican success at the polls in November. Representative Cannon of Illinois no doubt will be a candidate for the position, with a strong competitor in Representative Sherman of New York. Messrs. Grosvenor of Ohio and Littlefield of Maine also are mentioned as among those who may be forced to the front by their friends in the Speakership contest, although most public men thought either Mr. Cannon or Mr. Sherman the more probable choice of the House.

SHAW NOT SURPRISED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary Shaw of Iowa has received no information from his State in regard to Speaker Henderson's withdrawal from the Congress race. He did not seem surprised, however, at the news, and appeared to have expected it. The opinion expressed here tonight is that Speaker Henderson is merely trying to retire from the contest gracefully, after being badly beaten by the regular element in the Republican party in Iowa.

Two men who are very prominently mentioned in connection with the Speakership of the House are James S. Sherman of New York and "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Illinois. Representative Sherman is one of the young progressive men of the House, and recognized leader of the Republican party. He was Speaker Henderson's chief opponent for that honor, and will undoubtedly make a strong fight against Representative Cannon. Friends of the highly-respected chairman of the Appropriations Committee are very certain that he will be selected, and say he is entitled to distinction by reason of the work he has done for the administration policies for several years past.

Representative Hemenway of Indiana is spoken of as a possible successor to Chairman Cannon, should "Uncle Joe" succeed in capturing the Speakership.

STATES HIS POSITION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DUBUQUE, Sept. 16.—Speaker Henderson gave out an address this evening, which states his views on the tariff and trust questions, and says that because these views, in his opinion, are not in accord with the State platform and with the opinions of prominent members of his party, he declines to accept the nomination. The address is to "the Republican voters of the Third Iowa District." He says, being a Republican, he is a protectionist, and if he ever entertained a doubt as to the wisdom of the protection policy, a comparison between the present and past would blot out such doubt. He then speaks with satisfaction of the tariff planks of the last two national platforms. Continuing, he says:

"For three years I have advocated giving control of trusts to Congress. In my judgment, proper supervision can never be had until Congress has power to treat them. I am glad to see from speeches made by our fearless and upright Chief Executive that he is advocating Federal control over these corporations, and while in some quarters they may sneer at it, I have not seen any proposition yet, except this, that seems at all likely to bring relief. No proposition has ever been made by the Democracy, excepting to put everything on the free list, and to give the country free trade. In other words, they propose to kill the child dead in order to cure it.

"They propose to slaughter every interest in the United States, whether capital or labor, in a wild and blind effort to provide a remedy for trusts. If, in my opinion, combinations could be controlled, we would have very little demand for changes in the tariff laws. To show how strongly the Republican party feels upon the subject; in its State platform this year, it declares in favor of any modification of the tariff that may be required to prevent affording shelter to monopoly.

"Our Democratic friends treat this as moving into free-trade grounds. It is nothing of the sort. It is a bold declaration that if modifications of the the tariff are required to prevent monopoly from sheltering itself under the wings of protection, then the tariff shall be modified to prevent that condition. For my part, if any great interest in this country is prospering through protective policies or any other legislation, and is using its advantages, growth and prosperity to plunder the American people, I, for one, am ready to strike it by whatever legal means we may be able to adopt, providing that in so doing we do not hurt innocent interests.

"I am not prepared to say I would be willing to strike down and destroy American combinations and let foreign combinations come in and do the work, but I would like to control our own corporations so that there could be fair play among the American people. I have been more amused than hurt at

NO TARIFF TINKERING.

Hanna Lays Down an Ultimatum.

Senator Aldrich Likes to Follow Him.

Conference With President at Sagamore Hill Yesterday.

Strike at the White House—Panama Canal—Democrats Lack Speakers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A staff correspondent of the Washington Star, noted for his reliability, and now at Oyster Bay, sends his paper the following dispatch regarding today's conference between the President and the leaders in the Senate:

"As long as I remain in the Senate and can raise a hand to stop you, you shall never touch a schedule of the tariff act." With flushed face and clenched fist Senator Hanna delivered this ultimatum to the Republicans who were discussing with him the advisabilities for the revision of some alleged over-protected schedules of the Dingley law. This was the spirit in which Senator Hanna entered the conference at Sagamore Hill today. Senator Aldrich is inclined to side with him. Senators Allison and Spooner take the opposite views, that some high rates of the Dingley act could be reduced.

This is the second time within four months that the President has taken up the question of tariff revision with the leaders. The first time was while Congress was in session. The President was inclined to take the side of the revisionists, but excused himself on the ground that nothing practical in the way of revision could be accomplished, and that he did not want to urge something which could not be carried out.

NO ATTEMPT AT REVISION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 16.—Senators Hanna, Spooner, Allison, Aldrich and Lodge and Postmaster-General Payne spent several hours with the President today, and discussed with him the entire political situation, having special reference to the conditions in the Western States which the President is to visit on his approaching trip. The parties to the conference were very reticent, after they returned from Sagamore Hall, but it can be stated on reliable authority that it was decided to make no attempt to revise the tariff at the coming session of Congress; that the President is to maintain his position as to the trusts, and further that he is to insist on his demand for reciprocity with Cuba. It is understood that he will fully outline his policy regarding this latter question in some of the speeches he is to make on his western trip. It also can be stated on excellent authority that the coal strike was not discussed.

The President's purpose in having this conference was to ascertain if there had been any marked political changes in the different sections of the country during the past year. The conference, it is said, showed that there had been none.

"The conference was entirely harmonious," said one of the gentlemen who had participated in it, but who declined to permit his name to be published. "No differences of opinion developed, and the President's position on the different questions discussed were indorsed. We talked over the entire political situation, especially that in the States through which the President is to pass. The coal strike was not talked about."

The Senatorial delegation arrived here at 12:20 o'clock p.m., coming from Long Island City in the private car of President Baldwin of the Long Island road. The Senators refused to see a number of newspaper men who were on the train. On their arrival here they were driven at once to Sagamore Hill in the President's trap. They left in the private car at 10:10 o'clock p.m., for Long Island City. Postmaster-General Payne came over early in the day from Center Island. He left at 6:35 o'clock p.m., for New York.

STRIKE AT WHITE HOUSE.

RIVAL UNION REPRESENTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Organized labor has tied up the work of repairing the interior of the White House because four men who could do a certain line of work exceptionally well and who are not the particular kind of union men, were employed.

Thirty members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, were called out on a strike at the White House this morning by Daniel Lear, Washington business agent of the brotherhood, because four painters belonging to the Amalgamated Association of Painters of New York City are employed on contract in the White House.

On account of the bitterness between the two rival labor organizations, the work of repairing the interior of the White House is threatened, as the contractors have no idea how close the other labor organizations here are affiliated with the brotherhood, or how far the strike may extend. It is stated that the carpenters and electrical workers, as well as many others, are either so closely identified with the brotherhood as possibly to lead to a strike, or they are in sympathy with the painters and decorators.

The thirty strikers have no fault to find with Norcross Bros., contractors, for rebuilding the interior of the White House, or with S. C. French, the representative of the contractors. In fact, the men who struck are the employés of Norcross Bros., and all are brotherhood men. Their grievance is solely against the four Amalgamated painters who are working on a small contract which was awarded to Marcot, a New York painter.

THAT TRIP TO PARIS.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL SILENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Atty.-Gen. Knox has not informed any officials of the Department of Justice by cable or otherwise what the result of his trip to Paris to investigate the title to the Panama Canal has been. At the department, it was said today that it is considered significant that Mr. Knox found it necessary to stay in Paris only ten or twelve days, and the officials here believe this means either that he found that title was in such shape that it can be perfected easily, or else he found that it was not good under any circumstances.

The former view is held, however, and the expectation is that when Mr. Knox gets back to Washington he will turn over the results of the investigation to the Department of State, and the matter will be concluded by diplomatic negotiations between the United States, France and Colombia.

ONE SOLITARY SPELLBINDER.

DEMOCRACY LACKS SPEAKERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Men in charge of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee headquarters in Washington are getting mad because the Democrats who declare their interest in the success of the party at the coming elections do not come forward and offer to go out into the campaign and make speeches.

Up to date, just one Democrat has offered his services unconditionally. He is Representative Livingstone of Georgia. Fifteen other Democrats have said, in response to urgent appeals, that they may be able to make a few speeches, but they are uncertain. At this time of year, the committe ought to have fully one hundred and fifty men ready to take the stump, instead of one solitary spellbinder, who has pledged himself.

SENATORSHIP FOR ALGER.

TO MAKE HIM WHOLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Victor H. Mason of Michigan, who is closely identified with Gen. Russell A. Alger, ex-Secretary of War, was in the city today, and said that all political indications in Michigan point with reasonable certainty toward the election of Gen. Alger to the United States Senate, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator McMillan.

Fifty newspapers of the State have already come out in favor of Gen. Alger. The people of the State, moreover, are controlled somewhat by sentiment, and are inclined to give Gen. Alger the honor of the Senatorship as an offset to the abuse he received at the close of the Spanish War. Mason says he believes this sentiment will give Gen. Alger a considerable number of votes.

FARMERS' COFFERS FULL TO OVERFLOWING.

SECRETARY WILSON TALKS OF HIS TOUR OF WEST.

Boom in Land Values a Result of Plenitude of Money—Political Sentiment All One Way, Many Democrats Being Open in Support of President.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has just returned from an extended tour through the West, bringing with him a tale of wonderful prosperity of the section lying in the Mississippi Valley and beyond. The lands of the West are rich with ripening harvests of grain. A tremendous crop is about to be gathered and the farmers are actually embarrassed by a surplus of money.

"I am at a loss to account for the dearth of money in New York," said Secretary Wilson today. "Certainly there is no scarcity of it out in the West. New York is full of western money now, and after the present great crop is out of the way there will be a larger influx of western money into eastern financial centers. There is a popular misunderstanding with regard to getting money from the East to move the crops of the country. They have all the money they want back West to move their crops, and if they call on New York for any funds it will only be for a small percentage of what they have on deposit there.

"The banks of the West are full of money and another big crop is about to be sold which will still further increase the stock of cash on hand. In fact one of the great problems of that country is what farmers shall do with their funds. A rather extraordinary condition prevails. Men with large sums of money to invest can find no suitable place for it. In absence of anything better they have turned their attention to land buying, and a boom in land values has resulted. They have put up prices so that money invested in good farm lands will not yield more than 3 per cent. People will not part with their farms except at top prices. Our people have been forced to go into British possessions to find tracts of lands at reasonable prices. It is no unusual thing to run across a dozen different prosperous farmers in a single day, each of whom is anxious to invest a good-sized sum of money in some paying and reasonable venture."

...ile the Russian Minis... persists in its intention year, Secretary Wilson said: "Few people will ever realize how vitally involved the nation's welfare was in the maturing of the corn crop during the past few weeks. We do not know yet what the effects will be of last week's frosts, but it will doubtless make some soft corn. The crops will be large enough to permit the resumption of feeding corn to cattle, so that the consuming public will get beef next year nearer old prices."

Commenting on the political outlook, Secretary Wilson said: "Really there is not much politics in the West. There is an utter absence of the strong political excitement so noticeable in campaigns of 1896 and 1900. Now, practically everything is one way. The people there are for Roosevelt for President, and I was continually astonished to see how prevalent this sentiment was among Democrats. Time and time again I have had Democratic farmers approach me, and say they were going to vote for Roosevelt in 1904, and many of them requested that I tell the president of their intention to leave the Democratic party.

PLAGUE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

AUGUST THE WORST MONTH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The bubonic plague record of San Francisco for the month of August is worse than that of any other month since the disease appeared in that city, nearly three years ago. There were nine deaths in August and twenty-one deaths since the first of last December. The record shows no progress being made toward stamping out the disease, but that, on the other hand, it is gaining on the health authorities.

ANTI-TRUST BILL.

BOSTON VERSION OF IT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The local papers publish what purports to be an authoritative forecast of Littlefield's anti-trust bill, which, it is declared, has been indorsed by the President and will be introduced in the House early in next session. Both Atty.-Gen. Knox and Representative Littlefield pointed out to the President that the great trouble with anti-trust legislation up to this time is that persons have been unable to prove the inside workings of the Trust. They both recognize that if anything is to be done it must be possible to get at the big men.

The Constitution shows that no man is to be convicted upon his own testimony. The plan for getting around this constitutional bar is this: "In all prosecutions, hearings and proceedings, no person shall be excused from attending and testifying, or from producing books, papers, contracts, agreements and documents before the courts of the United States or commissioners thereof, or in obedience to the subpoena of said courts or commissioners, on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to criminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture, but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence."

RIVAL UNION'S ROW.

STOPS WHITE HOUSE WORK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Thirty members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, employed at the White House, which is in course of reconstruction, were called out on strike today by Daniel Lear, Washington's representative of the brotherhood.

The reason assigned is that four painters belonging to the Amalgamated Association of Painters of New York City, a rival organization, are employed on a part of the interior painting under a sub-contract with a New York painter named Marcot.

This fight between the Brotherhood and the Amalgamated Association is of long standing, and the outcome, so far as the work on the interior finishings of the White House is concerned, is problematical. The strike may prevent the President's family from occupying the White House as soon as they had anticipated.

AFFAIRS ON THE ISTHMUS.

M'LEAN CLEARS TRACK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Secretary of the Navy Moody today received the following cablegram from Commander McLean of the Cincinnati, who arrived at Colon yesterday:

"Yesterday I went to Panama. Train stopped twice by obstructions, iron plate, etc., placed on track. After train passed, saw government soldiers replace obstructions. Accompanied by Consul and Commander Potter of Ranger, called on Governor. Friendly conversation. Returning to Colon this morning, stopped by obstructions. Soldiers were compelled to remove them. Soldiers then stood on track. By my directions, train moved on and soldiers jumped away. Will guard trains. No revolutionists in sight, but rumored coming toward railroad."

AN EXPRESSION WANTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Commander McLean's dispatch was not dated, except as coming from Colon, but is accepted as referring to the events of Monday. The officials at Washington are not inclined to jump hastily at the conclusion that the obstruction of traffic by government soldiers was inspired by the Colombian government itself, but are more ready to believe that the act was for the purpose of ascertaining if any revolutionists occupied the train. Commander McLean's dispatch is not given out in full, some portions containing expressions of opinion on the commander's part having been eliminated. It is understood that, at the meeting of Commanders McLean and Potter and the United States Consul with Gov. Salazar at Panama, the latter disvowed responsibility for the acts of the government troops.

Acting Secretary of State Adee and Secretary Moody were in consultation for some time today in regard to the isthmian situation, though the conference took place before the receipt of Commander McLean's dispatch. However, the dispatch was referred to the State Department immediately upon its receipt, and it is understood that some representations will be made to the government at Bogota with a view to preventing a repetition of the incident and obtaining some expression from Colombia which may simplify the rather complex situation which comes of the conjunction of the government, liberal, and the United States forces.

By the treaty of Granada, Colombia and the United States mutually guarantee free and uninterrupted traffic across the Isthmus, and in the event that one or the other showed a disposition to interfere with transit, it would be the right of the other to step in and insure it.

Commander McLean's action in placing guards on the trains creates a situation similar to that which existed some months ago, when Capt. Perry, with the Iowa, and Commander McCrea were at Panama and Colon, respectively, and each train was occupied by a force of American blue jackets or marines. Capt. Perry at that time was forced to take possession of the Panama Railroad, and it is probable that further interference will result in similar action on the part of Commander McLean. Six trains are run across the Isthmus each day, two passenger and four freight trains, and for each one may have to be provided a guard.

Orders were issued today detaching Commander McLean from command of the Cincinnati on the arrival of his successor, Commander Mason, who sailed from New York today for Colon, but it was stated at the Navy Department that if the situation required it, Commander McLean would be kept in command beyond the time appointed for his detachment.

CASE OF GOVERNMENT AGAINST SECURITIES COMPANY.

Attorneys by Stipulation Agree to Accept Testimony Given in Peter Power Case and That of Harriman Before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. — Hearings were begun here today on the action of the United States against the Northern Securities Company. Frederick J. Ingersoll of St. Paul, the special examiner appointed by the Minnesota court, where the action originated to take testimony, explained that the hearings were to be held by stipulation of the parties interested and not by his direction.

The attorneys in the case, including Solicitor-General Richards, then held a conference, and at its conclusion the following stipulation which had been drawn was read by Richards:

"It has been stipulated by counsel for the United States and counsel for all the defendants in this cause that certain testimony and documentary evidence heretofore taken shall be considered as taken in the present case. I therefore request that you spread on the record a minute to the effect that all parties stipulate and agree that the testimony of J. J. Hill, C. S. Mallen, James S. Kennedy, G. W. Perkins, W. P. Clough, J. H. Schiff, Charles Steele and J. P. Morgan, taken in the case of Peter Power, against the Northern Pacific Railway Company, and also the testimony of E. H. Harriman taken before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Chicago on January 25, 1902, in regard to the consolidations and combinations of carriers subject to an act to regulate commerce, including the method of association known as the community-of-interest plan, shall be considered as testimony in this case."

At the suggestion of the examiner, an adjournment was taken that counsel might agree upon the particular testimony to be received and get the testimony in shape, and the examiner set September 25 for a continuation of the hearing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Sept. 16.—Atty.-Gen. Mullin today handed an opinion to Gov. A. B. Cummins with regard to the legality of the recent filing of incorporation papers of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company with the Secretary of State. The Governor refuses to make public the contents of the opinion for the reason that he desires to have a statement from himself accompany it when it is made public. No information is given as to the position taken by the Attorney-General, and statements to the contrary are simply guess work.

Labor Leaders Confer—Stop Work on White House—Keep Pickets On.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept 16.—A conference of the leading anthracite coal interests was held this afternoon at the Philadelphia and Reading Company's office. Those present included President Baer of the Reading; President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, President Fowler of the New York, Ontario and Western road, President Walters of the Lehigh Valley, President Oliphant of the Delaware and Hudson, Evans Stearns of Coxe Bros. and Co., and John Markle, of J. B. Markle & Co. The two last mentioned represented the independent operating interests in the hard-coal industry.

The precise subjects of the conference could not be learned, but it was stated in advance of the meeting that no concessions would be granted, and that recent events of a semi-political character would not be seriously considered.

Following a meeting with J. P. Morgan, John Markle made this statement:

"I do not think it necessary to repeat that all the talk of concessions on the part of the presidents is foolish and without foundation. Our position now is the same as when Mitchell made his original propositions, and no different than when the strike began.

"We said that we would make no concessions, and we repeat it now. There is no reason why this should not be understood. The operators have shown that they mean it, and I repeat only by way of emphasis.

"There is just one way to end the strike—by the men's returning to work, and every day they remain away by giving willing ear to Mitchell's specious promises, will only entail further loss and suffering to them. Conditions are improving daily; more men are returning to work, and more coal is being mined.

"So far as recent attempts at settlement are concerned, it is only necessary to add that every effort from Senator Hanna's down has been futile. We have defined our position, and will maintain it."

LABOR LEADERS CONFER.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WILKESBARRE (Pa.) Sept. 16.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here this morning, and at once went to President Mitchell's headquarters, where he held a conference with the executive officers of the miners' union regarding the strike.

At 1 o'clock the conference adjourned for dinner. Mr. Gompers was the only one who would talk. He said the strike situation was discussed in all its phases; the finances were found to be in a good condition; the relief funds were coming in promptly; and there was no reason why the strike should not continue without inflicting any any hardship on the strikers.

Gompers was asked whether it was proposed to levy an extra assessment in order to help the miners out. He declined to answer the question. He also refused to say whether the American Federation of Labor will be convened in extra session to take action on the strike.

PUT PICKETS ON.

UNION PACIFIC STRIKERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OMAHA, Sept. 16.—Notwithstanding the court's order of yesterday, the Union Pacific strikers today placed thirty-two pickets in the vicinity of the railroad shop yards. None, however, ventured on railroad property, and instead of moving about in groups, they kept well separated, no two of them appearing together at any time. There was a large squad of policemen patrolling the vicinity where the pickets were also doing duty, but no clash occurred during the early day.

Labor officials stated that they would try to conform as closely as possible to the order of the court, but would maintain their rights as citizens.

Wheat Handlers Strike.

TACOMA (Wash.) Sept. 16. — Two hundred wheat handlers struck today for higher wages. Truck men have been getting 25 cents an hour and weighers 28 cents. They want 30 and 35 cents, respectively. Offer of an advance to 27½ and 30 cents before they went on strike was refused. A meeting is to be held this afternoon.

Ordered Back to Work.

BUTTE (Mont.) Sept. 16.—A special to the Miner from Livingston says that late today the strike of the machinists in the shops of the Southern Pacific Railway was declared off and the men, with the exception of eight, have returned to work. The eight have refused to accept the decision of Vice-president Wilson of the International Machinists' Union, who declared the machinists were in error in walking out.

Tight Money Market in New York Causes the Banks to Draw Upon South Africa and Australia.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Ladenburg, Thalman & Co. announce that $500,000 gold has been consigned to them from Australia. It is due in San Francisco the latter part of October.

J. and W. Seligman & Co. announce that they will receive $1,250,000 gold from Australia. The gold is due at San Francisco on October 6.

Fully $1,000,000 of the gold obtained by the National City Bank from South African sources leaves London tomorrow for this port by steamship Majestic. The balance will follow shortly. Officials of the bank decline to make any explanation of the mechanism by which this gold was diverted from its original destination, except to say that the transaction is a profitable one, and without special feature. Intimations from an authoritative quarter indicate that the South African consignment will amount to more than $3,500,000.

FRANCE.

REMARKABLE SPEECH OF FRENCH STATESMAN.

CURED OF OLD DREAMS, BUT HAS SOME NEW ONES.

Minister of Marine Pelletan Discusses the Attitude of His Country in Regard to the Mediterranean in a Speech at Bizerta, Tunis.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BIZERTA (Tunis) Sept. 16.—[By Atlantic Cable.] M. Pelletan, French Minister of Marine, made a remarkable speech at an entertainment of the municipality yesterday evening, which, it is expected, will cause the French Foreign Minister, M. Delcasse, some trouble to explain. After pointing out the importance of Biserta as a bulwark of France, M. Pelletan proceeded:

"We do not say we want to make the Mediterranean a French lake. We have been cured of the dreams of the great man who wished us to dominate the world. But part of the Mediterranean is French, and will remain French. With this powerful rampart so well situated for defense and also for attack and with Corsica and Toulon we can hold the open door between the two halves of the Mediterranean in spite of Malta and Gibraltar. Certainly I do not desire a conflict with England any more than with Italy, but as we do not know what others are doing it is part of our duty to prepare for the holy war, for the French fatherland against its enemies whoever they may be.

"I am convinced, thanks to the fellow workers with whom I am surrounded, that we can face every eventuality. Security hardly exists any more for the civilized world. At the end of the nineteenth century, after the defeat of France by the barbarism of old Germany, we saw an offensive return of the law of brute force. The whole world seemed to be dominated by the maxim 'might before right.' We must then devote all our efforts to keep intact that focus of justice and right—French genius."

M. Pelletan concluded with remarking that he would not say more at present. He had not yet been accustomed to being a minister, and feared he might be carried away into expressing his opinion of matters which exclusively concerned the foreign minister.

France has at Biserta a powerful military and naval stronghold with which, with Toulon on the north of the Mediterranean, French military and naval men assert that France's naval power in the west of the Mediterranean is unassailable, and all that is required to consolidate the position of France is the construction of the so-called canal of two seas which is to unite the Mediterranean with the Bay of Biscay, and thus render her independent of the straits of Gibraltar.

VEXATION AT SPEECH.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The needlessly offensive allusions to Italy, Germany and Great Britain made by M. Pelletan, the Marine Minister, in a speech at Ajaccio, Corsica, and yesterday in a speech at Biserta, have caused much surprise here, and are generally deprecated. The only explanation offered by Frenchmen is that M. Pelletan has forgotten that he is now a minister, and that he has been speaking as a journalist. The Foreign Minister, M. Delcasse, is said to have been extremely vexed at M. Pelletan's utterances at Ajaccio, which are calculated to irritate Italy at a moment when the French government had succeeded in dissipating the ill-feeling which existed between the two countries, and had established an era of friendly relations.

An official of the French Foreign Office said: "M. Pelletan's remarks must be taken as strictly personal and in no way reflecting the general spirit of the French government toward the powers mentioned. He spoke in his capacity as Minister of Marine, and as foreign policy."

It has been hinted that M. Delcasse has already protested to Premier Combes against M. Pelletan's Ajaccio speech.

It is reported that the French Ambassador at Rome will be instructed to explain away M. Pelletan's utterances.

TREATS IT LIGHTLY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—The German Foreign Office treats M. Pelletan's Bizerta speech lightly, and is disposed to attach no more importance to it than to the after-dinner indiscretions of the French War Minister, M. Andre, a few years ago, of which the German government took no official notice.

AID FOR SUFFERERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 16.—Aid for the sufferers by the forest fires have been elected by nearly every church in the city and Oregon City. Several car loads of supplies were sent out yesterday and today. Many benefits are being planned for the sufferers. There is no doubt that they will be relieved with ample food and clothing before they can secure work.

NO MORE CASUALTIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VANCOUVER (Wash.) Sept. 16.—No additional casualties were reported today from the scene of the big forest fires in this section. The County Commissioners left here today for the burnt district in the northern part of the county, taking with them a wagon load of supplies consisting of clothing and other necessaries which were supplied by voluntary contributions for distribution among the unfortunate sufferers.

WYOMING FIRES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Sept. 16.—Governor Richards has been informed by telegraph from Grand Encampment that many miles along the Wyoming-Colorado line north of Pearl, Colo., a fierce forest fire is raging, devastating everything in its path. Every effort to stay the flames has been exhausted without effect. Gov. Richards immediately communicated with Gov. Orman of Colorado, and arranged for both to send a telegram to the Secretary of the Interior, asking for aid.

According to the latest reports there are at least eighteen serious forest fires burning in Wyoming, to say nothing of numerous smaller ones and small fires.

VAST AREA BURNED OVER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER, Sept. 16.—But little progress is being made toward checking the forest fires in the forest sections of the State is being reported.

At the head of Chicago Creek the fire is again beyond control. A vast area of territory has been burned over, and it is feared the towns along Chicago Creek will experience a shortage of water due to the fact that the fire has destroyed the protection to the creek beds, which were the source of the water supply for Clear Creek.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] From an elevation of 5000 feet on the slopes of Mount Ranier last week, Arthur Hunter, mountaineer, witnessed scenes of awful grandeur. A guide was given to Hunter to view from an eminence, forest fires raging over a hundred miles away in Oregon. Flames could be seen shooting upward from the tops of hundreds of trees, and above them rose tremendous clouds of smoke. As he looked, the flames crossed the Columbia River, and simultaneously another mighty fire began sweeping westward, through the Wind River Valley.

Hunter's position gave him a panoramic view embracing the Columbia River Valley, Gray's Harbor, a hundred miles away to the westward, Puget Sound to the north, and British Columbia in the farther distance. The distant fires climbed higher in the trees, and then the great scene moved. Dense smoke poured high into the heavens, and rolled forward toward Puget Sound and the Pacific Ocean. Soon dense smoke became one great blanket which overhung all of Western Washington, shutting out sunlight and compelling the lighting of lamps everywhere.

Gradually the clouds of smoke rolled higher and higher, until they finally covered the summit of the Cascade mountains and spread their hot breath over Eastern Washington.

VICTIMS LAID AWAY.

TACOMA (Wash.) Sept. 16.—In a little cemetery at Murray's, twenty-five miles above Woodland, the bodies of seven victims of the Lewis River fire have been laid to rest. They were:

MRS. REED.

MRS. EVA REED and three children.

MRS. JOHN POLLY, child and mother.

MRS. GRAVES.

A. McKeen.

MRS. AGNES M'KEEN and child.

GEORGE W. SMITH, wife and child.

The body of W. E. Newhouse, previously reported lost, has been found. It is reported, but not confirmed, that seventeen bodies have been found on the Clark county side of the river, most unknown.

The fire has practically died out, and the fire parties are taking in food and clothing with pack horses. Most of the sufferers have congregated at Murray's, where supplies are being distributed. The county commissioners have gone to the stricken district to ascertain the amount of relief that will be required to relieve the distitute. From reports of eye-witnesses, a cyclone passed over Lewis River on Thursday, carrying fire at great speed and spent itself among the headwaters of the Coweman river. Trees were uprooted in the path of the fire. On the upper Coweman, the wind blew from the north, but on Lewis River it blew fiercely from the southeast.

Surveyor Bystrom and party, who were on the headwaters of the Coweman, made a run of ten miles, two days which were through the burning forest. They escaped without serious injury. Timbermen say that the standing timber, though killed by the fire, will be all right if logged within a year or two.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Secretary Hitchcock today received dispatches from the Governors of both Colorado and Wyoming, appealing for government aid in fighting the terrific forest fires that are raging on government lands along the Colorado-Wyoming boundary line.

Acting on the request, the Interior Department today received a telegram from Superintendent Wilson, in charge of the forest reserves in Washington State, stating that two fires were raging over the Cascade range in the Mt. Rainier reserve, and that 500 men have been fighting these fires since their inception, and extra help has been employed to battle against the flames.

In response to the telegrams from the Governors of Wyoming and Colorado, the Secretary of the Interior has ordered Supervisor Atherly of the Crow Creek reservation to assist in fighting the fire reported burning at Pearl just south of the Medicine Bow forest reserve. They will employ a large number of men to assist in the work. This is the only action the department can take.

DANGER STILL LURKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OREGON CITY (Or.) Sept. 16.—Danger in the shape of forest fires is still hovering over Clackamas county. Just above viola the flames are slowly creeping through the timber, and only another east wind is needed to fan them into fury. It is probable that the timber loss in Clackamas county will not fall short of half a million dollars. The farmers will lose an additional $200,000.

WORK ACCOMPLISHED BY THE METHODISTS.

CONFERENCE FINISHES LARGE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS.

Resolution Appointing the Rev. W. C. Gray Agent of Fund for the Support of Superannuated Ministers Provokes Warm Discussion, but is Carried.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PACIFIC GROVE, Sept. 16.—The California Methodist Episcopal Conference this morning appointed Rev. M. D. Buck superintendent of the home department of the San Francisco Sunday-school Association. Rev. W. D Crabb and John Williams were granted supernumerary relation.

A resolution authorizing the Bishop to appoint Rev. W. C. Gray agent for the fund for the support of supers annuated ministers provoked warm discussion. Gray retired last year from the ministry on account of ill health, and later engaged in business. The opposition to his appointment, which was led by Revs. F. D. Bovard, Herbert Briggs, George Larkin, G. N. Board and others, was made on the ground that the appointment of men engaged in secular work to effective places in the ministry would work an injury to the church by lowering it in public estimation. The resolution was supported by Revs. J. D. Hammon, W. S. Urey, John Coyle, J. A. B. Wilson, W. W. Case, and was carried after an animated contest.

The following were elected trustees of the University of the Pacific for the ensuing three years: M. D. Buck, W. W. Case, W. C. Evans, Thomas Filben, J. F. Forderer, H. S. Keens, J. Leiter, A. H. Needham, Joseph Sheppard, F. L. Turpin, E. R. Willis, J. C. Zuck. To fill vacancies: H. H. Bell, Henry Brace, J. O. Hestwood. University trustees reported that the tuition fee has been abolished in order to meet competition of the other California universities.

Rev. J. N. Beard was reelected president of the San Francisco National Training School and Revs. W. B. Beans, W. C. Evans, and O. E. Hotle were elected conference visitors to the school.

The following conference deacons' board was elected: Revs. A. C. Bane, W. S. Urey, W. M. Woodward, Messrs. C. B. Perkins, William Abbott, Mmes. L. J. Sims, P. C. Bovard, H. R. McLelland, C. W. Westenby.

REIGN OF TERROR.

MANY HOLD-UPS IN BERKELEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, Sept. 16.—A reign of terror is on in Berkeley. For the past two weeks hold-ups, assaults, and attempts at murder have been almost a nightly occurrence. Last night witnessed two bold attempts at robbery. Sam Fisher, a saloon-keeper in West Berkeley, was struck with a black jack without any wraning being given him. Upon his showing resistance the footpads fled, with Fisher in pursuit. After following them a couple of blocks, they turned and threatened to kill him if he did not leave them.

Shortly before that time, an unknown woman was stopped by two men thought to be Fisher's assailants.

The people are terrorized, as the police have proved themselves absolutely incapable of checking the carnival of crime.

PRESIDIO SOLDIERS.

RENEW THEIR RIOTING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—Another riot occurred at the Presidio today. Five hundred soldiers, chagrined at being molested in their attempt to destroy the saloon of Adolph Rehenfield last night, gathered in front of the place again today, and began stoning the building, breaking windows and doing other damage. Rehenfield left the saloon in charge of his wife, and proceeded to the Presidio to get aid. During his absence, the soldiers broke in the front doors, and the mob proceeded to drink up Rehenfield's stock, and to make away with the cigars and tobacco. A squad of soldiers from the reservation appeared on the scene and the riotous soldiers were ordered to their camps.

Mounted police and a guard of soldiers now patrol the district, which has been the scene of so much disorder during the past few days.

VON SCHROEDER'S CLAIM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—A suit was filed in the United States Circuit Court today by Baron J. H. Von Schroeder against the Yukon Transportation and Commercial Company to recover the sum of $66,153.41.

In the complaint, Von Schroeder alleges that at sundry and divers times between May 18, 1898, and June 13, 1902, he lent the defendant company for its accommodation and at its request, and without any time being agreed upon for payment, various sums of money, aggregating $59,959; he says that he has demanded a settlement with the defendant, but has received no part of the money. In another part of the complaint the baron claims to have sold the defendants groceries, provisions and supplies, amounting to $6704.41, for which he has only been paid $100. He demands judgment against the defendants for $66,153.41, with interest and costs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—When the writ of habeas corpus of Louis Navarro was called for hearing before Superior Judge Graham today, Navarro came forward and asked that the writ be denied, and that he be remanded into custody. BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Of Long Standing, Said to Be Incurable, Completely

CURED

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

PERMANENTLY CURED.

"744 Roscoe Boulevard, Chicago.—Gentlemen: About two years ago I had one foot in the grave, as the saying goes, and life looked pretty black to me; the doctors called it Bright's disease. I would give all I had to be cured, but nothing seemed to do me much good until a neighbor recommended that I try Warner's Safe Cure.

It was with but little hope that I tried it, but within two weeks my general health was improved, and in four months I was completely cured. I hardly dared to believe that such good fortune was mine, but I have not lost a meal nor had an ache or pain since. Words seem but poor to express my gratitude. Yours truly, H. M. STUBIG (Alderman, 27th Ward.)"

TEST YOUR URINE. If there is a reddish sediment in it, or if it is cloudy or milky, or if you see particles or germs floating about in it, your kidneys are diseased.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is purely vegetable and contains no narcotic or harmful drugs; it is free from sediment and pleasant to take. It does not constipate; it is now put up in two regular sizes and is sold by all druggists, or direct, at 50 CENTS AND $1.00 A BOTTLE.

Refuse substitutes. There is none "just as good" as Warner's Safe Cure. It is prescribed by all doctors and used in the leading hospitals.

WARNER'S SAFE PILLS move the bowels gently and aid a speedy cure.

THOS. BULLEN.

The manufacturers so firmly believe that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will absolutely and permanently cure any diseased condition of the kidneys, liver, bladder or blood, that they will send postpaid without any cost to you, a large trial bottle, if you will write Warner's Safe Cure Company, Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in The Times. The genuineness of this offer is fully guaranteed. Write the medical department for advice, medical booklet, diagnosis and analysis, which will be sent you free of charge.

SPECULATORS GRAB CALIFORNIA LANDS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—State Mineralogist Aubury makes the astonishing statement that during the last few months at least 250,000 acres of public land in the mineralized sections of California, and largely mineral in nature, have been grabbed by eastern speculators through the employment of dummy locators. In the tracts thus secured are included many actual mineral claims, on which California miners have located and have prepared to do the assessment work necessary to perfect title under the United States mining law.

The speculators, Aubury says, are not even timber men. They have seen that there is a great future for mining, and that the surface of California, having hardly been scratched over for gold and other metals, there are untold millions of dollars awaiting the owners of these lands in the future. The Mineralogist therefore advocates having the public domain all withheld from timber entry in this State until there can be an inspection to determine how the lands should be properly classified, whether as timber, mineral or agricultural, and he will move in that direction.

Complaints have been received in the office of the State Mineralogist from miners in the counties of Siskiyou, Shasta, Sierra, Plumas, Stanislaus, Tuolumne, El Dorado and Calaveras concerning the operations of the land grabbers in these counties. Hardship has been inflicted upon miners who are poor and to whom the filing of a protest in a land office of the United States means a journey of scores of miles and the expenditure of many dollars.

Today, Aubury said that his first move would be to put in the field in the counties where the timber-claim speculators are operating all the field deputies that the condition of the appropriation for the State Mining Bureau will permit. Skilled men will be sent out with instructions to inquire carefully, and thoroughly in order that the facts relating to the several mining counties may be put in his possession as promptly and as accurately as possible. This mass of data will furnish the basis of the representations to be made to the General Land Office at Washington.

DEATH DUE TO VIOLENCE.

Result of Debauch of Millionaire Fish.

Thomas J. Sharkey Held for Supposed Crime

Men Quarreled, but Whether Fish Was Struck or Stumbled is Unknown.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Nicholas Fish, millionaire, diplomat and descendant of one of the best-known of American families, died at the Roosevelt Hospital at 3:25 o'clock this morning, as the result of an injury received in Erhardt's saloon, No. 25 West Thirty-fourth street, yesterday. Whether he was murdered or fell the police have not yet determined.

Conflicting stories, such as would naturally follow an event in which criminal responsibility must be placed, are told, but there seems to be no doubt the Fish had a quarrel with a private detective named Thomas J. Sharkey, who joined the banker at a table, where he had been for several hours, drinking with Mrs. Libby J. Phillips and Nellie Casey.

Mrs. Phillips, 38 years old, Mrs. Casey, 30, and Sharkey, 48, were arrested early today in connection with the case.

According to the police, Fish entered Erhardt's saloon, No. 25 West Thirty-fourth street, yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Casey. The police say that Mrs. Phillips knew who Fish was, but that neither Mrs. Casey nor Sharkey, who subsequently joined the party, were aware of his identity. The police say that Fish did most of the buying. He discovered that his money was exhausted, and announced that he would have to draw a check. Sharkey, ignorant of his identity, questioned his ability to make the check good. Fish, it is said, took offense at this, and angry words ensued. Then, according to the police, some one slapped Fish's face. One of the women, clinging to Fish's arm, dragged him to the sidewalk.

The police say that Sharkey attempted to get at Fish, but was for a moment restrained by the other woman. He finally went out of the saloon, and encountered Fish on the sidewalk. Sharkey's hat had been knocked off, and he was bareheaded. There was a scuffle, by whom commenced is not known. Fish fell, or was knocked down, his head striking a flagstone. Just before the scuffle, Mrs. Casey, becoming alarmed, hurriedly left the party. Sharkey boarded a street car. He was closely followed by Mrs. Phillips, who was carrying his hat. Fish was lying unconscious on the sidewalk when a policeman appeared. Fish's identity was not learned until the hospital was reached, and his clothing searched. He was entered as a private patient.

Mrs. Casey, Mrs. Phillips and Sharkey were arraigned today in the Police Court, and were held for the Coroner. Coroner Jackson held Sharkey in $10,000 bail and Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Casey in $500 bail each as witnesses.

Sharkey made the following statement preliminary to his arraignment:

"I went into Erhardt's, and saw two women with whom I am acquainted. They called out when they saw me, 'Come over, and have a drink.' I went over and sat down with them, and after I had talked some this banker, Fish, seemed to take offense at my being there. We had a few words, and all at once he drew off with his arm and struck me. Then we both got up. I went out one door and he the other. He must have stumbled down the steps and fallen in going out."

Coroner Jackson made an examination of Fish's body. He said no fracture of the skull had been found. He believed death had been due to paralysis of the brain, caused by a blow on the left side of the face or head. He thought that if Fish had fallen on a step or pavement and been injured, the skull would probably have been fractured. The Coroner said that a knockout blow usually caused paralysis or concussion of the brain. The pupil of Mr. Fish's right eye was dilated, while the left was contracted and that, the Coroner said, was a symptom of paralysis of the brain.

Dr. O'Hanlon, Coroner's physician, performed an autopsy. He found that death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage due to violence.

Fish, who was 53 years of age, was the descendant of one of the oldest and most distinguished of American families. His grandfather, Col. Nicholas Fish, fought with distinction in the battle of Harlem Heights, Saratoga and Yorktown, and his father, Hamilton Fish, was the first Secretary of State under President Grant. After several years of diplomatic service, Nicholas entered the banking business in this city in 1887. Of his brothers, Hamilton is former Speaker of the New York Assembly, and Stuyvesant is president of the Illinois Central Railroad Company.

LOOKS BAD FOR SHARKEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The police think they can establish the fact that a blow from Sharkey's fist caused Fish's death. Detective Trojan, who made the arrests, declares in an affidavit that Sharkey admitted to him that he struck Fish. Both the women made sworn statements, but these Dist. Atty. Jerome has refused to make public.

The inquest will be held Friday. Mrs Fish, who was completely prostrated, remained at the hospital all night, and this morning went to her home in Irving Place, accompanied by her brothers-in-law, Hamilton Fish and Stuyvesant Fish.

The funeral will be held tomorrow in St. Marks' Church, in Second avenue. The burial will be in the family plot at Garrison, N. Y.

The New York State Society of the Order of the Cincinnati, of which Mr. Fish was president, has issued a general order requesting members of the order to attend the funeral.

FIRE CHIEFS MEET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The thirtieth annual convention of the fire chiefs of the country, organized under the name of the International Assembly of Fire Engineers, began in this city today. Fire chiefs were present from many parts of the country and from Europe. Mayor Low welcomed the visitors. Chief Devine of Salt Lake, Utah, replied to the Mayors' speech of welcome. At the business session topics of interest to firemen were discussed.

REPEAL OF MARTIAL LAW.

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 16.—Sir John Gordon Sprigg, Prime Minister of the Colony, has announced before the House of Assembly and in the Government Gazette the repeal of martial law and the proclamation of the peace preservation act, which enables the government to control the possession, importation and registration of all arms and ammunition.

the suggestions that I have heard against any changes in the tariff. While I have been against a general revision, recognizing the wisdom of President Roosevelt in his first message to Congress, in which he advised against it, I have never been opposed to making needed changes, and I am not, I must say, and emphatically, that I do not believe a single schedule of the Dingley tariff law can be so amended as to relieve the people from the oppression of trusts or combinations of capital, however named, and that such action might involve the retarding of our expanding commerce, and the getting and holding of foreign markets.

"Indeed, I believe such plan to be fraught with grave dangers to the people. I am a firm believer in reciprocity. I worked with untiring zeal to secure reciprocal arrangements between Cuba and this country, and I was successful in passing it through the House. The Senate did not act on the bill, because consideration of it would have permitted the opening up of the whole question of tariff revision. The House has nothing to say about the ratification of treaties, but the reciprocal resolutions upon which it legislated in respect to Cuba were not in the nature of treaties, but they were reciprocal agreements, in which, I think, our country would have the best of the bargain, although doubtless they would have been of great advantage to Cuba.

"While I cannot speak for the prospects of favorable action on the bill sent to the Senate, I hope and believe that by a treaty the same result may be accomplished, and I have no doubt that President Roosevelt is now working on the question of a treaty with Cuba to give that struggling young republic needed help, a help, too, in which, while they will be gainers, we will not be losers. And now, let me say, and let there be no misunderstanding as to my position:

"I believe in protection that will protect the hand of labor, the wheels of industry, every farmer and miner, and I am against wicked corporations that would trample upon the rights of people to fair play, and the fruits of honest efforts. I am against unnecessary legislation that would throw my country into panic and bring back the horrors bequeathed to us by the last Democratic administration.

"In conclusion, I desire to say that after a careful study of conditions and political views in Iowa, and in my own district, I am satisfied that I am not in harmony with a great many of the Republican voters who believe that free trade in whole or in part will remedy the trust evil. I believe that it will not, but that such a remedy is likely to involve the nation in dangerous results, and so believing, I feel that I should not accept the nomination for Congress, which was so generously tendered me, and I have decided accordingly. I cannot part from a people that I have loved, and that have honored me without leaving an expression of my earnest and sincere views on this and other vital public questions.

[Signed] 'D. B. HENDERSON."

EXAGGERATED DIFFERENCES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Director George E. Roberts of the United States mint, the principal owner of the Des Moines Register, a paper which has advocated tariff revision, speaking tonight of Speaker Henderson's action, said:

"This action of Speaker Henderson is incomprehensible. I am wholly unable to account for it. He was sure of reelection. His withdrawal of course would emphasize and exaggerate the differences that exist among Iowa Republicans, and is to be especially deplored on this account. Gen. Henderson has a strong hold upon the affections of our people. Whatever differences of opinion existed on account of the tariff, no one has thought of his retirement from public life."

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 16.—Gov. Gage and staff will attend the State Fair here Thursday, September 18, that occasion being designated as Governor's day. Dr. Pardee of Oakland and Franklin K. Lane of San Francisco, Republican and Democratic nominees, respectively, for Governor, have been invited to be present on this occasion.

ASPIRANTS COME FORWARD.

RACE FOR SPEAKERSHIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Speaker Henderson's announcement that he will not be a candidate for reelection to Congress this fall was the biggest political sensation that Washington has had for a good while. The idea that he is refusing to run because Mr. Henderson cannot agree with the administration as to tariff revision does not get full credit. Washington political folk seem to think that Speaker Henderson is finding himself dropping off in popularity, through his course in Washington, and that this falling off has affected his strength in his Congress District in Iowa, where ex-Gov. Horace H. Boise is running against him. Boise is the most popular man in all Iowa, Democrat or Republican, and has twice carried Speaker Henderson's district in his race for the Governorship of that State.

Speaker Henderson's retirement from Congress will mean a great fight for the Speakership, in which conflict the forces of tariff revision and anti-tariff revision will line up for various candidates.

Representative Littlefield of Maine will take the lead at an early date, and will have behind him at least a part of the administration's strength, on account of his supposed connection with the President's plans for Federal control of trusts. Mr. Littlefield, however, has several times opposed his party in the House on party questions, and the remembrance of this will drive some support away from him. There are a good many staid old party men in the House who will not support any political "free lance" for Speaker.

In opposition to Mr. Littlefield will be at least one man from the East. He will be Representative Sherman of New York, who was a candidate against Henderson two years ago, and who was defeated. Sherman is an excellent parliamentarian, and has considerable popularity in the house. Then, from the Middle West will come at least two candidates. Representative Cannon of Illinois, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, will be one. He is one of the oldest members of the House in point of service, and has long desired to end his career in the House by serving as Speaker for one term at least. Representative Hemenway of Indiana will be another candidate. He is a young man of dark visage, and his chances will rest entirely upon his great ability, because he is entirely without personal magnetism.

DOVER (Del.) Sept. 16.—The Democratic State Convention today nominated the following ticket:

Congress—Henry A. Houston.

State Treasurer—Joseph A. Hossinger.

Auditor—J. T. Lowe.

The contest hinged on the nomination for Congress, Houston defeating ex-Congressman Handy by a majority of two votes. Because of the split in the Republican ranks the Democratic leaders claim to be able to elect their Congressional candidate in November, and consequently there was a scramble for the nomination.

UTAH DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PROVO (Utah) Sept. 16.—The Democratic State Convention today nominated Judge W. H. King of Salt Lake for Congress; Maj. Richard W. Young, formerly of the Supreme bench in the Philippines, for Justice of the Supreme Court, and adopted a platform in which trusts and beet sugar were prominent features. The platform also extends the sympathy of the Democratic party of Utah to Mrs. McKinley.

No reference was made in the platform either to W. J. Bryan or 16 to 1, but the Kansas City platform was indorsed, and the cheering which greeted Bryan's name when mentioned by Chairman Fowers showed the feeling of the party toward the former leader. The convention, as regards contests, was absolutely devoid of features.

Both nominations were made by acclamation, and the platform as presented was adopted without amendment and amid much enthusiasm.

A resolut on offered by a Salt Lake delegate requesting the State Central Committee to arrange, if possible, a series of debates during the campaign between United States Senators Rawlins and Kearns, was carried with a spell of applause, and it is said that the challenge will be in behalf of the senior Senator.

Former United States Senator Frank J. Cannon, who was selected as permanent chairman of the convention, bitterly denounced the Republican party for its friendship to trusts and its tacit approval of the "murder of the innocents" in the Philippines.

GREATNESS OF NATION.

DUE TO REPUBLICAN PARTY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HARTFORD (Ct.) Sept. 16.—Senator Platt presided over the Republican State Convention which met here today. In his address to the convention, after eulogizing the State administration, Senator Platt referred to the unexampled prosperity of this country, and continued:

"In wise administration, in substantial development, in international influence, we lead the world today. What other issue does the Republican party need to present. The one overwhelming issue of this campaign is the indorsement of the Republican administration of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

"Recognizing the force of this, our opponents are indulging in a most frantic hunt for some other issue on which to go before the people. When we restored the gold standard and reestablished the credit of the nation on solid foundation, its free-silver issue disappeared with the clouds. When we gave Porto Rico popular and representative government, when we put down rebellion in the Philippines, established civil government there, clothed its inhabitants with all the rights guaranteed to our own citizens by the Constitution and started it on the road to popular and representative government, its paramount issue of imperialism became but a dissipated fog.

"The difference between the Republican and Democratic parties in the matter of trusts may be stated thus: The Democratic party proposes to destroy trusts and the business conducted by them; the Republican party proposes to regulate trusts and the business conducted by them, so that no unfair advantage shall be taken of the people of the United States and to the full limit of its constitutional power it will carry out this policy."

SAINT AND JOSS.

Christian and Buddhist Observations in New York—Gorgeousness of the Imported Candles.

[New York Post:] Long-ago missionaries, whose chronologic notions were a little bit confused, declared that Buddhism was a palpable imitation of, if not a deliberate steal from, Christianity. Besides the similarities in tenet were those in ritual and ceremony. This likeness may be seen by any New Yorker for himself. The heavy immigration of Neapolitans and Sicilians has produced several little Italys in New York, which celebrate the festas of home with more enthusiasm even than is observed in the fatherland. A feature of these celebrations is the presentation of votive candles to patron saints and to the Virgin.

On the other hand, in Chinatown nearly every grocery store carries a stock of oriental votive candles, which are presented to Buddha; the Goddess of Mercy, Qwang Yin; the God of War, Qwang Ti, and the God of Literature, Man-Mo-Mew. These candles are made to suit all tastes, as well as all conditions of the pocketbook. They range from poor, cheap little red affairs, like the Christmas tree candles, up to stately creations, four, five and six feet in length. The Italians use both red and white, while the Chinese confine themselves almost exclusively to red. They use white and yellow upon special occasions, a white candle being symbolic of death, and a yellow one of heaven, or the Son of Heaven, who is the emperor of the celestial kingdom.

Formerly both the Chinese and Italians depended for their candles upon importing merchants. In the last few months the manufacture has sprung up in this city, and now attains fair proportions. In many respects the New York candles are better bits of workmanship than the imported ones. The latter are usually softer and greasier than the former, and produce a smoky light. The home-made are manufactured from stearin, paraffin or wax, although the last-named substance is growing into disuse. The finest quality imported from China are made from insect wax, specially perfumed, while one variety of the Italian imported is made from clarified wax of fine quality, perfumed with the mild scent of blossoms.

Both Italian and Chinese employ a candle which is really a shell within which the candle itself is placed and held in position by means of a helical spring at the bottom of the shell. These shells are often profusely decorated and are strikingly handsome. The Italians prefer as ornamentation leaf work and geometrical patterns, while the Chinese like minute bas-reliefs of men, gods, dragons, mountains and landscapes. A handsome shell with candle within ranges from $1 up to $50, according to size and workmanship. It is durable and is used as an ornament in a church or a joss house for many years.

IT WAS RANSCH'S DAY.

FIRST IN EVERY RUN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 16.—Jockey Ransch was nearly the whole show in today's racing, as he came first in every running event, although he was set back to last in his first run for interfering with Loyal S on the stretch. His greatest victory of the day was his ride on Dolly Welthoff, in the closing event, when he defeated the same field of horses in which she was a poor third in last Saturday, when the same distance was made in 1:14, half a minute slower than todays' time.

The harness events were slow, inasmuch as they went to the winners in straight heats without hard driving in any instance. The trot in the 2:30 class proved an easy thing for Princess, with Rosalind second and Ilolio third.

Harry J, superbly driven by H. Hogoboom, took the pace in straight heats, and with his handling, never showed a symptom of skipping during the entire route. This is the second instance event the horse has taken at the meet, as he won the 2:15 pace Saturday with the same driver. Hogoboom's services have been engaged to handle the horse at the Stockton fair. Jim Gore, with Ransch up, came first by two lengths in the third race, but as Ransch had tried to herd Loyal S off the track coming down the stretch, his [illegible] was placed last and the race given to Loyal S. M'GOVERN-CORBETT FIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Sept. 16.—Atty.-Gen. Pratt today filed suit for an injunction to prevent the contest between Terry McGovern and Young Corbett from being held. The case will be argued before Judge Fields on Thursday.

It is expected that a decision will be handed down promptly in order that the status of the contest can be determined at once. Should the decision be against the match, the fighters' attorneys say the case will be taken at once to the Court of Appeals, and will be pushed through in ample time for the contest.

BARR WILL COMMAND.

AMERICA'S CUP DEFENDER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Capt. Charles Barr, the well-known America's cup skipper, who sailed Columbia against the Lipton challenger, Shamrock II, will again serve the New York Yacht Club next year in the international match, as he did last year, says the Herald.

Barr has been engaged by the interested officials to take charge of the new boat that is selected to defend the cup.

SOON TO SEND CHALLENGE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton for another series of races for the America's cup, will be forwarded within a few days, so as to reach the New York Yacht Club October 1.

MILLED STEEL HULL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Confirmation was forthcoming today of the report that the hull of the Shamrock III will be milled steel instead of manganese bronze, as in the case of the previous challengers. The new yacht's design does not differ materially from those of the previous Shamrocks, although there is some divergence from the old lines forward. The new boat will not be so costly as the Shamrock II.

National League Magnates.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The National League magnates met in conference here today, and adjourned without having decided as to the future as regards the American league situation. The absence of Frank D. Robison of St. Louis and James Hart of Chicago is said to have blocked whatever action was to be considered. John T. Brush announced that another conference would be held September 24, at which both Robison and Hart would be present.

Woodlay Defeats Connolly.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Eddie Connolly, American, was defeated here by Tom Woodlay, English, after eleven rounds of hard fighting, for a purse of $2000 and the 140-pound championship.

JOYCE-WILCOX DISPUTE:

WHICH WROTE THE POEM?—PLAGIARISM, PAST AND PRESENT.

BY OLIVE LOGAN.

[Specially Contributed to The Times.]

AMONG pedestrians in Washington you observe a man with white hair, a grave physiognomy, a complexion bronzed with the suns of sixty summers, a figure of noble proportions, which seems to have preserved in all essential particulars the vigor of its prime, and which is indued with a costume of civil life that in color and cut distinctly recalls the uniform of our boys in blue, to which equipment the button of a Grand Army veteran gives the keynote. This popular citizen is the celebrated poet, soldier, man about town and general good fellow, Col. John A. Joyce, whose controversy with Ella Wheeler Wilcox regarding the authorship of the poem beginning, "Laugh, and the world laughs with you, weep, and you weep alone," has now reached what appears to be the culminating stage of acrimonious acuteness. In support of his claim to wear the bays which an appreciative public has accorded the poet who has enriched current literature with a set of stanzas not unworthy of Burns himself, Col. Joyce has obtained signed statements from a score of notable men, whose veracity is beyond question, in which the writers asseverate that they heard Col. Joyce recite the verses at periods ranging from ten to twenty years before Mrs. Wilcox is said to have composed them. In rebuttal, the poetess offers to give $5000 in Col. Joyce's name to the cause of charity, if he can produce an unmutilated copy of any printed paper, magazine or book, in which the lines appear, during the early period in which he claims they were verbally current. As they purport to have been dedicated to George D. Prentice of the Louisville Courier, in 1865, it certainly does seem strange that, as is alleged, there should exist no trace of them in the columns of that very literary journal. To Mrs. Wilcox's proposition, Col. Joyce makes the following pungent reply:

"The periodical bluffing card of Ella Wheeler Wilcox, offering to charity $5000 if any one can prove that she composed my poem, 'Laugh, and the World Laughs With You,' does not fool anybody that knows that she sued the John Church Company, a wealthy music firm of Cincinnati, for 'great damages' in 1885 for so-called 'copyright;' and was verdicted for all costs by the decree of the United States Court. John A. Joyce, Washington, D. C., August 24, 1902."

Like Queen Elizabeth pressing her crown on her brow when she was dying, Joyce is holding fast to his disputed sovereignty by causing the first and second lines of the poem to be carved upon the gravestone which will mark his last resting place in a Washington cemetery; while friends of Mrs. Wilcox tell us that the surest way to make that poetess laugh—"on the other side of her mouth"—is to refer to Joyce and his invincible fighting attitude respecting the authorship of the philosophical little lyric.

Hardly any other dispute in literary annals is quite similar to this. Both "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," and "Beautiful Snow" had many claimants, but the authorship of neither of them was, as in the present case, narrowed down to two furious disputants, each hotly harrowing the other during almost a score of yearss. Like the insect world, as exemplified in flies, gnats and innumerable parasites, the stealing author delights in suction; and the process has been approved by high authorities. "If I think as Plato thought," said Montaigne, "then the idea is as much according to Montaigne as according to Plato;" Chaucer's obligations to the Italian and Provencaux poets are unbounded; Shakespeare stole his plots; in Milton every scholar perceives a classical derivation. There is scarcely one of the cadences of Pope in which you cannot find the echo of Dryden or of Cowley. Read Tasso, and you think of Virgil; real Virgil and you think of Homer; read Plato and you find the Christian dogma, and even encounter certain evangelical phrases. In the old fabliaux are to be discovered the originals of the tales of Moliere, La Fontaine, Boccaccio, and of Voltaire. The dying words of Rabelais, "I am going to see the Great Perhaps," is only a repetition of the "If" which is inscribed on the portal of the temple at Delhi. Langles, the Orientalist, in his "Voyage d'Abdoul Rizzac" helped himself unblushingly from Galland's "Arabian Nights;" Lefebre de Villebrun, in his translation of Athenaeus copied 6000 notes from Casaubon's critical works; De Saintange, in his translation of Ovid's "Metamorphoses," borrowed about fifteen hundred verses from Corneille, and a still greater number from Malfillatre. Malte-Brun, in his famous work on geography, copied literally, but without giving credit, the remarks of Gosselin, Lacroix, Walckenaer, Pinkerton and Plussant. Mme. De Stael's famous "architecture is frozen music" is borrowed from Goethe, who took Vetruvius's rule that the architect must not only understand drawing, but music. Byron, who has been called "a Croesus of creation," is full of echoes of Dryden. The line at the beginning of "The Corsair"—"far as the breeze can bear, the billows foam"—is almost identical with a passage in Dryden's "Hind and Panther." Edgar Allen Poe accused Longfellow of plagiarism, basing his charge upon Longfellow's poem on the Sea-Weed, in which Longfellow's "Drifting, drifting, drifting, on the shifting currents of the restless main" bears a certain resemblance to Poe's "flowing, flowing, flowing, outward like a river;" and, again, Longfellow's "Art is long and time is fleeting" is said to have been inspired by an exequy on the death of his wife by the bishop of Chichester.

Poe was accused of stealing from Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner:"

"They all averred I had killed the bird,
that made the breeze to blow;
'Ah, wretch,' said they, 'the bird to slay,
that made the breeze to blow!'"

Poe:

"Be that word our sign of parting, bird or fiend," I cried, upstarting;
"Get thee back into the tempest, and the night's Plutonian shore——"
Quoth the Raven: "Nevermore."

The classics have been drawn upon ad infinitum, but there are few who will suspect so learned a derivation of that fine old verse in the popular Scotch ballad of "The Drowned Lovers:"

"Thou art roaring ower loud, Clyde water, thy streams are ower strang;
Make we thy wrack when I come back, but spare me when I gang."

This is a translation of Martial's epigram on "Hero and Leander," where the prayer of Leander is the same: "Parcite dum propero, Mergite dum redeo."

The learned Dr. Paley says: "In philosophy, he discovers who proves; in mechanics, he invents who puts in practice; in art, he originates who beautifies."

What is originality? Can there be evolved from the recesses of the understanding or of the spirit in any department of rational effort, distinct revelations of which the world has no conception? Such an idea is the chimera of an obsolete philosophy. To plagiarize is an almost inseparable characteristic of the poetic faculty; but the transcription, word for word, from the effusion of another, such as either Col. Joyce or Mrs. Wilcox has put into execution, is an imposture which, when once discovered, can only be met with a limitless scorn.

IT PAYS

To look into things. You may have been buying somebody's shirts under the impression that none could be as good. Maybe we've got better. You may have been buying some certain make of hat for years and took it for granted that there couldn't be anything as good made. Maybe there can be, or maybe as good a hat may be bought for less. You may have been having your suits made by some old-fashioned tailor and be paying him $40 to $60 for a business suit. Maybe we make a strictly up-to-date suit which will please you better, and make it from the same material, for $20, $25 or $40. It might pay you to drop in and see what a first-class cash house is willing to do.

SHOWING CALIFORNIA TO ALL THE WORLD.

THIS IS THE TIME FOR EVERY-ONE TO UP-BUILD.

All Sections Must Know Each Other and the East Must Know it All—Advertising the Great Drawing Power. The Red Corpuscles.

[SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

Only a small percentage of the inhabitants of California were born in the State.

Of all the people born outside of the State a very small percentage previously lived in a State as large as California; only those coming from Texas.

California on the basis of mere superficial area ranks second, but square miles are no true measure of the bigness of a State.

Manifestly it would not be fair to measure California by the same scale as States which have been in the process of development several times as long. The only true measure for California is a careful consideration of her resources—her present development serving simply as an index to what may reasonably be expected.

It is not the purpose of this article to give figures to prove this position; the writer believes that it is irrefutable and he further believes that the upbuilding of the State depends on intelligent work with this idea behind it.

First of all, the present inhabitants of the State must be made to realize more fully the sort of country in which they live. The orange men of the South must know the truth about the northern citrus belt; the Angeleño must be told that his earliest deciduous fruit comes from the north. Until residents north of Tehachepi are convinced that there is something south of the range besides climate they are bound to be breeders of trouble, for, while acting honestly enough when talking to inquirers, they will be misinforming them, and the southerner will naturally resent it. These instances are cited to show the importance of thoroughly educating residents of the State about the State as a whole. No one questions but what the misinformation which is sometimes put afloat is the result of ignorance—for it is inconceivable that a resident of one portion of the State would deliberately attempt to besmirch any other section.

This educational work must be carried on by the local press of the State. It must not be done spasmodically, but with a constant purpose. Each paper should make it its duty to present to the world in an attractive form all of the facts regarding its special field which are likely to interest residents of other sections of the State or the country at large. This sort of newsy information when reprinted by the other papers will furnish just exactly the style of educational matter which is needed. More or less of it will be used by eastern publications, and thus the educational effect will be broadened.

The enlightenment of the rest of the country must proceed at the same time and a great deal can be done by the press of the State, more particularly the metropolitan dailies.

But the most of this work will have to be done by the eastern press. This means that paid advertising will have to be used to a very considerable extent. It is advertising—paid advertising, with display type and attractive designs—that is responsible for the information already disseminated concerning the State. Telegraphic news has helped. Our peerless climate has helped. Wonderful achievements in engineering have helped. The hundreds of unique industries have helped. The thousands of letters sent East to local papers from people who have become enamored of the country have helped. The shipments of fresh fruit and canned fruit and dried fruit have helped. The big conventions have helped to educate the country about us—to advertise California. Enough, the list might be extended indefinitely. There are literally hundreds of forces which have contributed to establishing California's present preëminence. But any one of these forces or any dozen of them, or all of them would not have produced the effect which has been secured if they had not been welded together by the greatest of all—ADVERTISING.

No State, as a State, has ever been advertised so generally. No name used to designate any particular section of the globe has ever been so thoroughly dinned into the ears and displayed before the eyes of the world as this word CALIFORNIA. And you are part of it. Being so, is it good business sense for you to attempt to alter the good opinion which someone may now hold of any particular part of the State. Remember that the reputation has been built for California as a whole—a State hundreds of miles long, embracing every variety of climate known to the eastern resident and others of which he has merely dreamed, offering him all of the eastern vocations as well as hundreds which are as mysterious to him as those of the Orient.

The thing to do now is to turn this general information into practical channels—bring people here and build up the State.

We have been planting for years, cultivating and watering, pruning and tending with care. Now the harvest is ready. We must go out as one man to gather the rewards.

That is the impelling idea behind the concerted movement of the leading citizens of the State to take advantage of the present prosperous conditions of the country. The public bodies from end to end of the State are working along these lines.

These organizations may be likened to the framework or skeleton of the human body—you and I give this framework its vitality; the people of the State are the life-giving blood, each individual representing one of the corpuscles. There are bound to be a few of the white variety—the kind that tear down and destroy, but the red corpuscles—the ones that vitalize and maintain the body, are in the ascendency, they are growing constantly stronger.

Be a red corpuscle, be an upbuilder, not a down-tearer.

HOW THE TIMES TREATS LABOR.

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES regularly pays to its skilled, reliable and acceptable workmen wages that average from $3.75 to $4.50 per day for time work, and from $4 to $5.50 per day for piece work. These rates are higher than are paid by any competing newspaper; and another advance has recently been agreed upon. The Times pays larger sums weekly, monthly and yearly for labor than any journal in all the Southwest. Its cash disbursements on this account between August, 1890, and the end of September, 1901, aggregated $1,807,020.81, and its annual expenditures for labor of all classes, both skilled and unskilled, now average more than $175,000 per year. There never has been any attempt, in any quarter, to deny these specific and telling facts, and the proprietors challenge such denial if made. Not for years has The Times had any trouble with its workmen, who are independent of unions, loyal to their employers and themselves, well satisfied and prosperous. The Times controls its own business in its own way, subject only to the laws of the land; and no interference with that control can be lawfully or justly made. The result of its fixed policy has proven highly beneficial to all concerned, and the justness and correctness of its course have for years past received public approval in most marked and conspicuous ways, the circulation and advertising patronage of the paper steadily and largely outstripping that of all local rivals.

THE TIMES-MIRROR COMPANY.

H. G. OTIS, President and General Manager.

Since no attempt whatever has ever been made in any quarter to refute, or even dispute, the accuracy of the foregoing authoritative statements, our defeated maligners are estopped; and the public is amply warranted in giving no credence to contemporary hostile assaults upon The Times management in the matter of its relations to its workmen, or vice versa. Falsehood must yield to truth.

BUSINESS.

The credits exchanged at the Los Angeles clearinghouse yesterday amounted to $808,473.46, as compared with $597,733.27 for the corresponding period of last year. These figures denote healthy growth in the business activity of the locality.

Long holders of wheat at Chicago sold a good deal of stuff to scalpers, who weakened the market by dumping it, but trade was not large in the aggregate. Dealings on the New York stock exchange fell below half a million shares. The Gould group, Wisconsin Central, Amalgamated Copper and some steel stocks were strong.

LOGIC THAT IS LAME.

A peculiar argument has been advanced in supposed opposition to the proposition to pay the principal and interest of the water bonds by a general tax instead of out of the waterworks income fund. The idea is put forward that, inasmuch as something like $44,000 has been diverted from the waterworks fund to various city funds, and in view of the further fact that a reduction of 10 per cent. in water rates is proposed for the near future, the entire amount of the purchase price and interest should be paid out of the water revenues instead of by the city at large.

This is an argument which is likely to have a rather different bearing than it was intended to have. If the sum of $44,000, or thereabouts, has already been taken from the water revenues to meet general expenses, there is all the more reason for not saddling upon the depleted waterworks funds the additional burden of the principal and interest of the water bonds. The entire water revenues are needed, and will be needed for some time to come, to meet the heavy expenses to be incurred for extensions and betterments of the service. All the more will this be true if the proposed reduction of water rates be made, for the water revenues will thereby be reduced in the proportion named. These improvements should not cease until Los Angeles has a water system second to that of no city in the country. Water, and plenty of it, at reasonable service rates, is the one thing needful to make Los Angeles one of the most beautiful and attractive cities in the world.

The people will willingly pay approximately the present rates for a time, if assured that the money will be judiciously expended for improving the distributing plant and the service. When these improvements shall have been accomplished, and we have in operation an entirely modern, up-to-date and efficient water system, it will be both possible and feasible to make a radical reduction in the rates—perhaps at 50 per cent., possibly even more, and certainly a very liberal amount. If all the funds derived from water rates be used for improving and extending the system, the time when water rates may with perfect safety be much reduced will not be far in the future. If the water revenues are to be made to pay the entire cost of the system, in addition to the cost of maintenance, extensions and betterments, it will probably not be found feasible or safe to reduce the water rates until the last of the purchase bonds has been paid off and retired, forty years hence. This is certainly not a pleasant prospect for contemplation by those who voted for the purchase bonds with the understanding that under municipal ownership it would be possible to reduce the water rates materially in the near future.

It is regrettable that any of the water revenues should have been diverted to the payment of general municipal debts, and no more money should be taken from the water funds for such a purpose, for all the income from the water system is needed for extensions and betterments, as heretofore explained. But it is the weakest kind of an argument to say that, because some of the water revenues have already been wrongfully diverted, and because a 10 per cent. reduction of water rates is contemplated, the water consumers, from whom the entire waterworks income is derived, should be compelled to pay the purchase bonds and interest, in addition to paying the enormous expense of improving, extending and modernizing the system. Reasoning of this sort is very likely to react with something like boomerang effect upon those who advance it.

As The Times has heretofore pointed out, it would be no more than fair for the city at large to pay the expense of extending water mains into new territory—or, at least, to pay a part of that expense. But this is not asked nor expected. All that is proposed is that the taxpayers of the city at large shall assume the cost of the water system, amounting to $2,000,000, with interest thereon at 3½ per cent., leaving the entire cost of extending and renewing mains, improvement of pumping plant, development of additional water, and the general betterment of the whole system, to be paid by the water consumers alone, who furnish the water revenues. Surely this is not an unfair nor an unreasonable proposition. If it be once submitted to the people fairly and squarely, they will undoubtedly indorse it by a vote which will be practically unanimous.

The New York Supreme Court has decided that cab and hack stands are not the property of hotel and restaurant keepers, and that those feeders and sleepers of their fellow-men cannot legally grant any special privileges regarding the public streets in front of their places of business. This is certainly common sense, and if it hasn't been the law all along, then the law has been derelict. The hotel men and the other feeders ought to be able to keep themselves tolerably busy inside the house, without extending their leases over onto the property of the public. And, apropos, when the millennium arrives there will be no stands on the streets for horses anywhere, but the equines will be kept secluded from the public gaze and sent for only when needed. The horse ought not to be on the street at all, unless moving. Standing still for hours in front of business houses he is an unmitigated nuisance, and the abolition of cab privileges ought to be brought about elsewhere than in New York. The horse in motion is a fine animal, but when alive and used as a statue he fails to fill the bill by considerable.

The record of assaults and murders in the coal fields is stretching out to about the length that usually attends labor troubles, no matter where they are located. And, as usual, it is the non-union men, who are trying to make a living in an alleged free country, who are the victims of the thugs and assassins. Until a man is permitted to work for whom he pleases, and for what wages he is willing to accept, liberty is but a mockery and law a thing to be laughed at. It isn't quite settled that the mob is to rule in this country, but we are frank to say that there are moments when the squint is decidedly in that direction.

The British and American tobacco trusts have locked horns and are going to give us the fragrant weed to burn at a merely nominal price. The smell of the smoke will be pleasing to American weed burners.

OPPOSITION THAT HELPS.

If the opponents of Dr. Pardee can offer no stronger objections to his election to the Governorship of California than are advanced by the San Francisco Bulletin—which for some occult and inexplicable reason best known to its managers is urging the election of Mr. Lane—the people of California should elect Dr. Pardee by the largest majority ever given to a candidate in the history of the State.

All the reasons set forth by the Bulletin as an incentive to voters to cast their ballots for Mr. Lane, apply with equal, or with even greater force, to Dr. Pardee. The arguments advanced in opposition to the candidacy of Dr. Pardee are without exception sophistical, groundless, and absurd. The San Francisco Bulletin places a very low estimate upon the intelligence of California voters if it imagines that they are to be influenced by such clap-trap.

What the Bulletin says in favor of Mr. Lane is in the fullest sense applicable to Dr. Pardee. "He is a man who made his own way in the world, and who has come into contact with all classes of men. He knows the poor and the rich, the farmer and the mechanic, the ignorant and the educated. His mind leans naturally to the side of the plain people whose life he has lived and whose needs he has seen and felt. He is not a demagogue, however, but a man of principle and honor. Neither too conservative nor too radical, he is liberal, practical, open to new ideas, far-seeing and sincere, and is likely to make a safe but progressive Governor. No one need fear that, if elected, he will prove to be a revolutionary or an anarchist. On the other hand, no one need fear that, if elected, he will prove to be a tool of corporations and a representative of the classes instead of a representative of the whole people."

And again, Dr. Pardee is "a man of sound common sense and wide experience." He is "a university graduate, and is personally very capable of filling the high office which he seeks. He has a good mind, he knows men and affairs, he has a strong will and a positive character. He has never been the puppet of any political boss and, if elected, will acknowledge only the people as his master." This prediction may be made with assurance, for Dr. Pardee's "character is formed, and what he was yesterday he will be tomorrow."

The most serious allegations that the demagogic and insincere Bulletin can bring against Dr. Pardee is that "in youth he received none of those hard knocks which teach, while they hurt, and which have so much to do with fashioning character. Like other sons of rich men, he went through school and college in the regular way. He never had to worry about his board bill or his spending money, nor did he rummage the city for second-hand text-books. He could afford to buy new books. After graduating from the university he went to Europe and studied medicine in German universities. He then came home to California and commenced to practice as an eye and ear specialist."

Now—in the language of the prophet, "wouldn't that jar you?" It is a new idea—at least in this neck of the woods, that in order to be properly qualified for Governor a man must "worry about his board bill or his spending money." The Bulletin does not declare specifically that Mr. Lane has worried about his board bill. There are, in fact, some people who prefer to let their landlady worry about things of this kind. We do not desire to be understood as asserting, or even intimating, that Mr. Lane is this sort of a man, but the species is not altogether rare.

Then, again, as to the matter of text-books. Is it necessary, in order that a man shall be considered good gubernatorial timber, that he shall have "rummaged the city for second-hand text-books?" Is there anything in the exercise of rummaging, for the purpose mentioned, that is calculated to develop gubernatorial talent? Is there any particular virtue in second-hand text-books? Do they contain anything more—with the possible exception of microbes—than first-hand books? Are not new books almost as good as old books, if one can afford to buy them?

And does going to Europe and studying medicine in German universities necessarily disqualify a man for the office of Governor? Is it not rather to the credit of Dr. Pardee, than otherwise, that he has consecrated his life to toil, in an arduous profession, notwithstanding the fact that he was not driven to that necessity through worrying over his board bill?

The Bulletin's statement that Dr. Pardee, if elected, "will represent only the richer class of people," is too silly for serious consideration. The same objections which it urges against Dr. Pardee might be urged with equal force—which is no force at all, to use a sort of Hibernian paradox—against President Roosevelt. The President probably never rummaged his native city for second-hand text-books, nor worried about his board bill, nor allowed his landlady to worry about it. But he is doing tolerably well as Chief Magistrate of the nation, in spite of these defects in his early training.

The San Francisco Bulletin has only begun its opposition to Dr. Pardee. As the combat deepens it will probably "throw up" against him the fact that he never robbed henroosts nor rummaged the dog-kennels of his native city in the capacity of dog-catcher. We shall, alas! be obliged to admit even these damaging charges. Let the people decide.

Now that the tourist season approaches isn't it about time for the proper authority to set about the trimming of trees that droop over the sidewalks, to the damage of pedestrians, and to their disgust as well? If we mistake not, it is in the power of the Chief of Police to compel property owners to keep the trees in front of their property properly trimmed—such being the case, there never was a more propitious time than now for the able head of the police department to show his authority. There are miles of sidewalk in Los Angeles that are all but impassable by pedestrians, because of the sweeping branches of pepper and the penetrating spines of the palm. The work of tree trimming ought to be vigorously prosecuted before the tourist gets here with his family and begins to make unsavory remarks about the way we do things in Los Angeles. Trim those trees!

The Clark-Daly feud in Montana seems to have been perpetuated in the Clark-Heinze feud, which is just now becoming quite warm in spots, with Senator Clark on one of the spots, and the juvenile but ambitious and more or less wealthy Mr. Heinze on the other spot. Montana without a big row on, between its men of millions, would bear no resemblance to the Montana of the public imagination. What the outcome of the present imbroglio will be remains to be seen. As for the spectators, they can look on and see millions bucking against millions, with every prospect that the biggest wad will win in the end. Meanwhile, Senator Clark is sending his swans to Los Angeles to be wintered, along with some Canadian snow geese and four cranes of distinguished birth. They at least will be safe from slaughter.

Although hod carriers are presumed to be a bit slow in their motions, when it comes to asking for an advance in wages they are as swift as the fabled antelope. They have set the pace for the other expert craftsmen—for carrying the humble hod is surely work for an expert, as nobody will deny. The painters and carpenters seem to feel that they ought to earn something nearly as much as the man with the pointed saddle on his shoulder, hence the tremulousness of contractors, and the reluctance of the property owner to begin building operations. The goose that lays the golden egg is being ripped up the back and down the middle in Los Angeles, with neatness and dispatch.

"The littles" is the newest disease to attack peach trees in the East. Incidentally it is about the oldest ailment that ever made a raid on humanity. Who shall say that there is not some close relation between plant and animal? Perhaps the peach tree caught the disease from its owner. "The littles" is so called because the leaves and fruit of the tree attacked shrivel up, and the growth of the entire organism is greatly dwarfed; the peaches are about the size of marbles. When "the littles" strikes a man, the effect is not different from that of the sick peach tree.

Just why the man who owns vacant lots in our midst should not pay his due share of the cost of the city's water plant is not entirely clear, especially to the water consumer. To compel water users to pay for a valuable property, to be turned over to those persons who make money by their inaction and failure to improve their properties, is a rank bit of injustice. This is certainly a case in which everybody should "stand in" and tote fair.

Arbitration is being tried out at The Hague before an international court and, judging by the spirit of the litigants, the outcome will be satisfactory to the parties in interest, and the cause of international arbitration will be given a good start. Should this be the first step toward the everlasting furling of the world's battle flags, humanity will rejoice and the millennium will be several days' march nearer at hand.

Blaine had his Burchard, and President Roosevelt has his Washburn. Whenever the minister of the gospel goes to dallying with politics, he not only puts his foot in it, as a general rule, but he puts his friends in a hole of large dimensions and of great depth. The shoemaker has been known to acquire a fortune before now by sticking to his last.

Millionaire sports are no better than the riff-raff in drunken brawls, and the unseemly passing of Nicholas Fish, banker and member of a New York first family, emphasizes the fact. Other aristocratic bon vivants of looseness the country over will shudder now to think of the chances they frequently take at painting red in low places.

The campaign for the Republicans has been opened in San Francisco with a bang and a duo of able speeches that covered several hours in delivery and numerous columns in the newspapers the morning after. The battle being on, it but remains for the party of Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt to win it, and win it handsomely.

Despite the disclosures of rottenness in the municipal government of St. Louis the boodlers keep right on boodling, in face of the recent disclosures which have startled the country. What Missouri appears to need just now is a generous expansion of its penitentiary accommodations.

The Republican Central Committee of San Diego is advertising for a manager "with horse sense. Experience and political record not requisite." This merely goes to show how scarce horse sense is in this world of woe and towns where Grief abides with aggravating persistency.

Mr. Gaines of Tennessee says that California is a political storm center, and that the Republicans are likely to meet with disaster. There is every reason to believe that Mr. Gaines has reference to the condition that existed prior to the meeting of the Republican State Convention.

A Chicago judge has decreed that swearing by telephone is not permissible. This is evidence that that judge never had one in his house. No man who has ever tried in vain to "get his man" on the wire could be so cruel as to render any such outrageous decision as that.

There is war at San Diego between the Navy Department and the Marine Hospital Service, over a tract of six acres of land. When the navy trots out her battleships and the hospital service her vast army of convalescents, we shall see something sanguinary that will be worth looking at.

A St. Louis judge has rendered a decision to the effect that in the hands of a woman a hatpin is a legal weapon. Should any fool of a man wield one of the pointed things, he would probably have to go to jail. How'd you like to be a girl with a hatpin?

The Omaha injunction to prohibit the picketing of the Union Pacific shops in that city by the striking machinists will give the slangwhangers, who are delegated to do the walking while others do the working, something else to roar about.

Had there been no poolroom in Los Angeles those wire tappers would not have tapped the wires. This leading of people into temptation is just as reprehensible now as it was in the biblical days. How about that poolroom, anyway?

The money market is still a bit off its feed, despite Secretary Shaw's efforts for relief. Doubtless there are many people in other sections of the country who would like a few chunks of succor also.

There are but few things in this world deader than anti-imperialism. One of them is William Jennings Bryan as a political factor in the United States; and there are a few others.

As a rule Southern California is the safest country on earth to live in with but one exception; the section of Broadway between Second and Seventh street, which needs paving.

If President Roosevelt gave each of those 18,000 callers a lemonade glass as a souvenir of Nassau county's day at Sagamore Hill, it was quite a day for the glass works, that's a sure thing.

Broadway needs paving badly enough, in all conscience, but, then you ought to take a look at Sixth street, east of Hill. There is the terror of the world in the way of a city street.

With another trolley line to Santa Monica, everybody will be able to get a seat and view the scenery, across which the city of Los Angeles is spreading in seven-league boots.

WANTED—AN EXPLANATION.

"Some people want latitude that the Bible will not allow."—Rev. Joseph Smale in yesterday's Times.

Men don't believe in a devil now, as their fathers used to do:
They have forced the door of the broadest creed to let His Majesty through:
There isn't a print of his cloven hoof,
nor a fiery dart from his bow,
To be found in earth or air today, for the world has voted so.

But who is mixing the fatal draught that palsies the heart and brain,
And loads the earth of each passing year with ten hundred thousand slain?
Who blights the bloom of the land today with the fiery breath of hell,
If the devil isn't and never was?
Won't somebody rise and tell?

Who dogs the steps of the tolling saint, and who digs the pits for his feet?
Who sows the tares in the field of time wherever God sows His wheat?
The devil was voted not to be, and of course the thing is true:
But who is doing the kind of work the devil alone can do?

We are told that he does not go about as a roaring lion now,
But whom shall we hold responsible for the everlasting row
To be heard in home, in church, in state—to the earth's remotest bound,
If the devil, by unanimous vote, is nowhere to be found?

Won't somebody step to the front forthwith, and make his bow, and
How the frauds and the crimes of the day spring up, for surely we want to know?
The devil was fairly voted out, and of course the devil is gone,
But simple people would like to know who carries his business on!

Giant Paris Store.

Two powerful searchlights can be seen from all quarters of Paris every night. One is that of the Eiffel tower and the other, which is almost as powerful, is that of Dufayel's store, one of the most interesting centers of French commerce, both on account of its magnificent decoration and because of the system of business practiced there.

It is a credit system. For a small sum—generally the fifth of the whole price—anybody can purchase whatever household goods he may require and settle the balance by weekly installments, varying from 30 cents to $4. But it is not only to these facilities of payment that the Dufayel establishment owes its rapid success, but more especially because the customers are fully aware that they will not have to pay more in purchasing on credit than if they paid ready money. This system of payment by installments is appreciated, therefore, by both rich and poor, and more than 3,000,000 customers have placed orders with the firm. Three thousand clerks are employed in booking and sending off these orders, which amount to $26,000,000 in the course of the year. In order to attract and retain this vast custom, M. Dufayel has not hesitated to expend large sums, and has built on a large piece of land, measuring 38,000 square yards, an enormous store, 120 feet high, divided into floors, separated into courts, and decorated with a profusion of statues and paintings by great modern artists.—[Architectural Record.

Reported Discovery of a New Disease.

A Diplomat Tells of the Continued Troubles in China.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The government has received some brief advices about the appearance of an entirely new disease in Uganda. It is such a serious disease that the British government has sent out from London a special commission to make an examination of it and report to the British health authorities. The local authorities in Uganda seem entirely unable to understand, let alone to cope with, the new malady, which is frightfully dangerous and fatal. It is called "sleeping sickness," because when a person is taken with it he goes into a drowse and never awakens. Meantime, until death intervenes, the patient has a remarkably high fever that resembles, somewhat, malarial fever, but it does not yield to treatment. Even the cause for the disease—whether it is spread by insects, rats, food or water—cannot be ascertained by the local health officers. So prevalent is it that Dr. Cook, one of the noted physicians of the country, says that if he were to go upon the street thirty out of the first hundred persons whom he met would be almost certain to be in the first stages of the disease, and probably fifty out of the first hundred would have it in their systems. Twenty thousand persons have died of the disease in one province alone during the last eighteen months.

The Washington health authorities have not given much thought to the new disease, because they have but the scantiest information about it. In Japan, however, it has attracted a great deal of attention, and the Japanese health authorities believe that it is spread by rats. The Japanese physicians seem to hold to their opinion, expressed some time ago, that the world is upon the verge of an epidemic, because of the prevalence of rats upon the face of the earth. For many years it has been a fairly well-established medical fact that rats are great carriers of epidemic diseases from one country to another. They are always to be found on shipboard, and when they are not on shipboard they frequent the evil sewers of the great ports of the world, through which all kinds of disease germs flow. The Japanese have gone into the matter rather deeply in the last two years, and they find that, taking the world over, rats are more numerous than they have been in two or three generations past, and, furthermore, that rats are dying extensively of cholera, bubonic plague and other epidemic diseases.

Uncle Sam has for a long time owned the biggest brick building in the world. It is the Census Office. There are plenty of bigger buildings, of course, but this is the biggest brick one. Maybe the second biggest brick building in the world is the new Government Printing Office, that is just receiving its finishing touches. Statistics as to its comparative size have not been figured out yet, but it is known that it is the biggest printing office in the world by all kinds of odds. It is the biggest printing office, so far as space occupied is concerned, so far as capacity for turning out work is concerned. It will also turn out more work every year, and employ more men and women than any other printing office in the world. It now employs about 4000 people, and one-third of them are women.

Congress four years ago appropriated $2,429,000 for the construction of the new Government Printing Office. The appropriation was made because experts kept declaring that the old building was apt to collapse at any time, on account of the immense weight carried on its floors, and the immense amount of machinery that had to be operated in it, from cellar to garret. The amount appropriated was thought at the time to be exceedingly large, and a singular and unusual thing has happened in connection with the work. The building, completed, will cost $29,000 less than was appropriated for it. The number of times that this has happened in the history of public buildings is very small, and the officials who had charge of the work are proud of the record. The building is 408 feet long and 175 feet wide. It is seven stories high, contains 400,000 feet of floor space, and 12,000,000 bricks were used in its construction. No less than 14,000 000 pounds of steel were used, and in addition, the construction work took 2,500,000 pounds of cast iron and 45,000 barrels of cement.

The Government Printing Office was established because along about 1881 the volume of printing that the government needed done was so large that no private institution in the country could handle it. So the printing had to be distributed among a number of firms, and the result was that no uniformity of work could be established and maintained. The first Government Printing Office employed only about 200 persons, and John Defrees of Indiana was the first Public Printer. It is estimated that the new building will be large enough to accommodate the office for a good many years, no matter how fast the business of the government develops.

An eminent diplomatist, who is just back from China, tells your correspondent that the troubles of the civilized powers of the earth with that people have not come to an end. The Chinese people, he declares, cherish bitter resentment toward the foreigners. They are gradually arming themselves and organizing into factions as they always have done. The Dowager Empress now an old woman, who holds them in check through her masterful diplomacy, is holding the people in check and convincing the powers of the earth that the present supposed development of China is due to the spirit of progress in the Emperor. This diplomat, however, says that the Emperor of China amounts to even less in the government of China than was supposed some time ago. He is now a man about 36 years of age, but such has been his life, under the influence of the Dowager Empress, that his mind, is that of a boy of 15, and his development, mentally, seems to have been entirely arrested. He is surrounded by influences that keep him under absolute control, and when the influence of the Dowager Empress is removed the cover will blow off China and civil war will follow almost immediately, with the different clans of Chinamen fighting among themselves and all fighting against foreigners and Christians. The picture painted was indeed a most dismal one, and this diplomat, whose opinions are entitled to complete respect, says that in a few years at the outside, the "yellow peril" which Europe has dreaded for years will become very real. For that reason he says that the powers need not pride themselves in upbuilding commerce in China, for all commercial relations established now will be wiped out in the rearrangement of China after the death of the Dowager Empress that he says, all civilized China must be subdued, and after that there will be opportunities for trade and business. He believes, too, that in the process of being subdued, China will be divided among the powers of the earth, Russia, of course, taking the largest and best share in Manchuria.

WHO TAPPED THE POOL WIRES?

Several Suspects Under Surveillance.

Detectives Hunting for C. L. Matfeldt.

Told One of His Friends That He Was Off for Mexico.

Suspected of having some knowledge of the tapping of the wires leading to Black & Co.'s poolroom, Charles L. Matfeldt is anxiously sought by the active force of Los Angeles. The detectives had a number of men under surveillance for several days, and it was not until Monday afternoon that they got an inkling of the suspicious circumstances surrounding the actions of Charles Matfeldt.

For over a year Matfeldt has been employed by Burch and Fitzgerald in the "bucket shop" in the Stimson building, and was one of their trusted men. His salary was $25 a week, and his hours were so short that he had plenty of time to double his income by working afternoons and evenings for the Western Union and the Santa Fé Railroad. Matfeldt did this for a time and was supposed to be in easy circumstances, until it was learned that he was playing the races and stocks with all his spare money.

As related in The Times, the wire tapping of Black & Co. were the cause of a large sum of money on one race. The method was detected, but the perpetrators of the swindle had escaped. The landlady of the lodging-house over Black's, who let the room where the wire tappers in which they worked, was, for some reason, able only to furnish the most meager description of the lodgers, and, on suspicion, three men were taken to the station and questioned.

So far as known, Matfeldt's movements after the wire tapping leud to the belief that he started for Mexico. It is believed to have spent most of Monday night in the tenderloin district, but was seen little during Sunday. On Sunday evening, however, Mr. Collins, an employé of Burch's, met him near the corner of Grand avenue and Seventh street. He encountered Matfeldt, and the latter was carrying a small grip. He was glad to see Collins, but was visibly agitated. About the first subject broached by Collins was the disaster that overtook Black. He states that Matfeldt told him that he was then on his way to Mexico, and after a little more one-sided conversation bade Collins good-by.

Collins held his peace for a time, but finally told others when he found that Matfeldt did not come to work Monday morning as usual. Traces of him have not yet been found.

The missing man is dark, has dark eyes, a small black moustache, rather stout; height 5 feet 7; weight between 160 and 165 pounds, large eyes—slight build, wears glasses, usually dark clothes, has a rather stubbed nose, high cheek bones, square jaw, and when he is usually smiles at once before replying. His age is 26 years. His dress is usually careless. When last seen he were dark clothing of bluish cast, a striped shirt, soft felt hat of dark color, and his patent-leather shoes were unblacked and had cracks across the top. He writes what is known as a telegrapher's hand, cannot be told from a line when writing, and joins his letters with a downward sweep of the pen. It is writing the letter M of his name he usually does not connect with the rest of the word, and the f has a sharp at the bottom instead of a loop.

Matfeldt's friends in the city, and there are many, were greatly surprised when it should be wanted for examination, but they recall that he has borrowed large sums of money ranging from $50 to $100 of late, and has not paid them back. One of Burch's employés also states that Matfeldt borrowed $50 before his departure. This man does not regret the loss so much as he deplores Matfeldt's action. He had taught him telegraphy in Kansas City, and when Matfeldt was a messenger boy he also got him his job with the present employers.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has increased its standing reward for the wire-tappers, and will make every effort to locate Matfeldt. It is believed he should have succeeded in getting to Ensenada, and Matfeldt can probably stay long in Los Angeles or environs without being apprehended. The police would very much like to see him. They believe he is still in the city.

OLD BREWER'S SUICIDE.

Brendell, Who Fought With the Boers in South Africa, Blows Out His Brains.

It is believed he was hounded by secret-service agents of the British government, and fearing that they would cause him trouble, if not take him to England for trial for an imaginary offense, M. Brendell, an inoffensive old man, placed the muzzle of a revolver in his mouth yesterday afternoon and blew out his brains. The deed was enacted in a vacant room on the rear of a saloon at East First and Aliso streets. Brendell had many times threatened suicide, and to some of his friends he had told why he was going to take his life.

He came to Los Angeles last May from San Antonio, Tex., having gone there from New Orleans. Early in the Boer war he shipped on a mule transport to South Africa. He then deserted from the British lines and joined the Boer forces, and, after a year's fighting he deserted his colors and, passing through the Transvaal territory, boarded a ship for New Orleans. His drank heavily and the liquor affected his mind. This led him to imagine that agents of the British government were pursuing him, and for that reason he left New Orleans and later left San Antonio. From there he reached Los Angeles he resumed at his trade for a time, but soon lost his position. His money gave out, he became despondent and told many people that unless he could get away from his pursuers he would kill himself. He made good his threat yesterday. He left a letter to the secretary of the brewers' union of San Antonio asking that he be given a decent burial, but making no reference to the real cause of his suicide. It is known that he had any relatives in this part of the country.

MUCH-WANTED BOODLER.

Anxiety to Win Reward Offered for Arrest for the Missing Kelly Puts Police on False Trails.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16.—A rather uneventful day passed in the boodle investigation. The members of the House of Delegates who failed to appear before the grand jury yesterday were examined today in regard to the city lighting bill and street-railway legislation. The grand jury is looking into all phases of the city-light scandal in an endeavor to secure enough evidence to indict the millionaire givers of the $47,000 bribe paid to the members o fthe House combine.

There were several false clews as to the whereabouts of Charles F. Kelly brought to the attention of Attorney Folk, but they all turned out to be of no value. On telegraphic announcement that the much-wanted man was in Little Rock, Ark., the Circuit Attorney wired the Chief of Police to take him into custody. It soon transpired that the man was not Kelly, and his apprehension was due to the anxiety of an individual in Little Rock to earn the $500 reward offered for the arrest of the missing delegate.

DEPUTY GRAND SIRE.

R. E. Wright Secures Coveted Honor and is Now in Line to Become Head of Odd Fellows.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Sept. 16.—The chief features of today's session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows was the selection of officers, the opening of drill contests of the patriarch militant at the fair grounds; the works of exemplification by various degree teams in Our Circle Hall, and the reunion of the past grand representatives of the order. In the selection of the officials, the only contest was for the position of Deputy Grand Sire, who, by custom, will become Grand Sire at the next session of the order. The contestants were W. S. Nye of Minneapolis, E. S. Conway of Chicago, R. E. Wright of Allerton, Pa., and Massena Bullard of Helena, Mont. R. E. Wright was chosen upon the second ballot, after a heated contest.

Snow Becoming Scarce in Colorado.

The memory of the oldest inhabitant of Boulder county does not recall a time when the snow on the mountains was as scarce as it is now. At the headwaters of the various branches of Boulder Creek heretofore large beds of snow have dwindled into small ones, and where there are usually small beds by the hundreds in the latter part of August, there is now no snow at all. Immense basins are found at Jasper Lake, Arapahoe Pass, Arapahoe Peak, Mt. Audubon, Long's Peak and intervening points. These basins rise at such an angle that the melting of the snow is gradual. At the foot of these basins are lakes of various sizes and in these the creeks virtually take their rise. There are in Boulder county many of these lakes in usual seasons, fed by hundreds of small streams, but now the small streams are not running because the snow banks have disappeared and the consequence is many of the lakes have disappeared. The glacier in the "arm chair" or Arapahoe Peak is much smaller than it has been as far as any one knows.—(Boulder (Colo.) Correspondence Denver Republican.

La Crescenta Olive Oil

The market seems to be overrun with many kinds of olive oil offered for sale. Unless you do know, it's puzzling to tell which pleases you best. In all our years of experience in handling olive oil, the one we have found to be absolutely pure, with a perfect flavor, is La Crescenta. Put up here in California, near enough to us so that we know what goes into it. We carry the foreign olive oils, too, but we can't vouch for their pureness. Every housekeeper who tries the La Crescenta Olive Oil likes it. Could we say anything stronger for it than this?

HUGGED HIS CHUM'S WIFE.

Silly Harris Shot by Angry Morris.

Bloody Outcome of a Dinner Party.

Bullet Passed Through the Groin of Los Angeles Jeweler.

Walter T. Harris, jeweler at First and Main streets, was shot in the groin and painfully injured yesterday afternoon by Thomas Morris, who caught him in the act of embracing his wife. The shooting occurred at the home of Morris, on West Twenty-first street, near Figueroa. Harris narrowly escaped death, the bullet passing through the groin and just grazing the femoral artery.

Harris has himself to blame for his trouble, and Morris did only what many another husband would have done under similar circumstances. Mrs. Morris, judging from all the facts that the detectives have been able to obtain, was without fault, but was made the victim of a drunken impulse on the part of Harris, and her husband happened to witness his action. Harris was taken first to the Receiving Hospital, and later removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital. Morris was locked up, but it is doubtful if he will be prosecuted, because from the first Harris refused to make any statement of the shooting, even after he was taken in charge by the police.

The two men had long been friends, both having come from the same district in London. Yesterday afternoon they met in the Mineral saloon at First and Main streets, and Morris invited Harris to accompany him home to dinner. The invitation was accepted, and Morris telephoned his wife that he would have a guest.

When they arrived at the Morris home both men were intoxicated, and before dinner they and Mrs. Morris proceeded to drink more. The result was that when dinner was announced Morris was almost unable to take his seat at the table. He had had a quarrel with his guest, whom he charged with getting him drunk. Harris and Mrs. Morris went to dinner, and at the conclusion of the meal Mrs. Morris went to the bathroom to wash her hands. Harris followed her there, and while her back was turned threw his arms about her and hugged and kissed her.

Just at that moment Morris appeared at the door, and witnessed Harris's actions. He became enraged and ordered Harris to leave his house. In his drunken condition Harris refused to leave, and Morris told him he would put him out, but Harris defied him.

Morris then went to a dresser and secured a revolver, and at the sight of it Harris jumped him. A fight for the weapon ensued, during which the revolver was discharged, the bullet striking Harris in the groin. During the struggle Morris dislocated his thumb, and Harris was wounded in the groin.

As soon as he was wounded, Harris fled through the rear door and ran to Washington and Figueroa streets, where he telephoned to the police. The patrol wagon was sent for him, but he refused positively to make any statement about the shooting. When he reached the Receiving Hospital he told a friend what had happened, and his story was overheard by the officers. This led to an investigation, and Capt. Hennessey and Detective Auble visited the Morris residence. They found both Mr. and Mrs. Morris asleep in bed, and Mrs. Morris was suffering from a wound in the lip, where her husband had struck her, declaring that she had encouraged Harris, which she denies. Morris was taken to jail, and charged with assault with a deadly weapon. It is doubtful if he will be prosecuted, because Harris is not looking for any more notoriety than necessary, and his action in refusing to make a statement shows that he does not desire to see Morris punished. His wound is not serious.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Unknown Indian Ground to Pieces by Southern Pacific Freight and Body Found on the Track.

The body of an unknown Indian was found yesterday morning on the Southern Pacific tracks near Savannah by a rancher named Steele. The body was terribly mangled and the wheels of a freight train having passed over the head, the features were so mangled that identification was impossible. Steele notified a track walker named Quinn, and he notified the Coroner. The body was brought to the city and taken to Garrett's morgue, where an inquest was held, the jury returning a verdict of death from accidental causes, and giving no clew to the identity of the deceased.

From the position of the body on the track it is supposed that the Indian was walking and was struck by a freight train. Several trains had passed over that track during the night.

MINES AND MINING.

NEW MOVEMENTS IN MOJAVE MINING CAMP.

GROUP OF CLAIMS PURCHASED BY THOMPSON & BOYLE.

Old Dominion Company Closes Down and Globe Camp Now Out of List of Active Producers—Big Dredging Plant in Colorado.

The transfer of three claims in the Mojave mining district, on the desert, to Thompson & Boyle, has just been recorded. According to the terms of deal just consummated, the Gold Blossom, Tip Top and Silver Top claims, situated about a mile southwest of the Exposed Treasure mine, the pioneer of the camp, were sold by Nelson Crow for $12,000 cash. The property adjoins the Independence and Queen Esther and is regarded as a favorable prospect.

Thompson & Boyle now have eight of nine claims in the district, and are preparing to open them up.

This district is one of the new gold belt in this end of the State, and it is only in the past few months that it has made any claim for special consideration. Owing to the scarcity of water, it is not yet a poor man's camp, despite of the fact that there are some very valuable deposits already exposed. It is considerable expense the Exposed Treasure Company has piped water to its mill, a distance of somewhere like fifteen miles, and now another operator is planning to bring in water.

C. C. Calkins of this city and C. E. Potter are preparing to open up several claims, but before doing so have arranged to bring in a large amount of water, and have practically closed for this work.

Calkins and Potter have already opened up rich ore on the Accident and Revenue. A 100-foot shaft on the latter claim, which adjoins the Exposed Treasure property on the south, is in ore, and on the Accident some fine rock was encountered in an eighty-two-foot shaft recently sent down. They are also preparing to open up the Hand and Defiance claims with quite extensive workings, it being the intention to go as deep as 800 feet with cross-cuts.

The Echo Mining and Milling Company, under the management of George Hooper, has just installed a forty-ton Bryson mill, that will be in operation at an early date. This company, which owns a dozen valuable claims in the district, recently purchased the Gray Eagle, Gypsy and the Evening Star claims, paying close to $70,000 for the property. A New York syndicate, backed with ample capital, is carrying on the work, and there is every indication that this will develop into one of the big properties of the State.

Some ore has been shipped recently from the Bob Tail claim, owned by Dave Crighton and George Hooper. Forty-five tons of this pay rock was sent north that netted close to $100 to the ton.

Work is in full swing at the Exposed Treasure camp. On the Yellow Aster claim, John McNichol, superintendent, recently opened up a virgin vein of rock that has a pay streak from two to five feet in width, carrying values that average from $90 to $60 to the ton.

GLOBE CAMP SUSPENDS.

The low price of copper is said to be responsible for the suspension of operations at Globe by the Old Dominion Copper Company. As a result of this shut-down, 500 men are thrown out of employment, and not a wheel is turning.

It is safe to predict that the camp at Globe has been removed from the list of copper producers for the next twelve months, at least. The Black Warrior company has closed its plant, the Phelps-Dodge interests are represented by only a few miners, and now the Old Dominion, the main corporation of the camp, has shut down.

In a special from Globe the situation is outlined as follows:

The reason given out by the company was the prevailing low price of copper and the extortionate railroad rates demanded by the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railway, with which the company has been carrying on negotiations for a lower rate for some time, but without avail. No doubt this is the immediate cause, and the company has taken advantage of it as a reason for the close-down.

The Globe Miners' Union, at a meeting last week passed a resolution boycotting the Globe Silver Belt, one of the weekly papers of Arizona, whose owner is J. H. Hammill. Each member of the union who subscribes or patronizes the Globe Silver Belt will be fined $5 per week. Not long since the union forces marched an employé of the company through the streets of Globe and threatened him with violence unless he continued to pay his subscription. Such acts as the above placed the union in bad repute. That organization has gradually come under the control and dictation to the point of Globe and in this have reached the limit. Friends of the company have been driven from the ranks of members by the radical measures adopted by the labor organization. This is responsible in no small degree for the close-down at Globe."

The Globe Union has been a permanent organization for years. A couple of years ago its membership was a body down to the office of Consul Parnall of the Old Dominion company, and threatened to call him out on the spot, unless he resigned his place of action in some small matter in the administration of the company. He resigned his place and it is estimated that it had cost him after he had left about 400 superiors of the property. The Los Angeles Times says that violence to the person was solicited for it. Then the acquired ownership of a paper in Globe, which fact may be a good degree for the newest fight against the Silver Belt. The journals of the Southwest, editor, J. H. Hamill, has been out of the way save to be un-American and vicious by the union of several who had failed to obey the manager's bosses. And Editor Hamill not been sparing in the denunciation of the scoundrels who run Arizona on a rail because they control the Legislature, had not been willing to their dictation. The Globe Board, had not been the bounty in which it is situated. It is interesting to note that as soon as he was relieved by the railway depot. Beard was appointed a receiver and herded his former associates before him down to the court, and that he remained in charge until he was fully ready to turn the affairs of the Old Dominion over, which will result in the practical dissolution of Globe.

UNDERTAKING ON COLORADO

In the next few days the largest dredging plant in the world will be put in operation on the Colorado River, fourteen miles north of Yuma.

The Bullion Bar Dredging Company, organized for the purpose of testing the sands of the river, with a view to recovering their gold values. The company has been at work for some time past, installing the big dredge, which was purchased by the Advance Dredging Company some years ago, but never used. The boat that carries the machinery is thirty-eight feet by 110 feet.

W. W. Smalley, who is one of the interested parties, has been in the city for several days, purchasing supplies. He declares that the attempt soon to be made is more in the nature of a test. If it is successful, it will open up a large field for operation.

"Indications on the river are excellent," said Mr. Smalley, "and we have reason to believe that the sand will be found to be highly mineralized."

WILL DREDGE HASSAYAMPA.

Local and Prescott capital is interested in a scheme to dredge the Hassayampa River, in Arizona, for gold. A company, known as the Gold Dredging Company, has been incorporated, and arrangements are now being made to begin operations.

For many years miners have been working the rich bars and gravel beds of the Hassayampa River, in a desultory way, by means of sluicing and dry washes, and it is said that upward of half a million dollars in gold has been taken out in this way.

The company has acquired control of about 1000 acres of the river bed in the Walnut Grove district, where it is the intention to erect a Risdon dredger and operate the property in a systematic way.

Such dredges are now being operated in a very successful manner in Montana and California, and there seems to be no reason why the rich gold-bearing sand and gravel of the Hassayampa River could not be made to yield up its treasures.

G. P. Drew of this city is now in New York in the interest of this company.

JOAQUIN GROUP SOLD.

Local capital has purchased the Joaquina group of gold mines, located at Real del Castillo, Lower California. Eulogio Romero, a merchant and banker of Ensenada, has been in the city several days arranging for the transfer of the property.

The purchasers have organized the Joaquina Gold Mining Company, with L. H. Mitchell as president; Frank L. Ferguson, vice-president; Whiting Thompson, secretary, and R. S. Dyas and J. Burris Mitchell, directors.

The Joaquina group is situated about thirty miles from Ensenada, and is regarded as a prospect with considerable promise. It adjoins the San Nicholas mine on the west. The latter property is also owned and is being operated by a local company, which has met with great encouragement since commencing development.

Remarkable Locomotive Record.

The average performance of a locomotive in this country is a little over 20,000 miles a year, but an engine of the London and Northwestern Railway Company, designed by F. W. Webb, has just completed its second million miles, equal to 100 years' service on the ordinary basis. This is the Charles Dickens, well known to most travelers who journey between Manchester and London. Early this month it completed the five thousand three hundred and twelfth trip, in addition to 186 other trips, and during the whole of its career no passenger riding behind it has suffered any accident. It is a wonderful record, and demonstrates the marvelous care with which our railways are conducted. Its speed has gradually been increased from forty-two to fifty-one and one-third miles per hour, while the weight of the train has been augmented. The engine is only twenty years old, having been turned out of Crewe on February 6, 1882, and during its career it has been in few hands.—[Engineering.

A GIRL'S PROBLEM.

How to Feed Herself When Running Down.

"I am a stenographer!" that statement brings up a picture of long hours of tiresome indoor confinement, close mental concentration and subsequent exhaustion and brain fag. Then comes up the food question.

A young lady in Dayton, Ohio, writes, "Some time ago I was a stenographer in a large city retail store and having the responsibility of the office work resting largely upon me, my health began gradually to decline, and I stood facing the difficult problem of finding relief of some kind or leaving my situation. Worry added to my trouble; I became dyspeptic and nervous and suffered with insomnia and restlessness at night.

"I was speaking of my illness one day to a trained nurse, who commended that I begin a systematic diet of Grape-Nuts at once as she had seen its beneficial effect upon several of her patients who had suffered as I did.

"So I began to use the food conscientiously. It formed my entire breakfast with perhaps Postum Coffee or some other nourishing drink and a second dish was taken at the evening meal. In about two weeks' time I began to feel stronger and more hopeful; my digestion and appetite were better; I was less nervous and could sleep. I continued the diet steadily and soon courage and vitality began to revive and once more I began to think success lay somewhere in this big world for me.

"My work grew smoother and easier, and after seven months of this diet I could do almost twice the amount of work in a day and do it easily and without feeling exhausted.

"Today I am filling a much more responsible position and do the work easily and satisfactorily. I attribute it all to Grape-Nuts, which I still continue to use. For a palatable and healthful diet, there is nothing on the market to equal it, and the fact should become of common knowledge." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Dissolves Uric Acid

Rheumatism is the result of an excess of uric acid in the system and before rheumatism can be cured this excess of uric acid must be dissolved and eliminated. A medicine to do this must not injure the stomach or any other part of the body and there is only one preparation on the market that will do this and that is

Uricsol

A uric acid solvent.

OAKLAND, CAL., April 1, 1902.

I take unlimited pleasure in adding my testimony to the value of your preparation, URICSOL. Six years ago I had an acute attack of sciatica, which, after three week of intense suffering, developed into an inflammatory condition of the muscles. I was able to move only my eyes and hands for fourteen weeks, and was confined to my bed for six months. Since that time I have suffered more or less and tried, I can say, almost every known remedy. In fact, I spent $1000 in searching for relief. About one year ago my attention was called to URICSOL by a friend who had obtained relief by its use. I used three bottles and have found apparently permanent relief. For a year I have suffered no pain and the grit and stiffness have all disappeared. I have not felt so well in years. Very gratefully yours,

MRS. G. L. THAXER.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Ninth and Flower.

J. A. Graves has sold to A. W. Rhodes, through the agency of Enoch Pepper, a lot 170x182 feet, on the northeast corner of Ninth and Flower streets, unimproved; consideration named, $36,600.

On Courtesy.

"Courtesy in the Home" will be the topic of a lecture by Mrs. Ada R. Band Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at No. 438½ South Spring street, under the auspices of the Catherine Booth W.C.T.U.

Credit Men's Meeting.

The next monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association will be held the evening of the 23d inst., preceded by a banquet at Levy's at 6 p.m. G. Witherspoon will make a statement of the work of the recent convention of the National Association of Credit Men at Louisville, which he attended. W. J. Hunsaker, Esq., will deliver the address of the evening, his subject being "Attachments and Garnishments."

Two Counties to Levy.

The Chamber of Commerce yesterday received word from the Board of Supervisors of Ventura and Santa Barbara counties that the 5-per-cent. levy for funds for the St. Louis World's Fair had been granted within their jurisdiction. For Ventura county this will amount to betwen $1700 and $1800. The chamber will appoint two delegates to the National Irrigation Association Convention, which is to take place in Colorado Springs October 6-9.

"Kid-gloved Christianity."

The nightly revival meetings conducted by Evangelist C. J. Hall at the Memorial Baptist, corner of Twentieth and Grand avenue, are attracting good audiences, and there have been several conversions. The Denver evangelist is one of the most unique expounders that ever visited Los Angeles, and says some rather startling things. Last night he spoke on "Seeking the Lost," denouncing the "kid-gloved Christianity which keeps men aloof from those beneath them."

Works' Silver Card.

A quiet little ceremony took place in the parlor of the Nadeau yesterday, in which Lew Works of this city was made the recipient of a handsome tribute in the pregence of about twenty local and San Diego Elks. W. M. Smith of the San Diego lodge came up during the day especially to present Mr. Works with a beautiful silver plate, engraved with the latter's name, it being a life-membership traveling card from the hands of the San Diego Elks. It is a token of esteem and good-fellowship, which is no doubt highly prized by its possessor.

Secret of Collapse.

The cause of the collapse of the famous Campanile of St. Mark's in Venice has just been discovered. Dr. J. H. Davieson, one of the heavy-weight citizens of Los Angeles, who spent the greater part of the summer in Europe, ascended to the top of the great pile which had withstood the tooth of time for a thousand years, a few months ago. There has been much speculation as to what caused it to fall so soon after the doctor's visit, but since it is known that he was one of the last persons to climb its spiral stairways, the inference is that the weight of his ponderous form was too much for the crumbling walls and they gave way under the strain.

BREVITIES.

This is the last day of the Spiritualist camp meeting at Sycamore Grove, and there will be a rousing meeting. The ladies will have charge of the exercises during the afternoon, and all the mediums will be present and assist in the exercises. Moses Hull, conceded to be one of the finest and most logical expounders of the doctrine of Spiritualism, will close the exercises in the evening with one of his logical discourses, proving Spiritualism from the orthodox Bible. If you miss this lecture, you miss a rare treat.

The Adele (No. 318 S. Broadway,) will open Friday, September 19, with as choice and beautiful an assortment of imported and domestic pattern hats as will be shown in the city. Tailored hats, and bonnets for elderly ladies, are given especial attention, while our prices are such as to suit all. The ladies of Los Angeles and adjacent towns are cordially invited.

Wild With Eczema

And Other Itching, Burning, Scaly Eruptions with Loss of Hair.

SPEEDY CURE TREATMENT

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay, itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent Pills to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp and blood humours, with loss of hair, when all else fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair, and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter, and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura remedies are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

I have cured cases of weakness that had every appearance of being beyond medical aid, and these are the cases that I take great pride in curing. No matter who has failed to benefit you, come to me, and if I say your case is hopeless, then and not until then is your life blighted. The main causes of weakness are overwork, stricture, varicocele, enlarged inflamed prostate, results of abuses and excesses, and badly-treated disorders. Owing to my vast experience, I am enabled to properly locate the cause of any case of weakness, and to effect a speedy return to the patient of manly vigor.

MANY WEAK MEN suffer from a loss of vitality which has for its underlying cause a diseased condition of the vital veins which supply the life blood of power. I CURE VARICOCELE in five days, and without a single failure. Its attendant nervous disorders disappear and in turn. BATTLE FOR LIFE LOOKS HOPELESS.

Senator Bard's Condition About the Same, and No Encouragement Given by Physicians.

At 1 o'clock this morning the following bulletin was given out by Dr. Taggart with the statement that no more would be issued unless a change occurred for the worse:

"Senator Bard's condition unchanged. Sleeping."

Senator Bard's condition is no better—and no worse.

No favorable symptoms developed yesterday, aside from a slight clearing of the lungs.

Dr. Taggart, the physician in charge, buoys his only hope on the extraordinary cheerfulness that is displayed by the patient. It is said that the chance of recovery is about one in 100.

Through the long watches of the day and far into the night the junior Senator from California, afflicted with typhoid-pneumonia, and suffering from a weak heart, obtained no sleep, and rested but little. Yet his mind retained its cunning, and, though his physical strength was at a low stage, his brain was as bright and clear as it ever was in his days of health.

On this account, and on no other, his physician finds reason to hope that the hand of death may be stayed, and that the crisis may be passed in safety.

NO SANGUINE HOPES.

The Senator is a very sick man, however. Dangerously ill, his physician says, and no sanguine hopes are held out for his recovery, despite the fact that no change for the worse took place yesterday, and regardless of the wholesome state of his mind.

Ever since the serious turn that came in the illness he contracted a few days ago at Catalina, Senator Bard has been under the watchful care of competent physicians and skilled nurses. Mrs. Bard has been constantly at his side, and he has received every attention that could be given. Yet his ailments have yielded but slightly to treatment, and the latest bulletins this morning held out no bright promises for his anxious friends.

HIGH PULSATIONS.

The only hope expressed last night by Dr. Taggart was that the rapid action of the patient's heart might be reduced to a normal state today, failing which the valvular action of the organ must fail under the strain and dissolution ensue.

For more than two days the pulsations of the heart have been at the rate of from 140 to 160 per minute, more than double the normal action, and physicians say this great strain cannot be maintained much longer. In fact, they are surprised that it has continued so long.

REALIZES HIS DANGER.

Senator Bard realized his condition yesterday, but maintained a cheerful disposition, even going so far as to joke with the members of his family, and with his physician. His only concern seemed to be that the rapid action of his heart could not be checked.

During the day a council of physicians was held, but as everything possible was being done for the patient, no change was recommended in the treatment. None of the physicians in conference was sanguine of recovery.

Three sons of the Senator and numerous relatives and friends arrived yesterday, and two daughters, Misses Anna and Elizabeth Bard, are expected to arrive this morning from Berkeley.

MIDNIGHT BULLETIN.

At midnight Dr. Taggart issued the following bulletin:

"Senator Bard's condition unchanged. Awake and restless. Has had 30 minutes' sleep. Pulse, 156; temperature, 101.2. Mind is clear, and he is cheerful."

SAME ALL DAY.

At 11 o'clock last night Dr. Taggart reported that there had been practically no change all day in the condition of the patient. The pulse at that hour was 156 and very weak, and the temperature 101.2.

"Senator Bard's case is wonderful in many ways," said the physician. "One of the most hopeful signs is the cheerfulness of the patient. His mind is unusually bright and clear, and the flashes of humor in which he indulges are decidedly grim under the circumstances. Were he to relapse into a comatose condition, I think he would pass away quickly, but there seems to be no indication of such an event. A soporific has just been administered and the prospect is that the Senator will obtain some much-needed sleep tonight. While he has rested during the day, he has had no sleep since early morning.

"If the pulse can be reduced to 130 tomorrow the chance of recovery will be greatly improved. The action of the heart has been abnormal for nearly sixty hours, and recovery, under such conditions, is very rare, probably one in a hundred.

"With the exception of the heart action, the conditions are better. The air passages of the lungs are more free, and there is a decided improvement in the typhoid condition.

"Senator Bard's recovery, if he should recover, will be by lysis, not by crisis. That is, it will be gradual. There will be no sudden change for the better."

PATIENT CHEERFUL.

MIND BRIGHT AND ACTIVE.

Cheerfulness of the patient was notable throughout the day. Though his rest Monday night had been fitful and almost sleepless, Senator Bard's mind was bright early in the morning and this condition continued during the day.

At 6 o'clock a.m., Dr. Taggart, who had been in attendance all night, issued a bulletin announcing that no apparent change had taken place, with the exception of a slight weakening of the heart action. The pulse at that hour was 140 and very irregular. It had not been under 140 during the night. Temperature was 101.6. His rest had been broken considerably during the preceding two hours.

At 9 o'clock a.m. the pulse was reported at 140, and of better volume than at any time since Saturday evening. The patient was in a jesting mood, and seemed amused at one of his daughters who was solicitous of his comfort.

Two hours later Dr. Taggart reported the Senator as resting well, but at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the pulse had risen to 158, and the temperature to 102 deg. This change was accounted for by the physician as due to various necessary disturbances made in an effort to improve local conditions. In order to reduce the temperature the patient was given an alcohol sponge bath, and this, together with examinations by the physicians, and brief visits with members of the family, had produced exhaustion.

At 11 o'clock a.m., Dr. Taggart held a consultation with Drs. George Lasher, George L. Cole, J. H. Seymour and W. W. Hitchcock. After an analysis of the symptoms the council agreed that everything possible was being done for the sufferer, and no necessity was found for making a change in the treatment of the case adopted by Dr. Taggart. The serious condition of the Senator was recognized, and none of the physicians was sanguine of the patient's recovery, although it was thought he would live through the night, and that the ensuing night develop more favorable symptoms.

CHILDREN ARRIVE.

One of the happy incidents of the day in the sick room followed the arrival of the family party from Hueneme at 1 o'clock. The Senator is extremely fond of his children, and as soon as he learned of their arrival he was impatient to see the three boys—Thomas, a manly fellow of 15; Richard, a rollicking boy of 11, and Philip, the three-year-old toddler. The trio filed solemnly into the chamber about 2 o'clock and approached the bedside of their sick father on tiptoe, fearful that they might disturb him.

But he was watching for them, and he quickly dispelled their trepidation by greeting each one with a cheery word and an embrace. He didn't say much about his illness, but told them of the fun he had enjoyed while fishing at Catalina, and he made little Richard's big eyes bulge in wonder as he related his struggles with some of the big fish in the waters of Avalon Bay. The Senator parted with the boys reluctantly when the physician brought the visit to a close.

DAY'S CALLERS.

SENATOR'S FAMILY HERE.

Many calls were made at the hotel during the day by friends of the Senator, who were alarmed and shocked by the seriousness of his condition. Among them were men who knew him in his youth, and who for more than a generation have been associated with him as neighbors, in business, and in politics. The news of his illness startled them in its suddenness and in the seriousness of its detail.

From all parts of the United States came messages of sympathy to Mrs. Bard, bearing prayers for the recovery of the Senator.

On the afternoon train from the north came the members of Senator Bard's family, who have been at the home in Hueneme. They were Thomas G., aged 15; Richard, aged 11, and little Phillip Bard, the three-year-old baby, who was in charge of a nurse. Other members of the party were Miss Malden, an adopted daughter of Senator and Mrs. Bard; E. O. Gerberding, brother of Mrs. Bard, Miss Mary Blanche Bard, a niece, and D. T. Perkins, a business associate. Other out-of-town friends of the Senator who waited anxiously at the hotel for news from the bedside were N. W. Blanchard of Santa Paula and Judge Richards of Santa Barbara.

During the day many inquiries were made at the hotel in person and by telephone by sympathetic friends. One of them was Rev. J. A. Hanna, a retired Presbyterian minister of Los Angeles. Thirty-one years ago, when Senator Bard was elder in the Presbyterian Church at Oxnard, Rev. Mr. Hanna received a call to the pulpit, and since that time there has been a strong bond of friendship between the two men.

Two daughters of Senator Bard, Misses Anna and Elizabeth, who have been attending Miss Head's school at Berkeley, will arrive this morning.

The large family party occupies all the rooms on the north and east front of the fifth floor of the Van Nuys, the room of the suffering Senator being in a suite that fronts to the north, protected from street noises and from disturbance by passers-by in the halls.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

[The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents, without holding itself responsible for writers' opinions. Be brief, write plainly, state clearly. The space of 200 words, on the average, is sufficient for the expression of an idea.]

Is Griffith Park a "Gold Brick"?

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Some six years ago, when Col. Griffith presented to the city of Los Angeles a splendid domain of over three thousand acres, to be devoted to park purposes, the City Council seemed to appreciate the public spirit of the gift, and held a special session, at which many encomiums of praise were showered on Col. Griffith, and splendid pictures were painted of the future park. It was a gift that honored alike the giver and the receiver, and the people looked forward to see work begun that would bring the scenic beauties of Griffith Park to the enjoyment of the tourist and citizens of our city.

The years have rolled on and not a dollar has been spent by the city, nor the first act done to show that we appreciate the generosity and broad-mindedness of the donor, and when Col. Griffith demanded that something be done toward its improvement, as he had a right to do, one of the Councilmen sneeringly referred to the park as a "gold brick" that had better be returned to the donor. This park is the largest tract ever donated to a city for park uses, and is today worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. It comprises nearly 600 acres of the agricultural land, and its water rights are very valuable. And yet with some very narrow-minded men this magnificent domain is regarded as a "gold brick."

If this tract is improved as it ought to be, it would become the grandest and most attractive feature of our beautiful city. There ought to have been from $25,000 to $50,000 expended every year on Griffith Park, and it would have been one of the best investments the city ever made. Los Angeles will always be a "tourist" city—even when in twenty years from now we shall have 500,000 population, and we ought to have the finest park on earth. Griffith Park, with its peaks rising 1730 feet, overlooking the sea; its cañons, and gorges; its rolling hills and lovely vales, presents natural features which, if utilized under the hand of a competent landscape gardener, would make the most attractive resort on earth.

Col. Griffith did not intend to furnish the city a paddock for mules and asses; nor to see how varied and picturesque sand pits could be dug. The terms of the gift were few and simple, and while technically the city has forfeited its right to this splendid gift, and Col. Griffith could recover the land back, I am satisfied that he would rather the city would take such action as will make Griffith Park what he intended it should be, when he made the donation. Will the city do this, or will the Council continue to spend its money on such projects as the Central-avenue market?

Let it Be Nipped!

SIERRA MADRE, Sept. 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Instead of propagating the "Mayflower" error referred to in an editorial of this morning's issue, you should nip it in the bud. It is now several years since the name of the Pilgrim ship was questioned by a certain writer of "Mayflower essays," and in January last a long article in the Boston Transcript followed in its wake, nor have I yet seen any response to it. That Gov. Bradford's history fails to call the ship by name is no more reason for doubting its name than for supposing that it had none. However, the ghost has been laid.

The earliest authority on the subject is the following heading found in the official records of the old colony. I copy from Arber's "Story of the Pilgrim Fathers:"

"The falls [by lot] of their grounds, which came first over in the Mayflower, according as their lots were cast [in March] 1623." And then follows a list of their names and the acreage alloted to each.'

Even Arber's fine compilation is perpetrating the error in regard to Richard More's name having been changed to Man; but Richard More's tombstone has been identified in the old Charter-street Cemetery at Salem, Mass., and is believed to be the only gravestone in existence of a Mayflower passenger. The October number for 1901 of the "Mayflower Descendant" contains illustrations of his grave and of those of his two wives, two sons, a daughter and two grandchildren.

The genealogists are today doing heroic work for the preservation of old records, as well as for the unearthing of them. The Los Angeles library, by the way, is woefully deficient in genealogical lore. I think it contains about half a dozen works on the subject.

A Victim of the Liveryman.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Your article, "The Stranger Within Our Gates," is very timely, but I would like to mention the way invalids are fleeced by some avaricious citizens. Last November, it was necessary for me, because of rheumatism, to hire a rig to take me from Orange street to the Arcade Depot. Time spent in transit, less than twenty minutes. For this service I was charged $3. Now, I ask any fair-minded person, if this is a proper way to treat invalids, who come here for their health, and who, in most cases, have had to give up their positions. Such extortion should be frowned upon by all who have the welfare of this sunny city at heart.

A VICTIM.

DR. PARDEE IS COMING.

Great Ratification in This City Saturday Night.

Dr. George C. Pardee, the Republican candidate for Governor, last evening telegraphed that he will be in Los Angeles Saturday, and arrangements were begun for a rousing ratification meeting in Hazard's Pavilion Saturday evening, under the auspices of the State Central and County Central Committees.

WENT FOUR WEEKS WITHOUT EATING.

JOHN A. M'FEE went twenty-eight days without food to cure a liver complaint, and last night concluded his fast by eating a porterhouse steak. McFee is a miner, and has lived in Los Angeles for the larger portion of the past twenty years, spending the balance of the time in the mountains. He has a few friends here, but has always been a man of silent ways, without having any of the seclusion of a recluse.

Two months ago McFee went to live in the rooming-house of Mrs. Burt on First street. His health has always been of the best, though for the past year he has suffered from a pain in his side. It was shortly after the first of August that he found this to be congestion of the liver. To use his own words:

"I needed my strength for certain business deals I had on, and I was willing to do anything to keep it. The pain in my side kept getting worse and worse, and I could get no relief from doctors or medicine. It was six weeks ago that I read in some health-culture magazines what fasting would do for such a complaint. The account contained the experiences of people who had gone through it, and it all sounded reasonable. When I was mining in the mountains, I frequently went without food for days at a time, and knew that I could stand it well enough. Even if it had been far more dreadful than I expected, I would have been willing to go through it to cure the liver complaint.

"But I found that instead of being something to be dreaded, it was instead a great relief. It saved me from going out for meals. Many times before I had skipped a meal without much inconvenience, which is quite a contrast to what I did in my youth when the loss of a single meal was a calamity. During the fast, though, I had no inconvenience whatever. Even the first day, which is usually a hard one, was for me without dread. Each afternoon I went out to the Sixth-street park—Central, isn't it?—and the rest of the time was spent here in my rooms.

"When fifteen days was up, the pain in my liver seemed about gone, and I half-intended to quit then. Fifteen days was the stunt I set for myself at the beginning. But I thought that if it was possible I would continue on to the end, until the pain should be all gone, that it would be a great thing for my health—and I was willing to do anything for that. After that, my friends got wind of what I was doing and used to bother me a good deal with their curiosity, though I didn't do it for notoriety. Finally, they declared that I was trying to commit suicide. So, on the twenty-eighth day, I concluded to quit, though I felt as though I could continue on indefinitely."

It was on the 18th of August that McFee commenced his fast, and on the noon of Monday, the 14th of September, he broke it by eating a watermelon. Six hours later he took a cup of beef broth, and then for twelve hours, at intervals of two hours, he took more beef broth. Waiting again for four hours, he put an egg in the broth, eating it with some crackers. A few hours later he had some fruit, a pear and two bananas. Shortly after 6 o'clock last night, he went to a restaurant, ordered a porterhouse steak and ate nearly all of a good-sized order. This was merely a respectable meal, such an ordinarily hungry man would have. Throughout the twenty-eight days he had no morsel of food, though he drank plentifully of purified water.

There is no reason to doubt McFee's story. When a Times reporter saw him yesterday afternoon, he hardly looked, at first glance, as though he had been through such a fast, though close inspection showed unmistakable marks. He has a strong face, with regular features, indicative of fine grit and a rare power of determination; well built and muscular. There is admirable decision in his chin. Yet it was the manner of his telling the story that was most conclusive. He was modest. He said he did not wish to figure in the papers, but that as long as the fact was known, he would tell just what happened, and that if he could benefit anyone else through his performance, he would be greatly pleased.

"It was worth," he said, "going through the whole thing just to get the wonderful ten-hours' sleep I had last night. I slept as I have not done since a boy. It was the untroubled and dreamless sleep of a child. And the liver trouble is all gone. I hardly know that it was ever there. Besides it has saved me board for nearly a month."

McFee is fifty years' old. When he began his test he weighed 162 pounds and when he finished, 134 pounds, making the loss twenty-eight pounds for the whole period, or one pound a day. In the beginning he lost two pounds a day, but this evened up toward the close by a smaller loss. The rooms he occupied was an inner room and quite dark. There he read or lay sleeping. Most of his sleeping was done in the day time, as he found his thoughts more active at night. "I am quite a hand to think," he explained.

Nationalists in Hawaii.

There is no place in the world where such various nationalities, and such widely different races can be found in so small an area. It is true that on the mainland such races are to be found, but not all in one spot. Few people realize how many different nationalities are to be found in our schools and that few schools are confined to one nationality. The statistics of school children give us Hawaiians, part Hawaiians, American, British, German, Portuguese, Scandinavian, Japanese, Chinese, Porto Ricans and scattering, classed as "other foreigners." The tabulation of teachers gives Hawaiian, part Hawaiian, American, British, German, French, Belgian, Scandinavian, Portuguese, Japanese, Chinese and others. The Japanese and Chinese teachers are not employed in the public schools of the Territory, but are engaged in private schools. The main body of the teachers in the public schools is American, Hawaiian, part Hawaiian and British.—[Honolulu Star.

POWER OF SOUL WHICH MAKES SOCIAL INTERCOURSE IN NEXT LIFE POSSIBLE. CONCLUSION OF ARGUMENT—HAS BEEN SHOWN SUBJECTIVE MIND HAS FACULTIES BY WHICH IT CAN SURVIVE BODY.

BY T. J. HUDSON, PH.D., LL.D.
[Author of "A Scientific Demonstration of a Future Life."]
(Fourth Paper.)

IT IS safe to say that no true lover of his fellow men, no matter in what form his love may find expression or gratification, would regard as a boon the continued conscious existence of the soul after the death of the body, in the absence of the assurance that his affectional emotions would find appropriate expression under the changed conditions. Indeed, it may be safely assumed that to the normally-constituted man or woman a life without love would seem equivalent to annihilation. Few are so abnormally intellectual as to be able to look with complacency upon the prospect of an eternity of purely intellectual activity, unrelieved by the normal exercise of those emotions which in this life furnish the only tangible excuse for being. But even the few thus constituted may find reasonable ground for hope in the facilities for purely intellectual enjoyment afforded by the faculties of the soul which we have already examined. Verily they should have their reward, and fortunately they will not be missed from the social circles presumable from the existence in the soul of the prerequisite faculties.

SOUL SEAT OF AFFECTIONS.

The normal man, on the other hand, will welcome the assurance that the subjective mind is the seat of the affectional emotions. This may startle those who have been taught that there is something inherently bad in the so-called "carnal emotions;" that they belong to the body and not to the soul, and the only way to "purify" the human soul is to utterly crush out all its salient natural emotions. The absurdity of this idea can best be appreciated by imagining an emotionless—I will not say "human soul," for that would involve a contradiction in terms—but an emotionless entity, masquerading in heaven as a representative of the human race. No sane person would care to make the acquaintance of such a being, much less to be one of them, even under comparatively favorable climatic conditions.

SEXUAL INSTINCT IS PARENTAL.

The particular emotion upon which the greatest stress is laid by such philosophers is what is called the "sexual" instinct. They argue that it is a purely bodily function, pertaining solely to this world, and consequently can have neither place nor function in the purified human soul. The fallacy of this argument consists in the fact that it is based upon premises fundamentally wrong. There is, in point of fact, no such instinct, "per se," as "sexual instinct" or emotion. What is loosely designated as such is, in its last analysis, the parental instinct, the instinct of reproduction. It has no other legitimate use and it performs no other function in the economy of nature. Its perversions alone are responsible for its evils and its name. Rightly understood, and legitimately functioned, therefore, it ranks among the purest and holiest emotions of the human soul. It is, therefore, in its very essence purely altruistic, for its every act is a sacrifice of self for the lives of others, for the benefit of future generations. Beginning with the primordial germ, it constitutes the prime factor, not only in the perpetuation of organic life and the preservation of species, but, in its last analysis, it constitutes that "constant force within," which originates species and compels the progressive development alike of organic life and of human civilization.

Parental love, therefore, is an emotion of the soul. It is the oldest emotion of organic life, and the progenitor of all the other affectional emotions—all others being resultants and auxiliary thereto. It is not of the brain, for it was the prime factor of organic life aeons before the brain was evolved. The brain, as before remarked, merely serves to register conscious emotional experiences for the uses of induction.

EMOTIONS BELONG TO THE FUTURE.

The emotions cannot be classed with those faculties which perform no normal functions in this life, for obviously they are the prime factors in the earthly life of men las well as of animals. They are alluded to in this connection, first, because they are obviously faculties of the subjective mind; secondly, because, with the intellectual powers heretofore dwelt upon, they serve to complete a personality of the highest conceivable type, and, thirdly, because they contain the promise and potency of social life in the world to come.

There remains for discussion but one other mental faculty necessary to a perfect enjoyment of such a social and intellectual life as seems possible to beings thus endowed, and that is a means for the interchange of thought. Without such facilities the essential factor of social life, as man can conceive of it from his experience, would be absent.

TELEPATHY IS RECOGNIZED.

Once more experimental psychology furnishes a conspicuous example of its value as an aid to the inductive solution of the problems of the soul. When it first compelled science to recognize telepathy, or thought-transference, or mind reading, as a power of the human mind, a great step was taken toward the solution of many mysteries of psychic phenomena. But when at length it was demonstrated that telepathy is a power belonging exclusively to the subjective mind the scope of its powers to explain the mysteries of the soul was indefinitely enlarged and apparently extended into a higher plane of existence. The points of its bearing upon the question of a future life may be conveniently summarized as follows: (1.) Telepathy is a power belonging exclusively to the subjective mind. (2.) It is obviously adapted to the uses of disembodied or unembodied intelligences. (3.) It performs no normal function in this life. (4.) It forms the missing link in the chain of evidence furnished by other psychic phenomena, of the existence in man of an entity that is endowed with transcendent mental powers and measureless potentialities.

TELEPATHY IS SPEECH OF THE SOUL.

The first of the above propositions has been again and again attested by the Society of Psychical Research and others eminent in psychic science. Its bearing upon the question of a future life is obvious. Postulating a soul in man, it is evident that its mental organism is the subjective mind, and postulating an immortal soul, we have a right to expect it to be exclusively endowed with the power to communicate its thoughts to other immortal souls, independently of the ordinary channels of sense. And this is just what telepathy is. And this is why I say, in the second proposition, that telepathy is obviously adapted to the uses of disembodied intelligences, and to no others.

The third proposition states a fact that is obvious to every intelligent student of psychic science who is familiar with the invariable outcome of experimental telepathy. It is not adapted to the uses of this life. There are many reasons for this, any one of which constitutes presumptive evidence of the future—that is, of uses elsewhere. The salient reasons are as follows:

IS ABNORMAL ON EARTH.

Observable telepathic phenomena are never produced under other than abnormal conditions of the body and of the objective mind. Not that telepathic communications between subjective minds may not be made under normal conditions. Indeed, there is every reason to believe that such communications are practically constant between near relatives and friends. But it does require abnormal conditions in the percipient to enable him to become objectively conscious of the content of the message, or to translate it into objective terms. That is to say, his objective mind must be in abeyance to a greater or less extent; the vividness of the impression being proportioned accordingly. The highest manifestations occur when the brain of the percipient is wholly in abeyance, as in a trance. In such cases it requires the intervention of a third person to make the message available for objective uses. It follows that telepathic messages cannot be made available for objective uses under other than abnormal conditions of the percipient.

CANNOT BE RELIED ON HERE.

Even under the most favorable apparent conditions a telepathic message can never be relied upon as veridical, for the reason that the factor of suggestion can never be eliminated with any degree of certainty. Consequently every message that is transmitted from one subjective mind to another is liable to be vitiated by the false suggestions incident to this objective world. This alone would render the faculty worse than useless for the practical users of this life. Obviously, a means of communicating intelligence which is liable to be falsified by conditions entirely beyond the control of either the sender or the receiver is worse than useless. The usefulness of telepathy, therefore, as a means of communicating thoughts by and between intelligent entities depends upon environmental conditions not possible on this plane of existence. On the other hand, telepathy is manifestly adapted to the uses of disembodied intelligences who are endowed with the faculty of intuitive apprehension of all truth pertaining to thier plane of existence.

THESIS HAS BEEN PROVED.

I submit that I have redeemed my promise to show that the subjective mind of man is endowed with faculties that perform no normal function in this life. If, therefore, the fundamental postulate is true, namely, that there is and can be no faculty of mind without a function to perform, either in this or in a higher plane of existence, I have logically demonstrated my thesis. I have not only shown that man is endowed with faculties that perform no normal function in this life, but I have shown that those same faculties are exactly adapted to the uses of disembodied intelligences, and I have also shown that these faculties exist—not in the mental organism of which the brain is the sole organ—but in a mind that existed in potential perfection in the primordial germ, a mind that in its lowest estate exhibits powers that can be adequately described only in terms that are definitive of omniscience, and that in its highest earthly development, contains the promise and potency of a deathless life.

Moreover, in doing so I have not departed from the strictest canons of induction, for my conclusions have all been derived from the demonstrable facts of experimental psychology. I do not say that the argument is complete, for I have selected only the salient facts from a congeries of phenomena all pointing to the same conclusion.

SOUL HAS DYNAMIC POWER.

For instance, did my space permit, I could easily point out a series of phenomena which demonstrate that, as a fact in nature, man's subjective powers are equal to the exercise of an active force beyond the limit of the bodily powers, thus raising the presumption, if not actually demonstrating, that the soul is capable of maintaing an existence exercising its powers and functions independently of the bodily organism. Telepathy is an illustrative example of my meaning, as its powers are not cimcumscribed by space limitations; and telekinesis, or the power to move ponderable bodies without physical contact or appliances, is demonstrative of the power of the embodied soul to "exercise an active force, directed by intelligence, beyond the limit of bodily powers."

No one will deny that the possession of these two powers by an entity such as we have described raises the presumption, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that an intelligent entity thus endowed is capable of surviving the death of the body which it inhabits. Nor will it be denied that this presumption is vastly reinforced by the fact that telekinesis performs no normal or useless function in this life, its phenomena are rarely produced—never except under intensly normal conditions and in pursuance of powerful, though usually false, suggestions. Nevertheless, it has an appreciable value to mankind, in that it furnishes indubitable evidence of the dynamic energy of the soul, thus completing the category of faculties and powers essential to a complete and perfect manhood.

MATERIALISTS IGNORE FACTS.

In conclusion I desire to draw attention to one consideration that should not be lost sight of in estimating the evident value of the facts upon which my conclusions are based, and that is that all the facts of experimental psychology conspire to verify the doctrine of a future life, and that not one fact of psychology, physiology, cerebral anatomy or experimental surgery militates in the slightest degree against that doctrine. In other words, all the known facts of nature that are pertinent to the issue conspire to prove the fact of a future life. On the other hand, each and all of the facts relied upon by materialistic scientists to prove that man is a soulless being are utterly irrelevant and impertinent to the issue involved, and their conclusions are rendered possible only by purposely and persistently ignoring all the demonstrable facts of modern experimental psychology.

FIERCE CLASH OF DEMOCRATS.

Young Tammany Beaten at Primaries.

Old-liners Name Sam Stout for Sheriff.

Water for Salt River Valley—Duel of Ex-convicts—Extraordinary Weather.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 12.—A notably active and ugly Democratic primary election was pulled off in Phoenix yesterday. There were fist fights galore and enough acrimony engendered to split the party in November, if Democrats were prone to remember such little things. On the face of it, the trouble was all over the nomination for Sheriff. The main contesting candidates were Sam Stout, the incumbent; N. A. Sanders and John R. Norton.

On the face of the returns it is apparent that Stout has the best of the argument. Deeper, however, than the mere discussion of the availability of the candidates, the result of the fight shows a victory of the old-line Democrats of the county over the incipient Tammany organization of Phoenix, the Young Men's Democratic Club. This club, which practically is led by Sanders, managed to carry the last municipal election in his favor, and then, with a fat treasury, gained through contributions of the municipal officers and employés, it started out to capture the county organization and officers. The opposition, led by Capt. J. L. B. Alexander, has won first blood, and will probably control the convention.

The latest advices from Tucson are to the effect that Will F. Cooper has reconsidered and now absoloutely refuses to become a candidate for Delegate to Congress on the Republican ticket. It is now hoped that Judge R. E. Sloan of Prescott will be induced to make the race.

Arizona Prohibitionists met in Phoenix a few days ago for the purpose of nominating a Delegate to Congress, but adjourned to meet again, after the holding of the Republican convention, when it is possible the Republican candidate will be indorsed.

DISTRIBUTION OF WATER.

The plan under which the distribution of the water supply of the Salt River Valley has been managed for the past dozen years so successfully was put in effect by Judge J. H. Kibbey, formerly District Judge. Now that the construction of the reservoir and dam by the general government appears imminent, Judge Kibbey has been called upon again and has outlined a plan whereby the relations of the farmers to the general government are adjusted equitably, as well as the distribution of the stored water. The plan provides that the water users of the valley are first to form an association through which all dealings with the government are to be had, this association to undertake to repay the government annually one-tenth of the cost of the construction of the storage dam. The water users of the valley are to be divided into several classes, according to the priority of their appropriations.

The important feature will be arriving at some agreement with the canals, whereby the stored water will be carried to the lands of the members of the association. One plan is that the association shall lease the canals, and another that the canals shall be purchased outright by the association, either by agreement or by condemnation. A last plan is, failing all other resorts, the association is to build new canals paralleling the older systems. This Kibbey plan of campaign is to be published in pamphlet form and will be distributed among all the farmers in the valley, with the hope of securing their cooperation on the lines proposed.

GOV. BRODIE'S APPOINTMENTS.

Gov. A. O. Brodie has addressed the mayors of all the municipalities in Arizona suggesting that memorial services be held in all the churches of Arizona on Sunday, September 14, in memory of the late President McKinley.

Maj. B. W. Leavell of Prescott has been appointed by Gov. Brodie to be Adjutant-General of Arizona, succeeding H. F. Robinson, resigned. The new Adjutant-General is a retired officer of the regular army, and a graduate of West Point. At one time he was detailed as inspecting officer for the National Guard of Arizona. He served in Cuba and later in the Philippines. His health failing, he was invalided home to Fort Bayard, N. M., later being retired for disabilities incurred in the service.

J. J. Riggs of Dos Cabezos, Cochise county, has been appointed a member of the Live Stock Sanitary Commission of Arizona, to succeed L. B. Cannon of Yavapai county.

The annual report of Gov. A. O. Brodie to the Secretary of the Interior has been dispatched. It embraces 140 pages of typewritten manuscript, detailing the resources and features of advancement of the Territory.

BAD MEN'S FATAL DUEL.

Josiah Anderson is in jail in Phoenix, held in default of bond of $5000, under a charge of manslaughter, for the killing at Agua Caliente of William Cameron. The apparent cause of the fatal shooting was a quarrel over cattle, though it is said that Cameron was engaged to be married to a sister of Anderson, and that Anderson had disapproved of the proposed match.

One story, which is generally believed, is that the men had notified each other to be on the lookout for trouble when they met again, and that, in the duel that followed the meeting, Anderson was somewhat quicker on the draw than Cameron. Of the four shots fired, two inflicted mortal wounds. Both men were in bad odor in their community, and each had served a term in the penitentiary.

EX-GOV. MURPHY RETURNS.

Ex-Gov. N. O. Murphy has returned with Mrs. Murphy from an eastern trip that extended as far as the Governor's former home in Maine. They resume their residence in Phoenix. Mr. Murphy has been invited by Chairman Dick to participate in the Ohio compaign, which opens the latter part of this month. He is now connected with the Development Company of America, a corporation, which has acquired the old Tombstone mines, and which is now preparing for the construction of a railroad from Phoenix to Benson.

President F. M. Murphy of the Development Company and a party of officials of the corporation were in Phoenix lately, and gave assurances of the early construction of the line. Their plan embraces also the construction of a road westward from Congress Junction to a connection with the Santa Fé-Pacific, possibly at Franconia, near the Colorado River, but more probably to an independent terminus on the Coast.

OIL BORING DIFFICULT.

Boring for oil in Arizona appears attended with difficulties unknown elsewhere. Work is being prosecuted north of Prescott, near Riverside, and in the Camelback field, northeast of Phoenix. In the last-named field, operations are still in progress, but all there is to show for the work of several months is a hole sixty-five feet deep. A shifting formation was encountered early in the work, that seemed to baffle the skill of the drillers, but the trouble has at last been avoided by the sinking of a heavy steel casing and more rapid progress is anticipated in the future.

ARIZONA BREVITIES.

According to the Weather Bureau, the last week in Phoenix has known a daily average excess in mean temperature of 5 deg. Showers are general all over the Territory, but no appreciable precipitation has occurred in this locality. In Martines Cañon, near Congress, a cloudburst occurred, a wall of water eight feet high coming down the gulch, carrying away everything in its path. New River, which for several years has been nothing more than the name of a dry wash, has been beyond fording for several days.

B. N. Pratt, for many years superintendent of the Phoenix Street Railway Company and of the Phoenix Water Company, and in the general charge of the local interests of M. H. Sherman, has been promoted to a position at Santa Monica, in connection with the Los Angeles and Pacific Electric Railway. He has been succeeded in Phoenix by Harry W. Heap, who has been his assistant.

George W. Sirrine, generally known as the "Father of Mesa," died at Mesa a few days ago, aged 85 years. He was a pioneer of California, and of Utah, and was the leader of a party that settled the eastern end of the Salt River Valley in 1877.

LIFE IN YUCATAN.

Five Years' Residence is Enough to Make an American Look Like a Mexican.

[New York Sun:] A residence of five years in Yucatan will make an American look like a Mexican and dress like one. That is the impression one gets in looking at many of the passengers who troop down the gangway from the steamers arriving from Mexico.

This is true to a greater extent in the case of women than of men. The climate of Yucatan seems to take the color from their cheeks and to replace it with a very light shade of copper. They chatter Spanish as if it were their mother tongue, but it is their dress, or, rather, the manner in which they wear it, that has the real look of the middle-class Mexican.

A Mexican woman, if young, has an attractive air from the top of her head to her waist. Below the waist she looks sloppy. The skirt is too wide and too long and is so shapeless as to be utterly lacking in style. It is of the street-cleaning variety, and the wearer does not seem to know how to pick it up in a way to show it or herself to advantage.

The American woman who lives long in the country falls into this habit with a facility that is painful to the American man who lives at home. But Americans who live in Yucatan are, generally speaking, making money, particularly if they are interested in hemp, and they find consolation in this fact.

Since the outbreak of the Spanish war the manufacture of hemp from sisal has become a principal business of Yucatan and haciendados who devote themselves to the growing of the plant and turning it into hemp are making ropes of money. Merida, the capital of Yucatan, is, it is said, the richest city in Mexico in proportion to its population, which is placed anywhere from 50,000 to 90,000.

It is also the dirtiest city in Mexico, which is saying something very unpleasant, for there are few clean cities in the sister republic. Merida has neither a water nor a sewerage system and that it is not depopulated every year speaks well for the constitutions of the inhabitants, and may, also, say something for the beer which is drunk there, and is made on the spot by Americans.

MRS. BASIL WHITE,

MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN.

Vice-President Home Forum Club.

918 Herman Building, MILWAUKEE, WIS., Feb. 27, 1902.

I had ill health for seven years; nothing helped me and I had given up hope. I dreaded every month as it came around, as I knew it meant suffering for me. I grew thin, my complexion was bad, my temper was worse and everything irritated me. A friend advised me to try Wine of Cardui and as she urged the matter so strongly I followed her advice. I found it pleasant to take and not like most other remedies that are disgusting nostrums. In a short time I began to improve in health and my digestion was better. It made me regular and reduced the pain and finally it disappeared entirely. I gained ten pounds in two months and now I feel in excellent health, and much relieved to be restored to perfect health once more.

Mrs Basil White

THERE is hardly a man or woman in this land who has not a mother, wife, sister or daughter who is now suffering as Mrs. White suffered. These silent sufferers are martyrs to their modesty. Even their nearest relatives know only half of the story of woe they might tell. What a great service you could render your loved ones by securing them a bottle of Wine of Cardui, the medicine which made such a happy change in Mrs. White's life. Can you put the cost of a life of suffering with hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills, against the small price of the few bottles of Wine of Cardui which cured Mrs. White so quickly?

The fact that Mrs. White suffered for seven long years shows that when proper treatment is not secured the trouble grows worse. And this letter shows that Wine of Cardui is a positive and permanent cure. Mrs. White's case was chronic. Nothing helped her until she began taking this wonderful Cardui treatment.

Wine of Cardui benefits the girl just entering womanhood, properly starting the menstruation and keeping it regular through life. It relieves barrenness in wife and stops all bearing-down pains, ulcerations, inflammation and drains. It makes childbirth easy for the mother and shortens her, at middle age, the dangerous period known as the change of life. When Wine of Cardui can be secured so easily in every town in this land health is within the grasp of almost every woman. The Wine of Cardui treatment can be taken privately at home by every lady without the advice of a physician or without a doctor's local examination, yet so thorough and complete is this treatment that thousands of cases which doctors would operate for can be cured by the operating table have been cured by this simple medicine in the privacy of the home.

All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

The Accuracy of My Treatment

I Have the Largest Practice Because I Invariably Fulfill my Promises.

I have frequently made reference to my original and supremely effective methods of treating men's diseases, which may seem to imply that I treat all cases of the same disease in exactly the same manner. The opposite is true. Out of a hundred cases that would appear identical to the average medical eye, there will scarcely be two requiring the same remedies throughout. However, the same general system of treatment will be followed in all, though the details of the prescribing will be varied according to the characteristics of each case. This means attention to little requirements is of utmost importance, and is a distinguishing feature of my practice.

BLUFFER JONES LOST HIS ROOF.

THE simple process of ejecting a lone, unwelcome tenant from a little brick shack engaged a score of men and created more excitement than a dog fight at the corner of Fourth and Broadway yesterday morning.

Jones apparently purposes to stick, and his lawyer says that if any attempt is made to confiscate or move the goods, "some one will get hurt."

THE DEMOLISHED FRUIT STORE.

The case forms a really remarkable "case of attachment" on short acquaintance, for the fruit dealer has occupied the store but a few weeks. The only reasonable explanation of the manner is that Jones thought he saw an opportunity to block a great enterprise, and dictate terms for relinquishment of the prize. The trouble has already been tried in the Superior Court, and is likely to be taken there again for final settlement.

According to the statement of O. T. Johnson, the owner of the property, Jones came to his son-in-law, Flint, and asked to rent the little shack for a few days. The agent at first refused, but in a few weeks the building was to be torn down, to make way for the construction of a seven-story block. Jones was insistent, and finally he was let to him on the understanding of an agreement that he would move at the week's notice, the rent to be merely nominal.

In the middle of August formal notice to vacate by September 1, but no attempt was taken of it. On September 3 suit for unlawful detainer was filed in the Superior Court, to which John W. Kemp, attorney for Jones, filed a demurrer, which was overruled last Monday. It is said Jones suddenly became very haughty with his landlords, and referred them to his attorney when they confronted him with his written and verbal agreements.

The arresting of work on the big new building meant the loss of several hundred dollars to the owner and contractors each day, and the process of the courts was slow. Building Superintendent Julius Krause was informed that the building was dangerous, and immediately made an inspection. He at once condemned it, and ordered it razed, the notice being served on both owner and tenant Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

In pursuance of this order, Johnson notified the wrecking company to which he had sold the old building, and the workmen appeared and started their work of destruction early yesterday morning. Police were sent to the scene to protect the workmen in carrying out the official order, and by 2 p.m. all that remained was a tottering back wall. Showcases, fruit and groceries were carried out and heaped up in the vacant lot. Jones remonstrated and denounced, but to no avail, and stood guard over his goods in their new location.

O. T. Johnson was a spectator of the work of demolition. "It is simply a case of attempted hold-up," said he. "Jones has no lease to the property, and was well aware when he went in that the building would soon have to be torn down to make way for the new seven-story block. He signed a written agreement that he would move out on a week's notice, and he was asked to vacate over two weeks ago. My son-in-law, Mr. Flint, attended to the matter altogether, and I never saw the man before. The building was really very unsafe, and was torn down on the order of the building superintendent, with which I had nothing to do. I did not offer to pay him to vacate."

John W. Kemp, attorney for Jones, said: "Mr. Jones has a lease for the building by the month, which ended September 11, but as thirty days' notice was not given him, it does not expire until thirty days from that date. It is simply a case of a rich man trying to throw a tenant into the street without right or justice. But it is not over yet, and while I cannot say what the next step will be, there will be further action at law."

The many Los Angeles friends were elated yesterday to learn that Thomas F. Fitzgerald, Pacific Coast passenger agent of the Texas and Pacific, with headquarters in this city, has been elected president of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents, now in annual session at Montreal.

T. F. FITZGERALD.

Just a telegram to W. D. Campbell, general agent of the Northwestern, from the good news hither yesterday. This is Mr. Fitzgerald advanced to the vice-presidency to become the official head of a great association of railroad men. When the traveling passenger agents met in Los Angeles last September, he was chairman of the Reception Committee, and so capably did he acquit himself in that capacity that he was made vice-president as a mark of his fellows' appreciation of his thorough work in their behalf for comfort and pleasure. They would have liked to make him president, but precedent has decreed that one of the necessary qualifications for the position, that an aspirant must have served the association in its subordinate offices. So they did the next best thing, and put him in line. Mr. Fitzgerald is a popular man in the West, and his election will please a host of friends and acquaintances.

After the sessions of the association are concluded, he will take a trip through the East, returning via New Orleans about October 1.

TRACTION'S LATEST MOVE.

More interesting railroad news has not been spread of late than the implied intention of the Hooks to extend their Los Angeles traction lines to Santa Monica. If they do what they are accredited with being about to do, the new line will simply make Los Angeles more accessible to a large section of fertile suburbs and give the city more means of egress to the ocean.

The Hooks are confident that their application of Monday night to the Santa Monica Board of Trustees for a franchise at the ocean end of the proposed line will be granted for $3500.

But the Hooks have nothing to say about their project.

The Hooks never have anything to say about any project for the public prints.

If they were about to build a railroad to the moon—and could do so—it would be their policy to let nobody hear anything about it.

The proverbial clam is easy to interview compared with the Hooks. They are genial gentlemen and thoroughly accommodating, but "really they have nothing to say" about anything a reporter might ask them pertaining to plans of interest to the people.

They would say nothing yesterday about the proposed line to Santa Monica.

"Do you propose——"

"We don't know what we propose."

"Are you going to——"

"That remains to be seen."

"Have you secured any rights of way?"

"Really, we don't know."

"Will the alleged proposed road come into Los Angeles by way of West Jefferson street?"

"We'll have to let you do your own guessing."

"Poles have already been set out to the city limits, have they not?"

"We believe so."

"How soon will it be before work can be begun?"

"We do not know."

"Is there anything you would like to say at this time?"

"Nothing; the less said the better, perhaps."

Meantime it is up to the Santa Monica Trustees. If their action is favorable, then the right of way problem, with all of its manifold perplexities, must be worked out through the country districts.

Spiritualist Mass Meeting.

In response to a call from his numerous friends, Rev. Moses Hull, president of the only Spiritualist College in the world, has consented to deliver a sermon in Simpson's Tabernacle, on Thursday evening, September 18, at 8 o'clock. Subject, "The Old and the New Theologies."

Mr. Hull is universally regarded as one of the finest logicians, ripest scholars and most eloquent orators in America. Those who do not hear him will miss the opportunity of their life.

This sermon will be followed by one of Mrs. Capt. Green's inimitable fire-tests seances.

An especial invitation is extended to the clergy of all denominations to be present on this occasion.

FUNERAL OF DR. WILLIAMS.

Attended by Representative Los Angeles Clergy and Many Friends—Many Beautiful Floral Tributes.

The funeral services of the late Rev. A. C. Williams, D.D., were held in Simpson Auditorium yesterday afternoon, attended by a large concourse of the Los Angeles clergy, and by many friends of the deceased and his family.

The services were under the supervision of Dr. George T. Bovard, Presiding Elder of the Los Angeles district, Southern California M. E. Conference. A biography of the late Dr. Williams was read by Rev. Healy, pastor of the University Church, followed by remarks by Rev. B. S. Haywood, the successor of the deceased at his Riverside charge. Dr. Goodwin, representing the Los Angeles Ministers' Association, offered resolutions of condolence. The venerable Rev. Dr. Stephenson, dean of the Methodist ministers of this conference and a lifelong friend of Dr. Williams, made the principal address of the service. Prayer was offered by Dr. Thompson.

Dr. Williams died at the home of his son on West Thirty-fifth street Sunday morning, death being the result of an illness of nearly two years' duration. Previous to his being incapacitated from active service Dr. Williams was pastor of the Riverside M. E. Church, where he is remembered as one of the best liked and most powerful preachers who ever came to that city. Born in 1834, he was intended by his father to take a seat at the bar, but ministerial inclination led him elsewhere. For many years he held principal pastorates in St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City and other important points. He came to California in 1888, from Minnesota.

It was a frequently expressed hope of his that at the coming session of the conference he would be able to take up the work of some small charge in this city. His ardent wish was that he might die in the harness. Besides his direct work in church affairs Dr. Williams found time for literary ventures as well, and is the author of several philosophical and other works.

The floral tributes at Simpson Auditorium were many and beautiful, and the music, rendered by a quartette choir, highly sympathetic and appropriate. Burial was at Rosedale.

BOSSES REFUSED TO GET OUT OF BUSINESS.

PETTY AND UNIQUE STRIKE OF CORNICE MAKERS.

Union Calls Men Out Because Proprietors Insisted on Working—Great Influx of Workmen Expected This Fall and Winter.

The Cornice Makers' Union yesterday morning called a strike of the four employés of the Eagle Cornice Works, No. 333 East Second street, and the men obeyed, though satisfied with $3.50 for eight hours' work. The conditions in the shop are the same as have prevailed for the past three years, and the walkout is only one small eruption from the epidemic of unrest being fomented by the organized agitators of the Council of Labor.

The union grievance is that four of the proprietors of the Eagle corporation have the audacity to insist on working in their own shop. Harry Philp is president of the firm, and has charge of the office work, while his three partners toil at the bench alongside the journeymen. The rules of the union permit only one boss working in a shop; also they do not admit of an employer joining the union. So the only way out of the trouble was for the three partners to get out of business and join the union.

This was exactly the demand that was made and refused by the employers. The union therefore called the journeymen out. The shop has been strictly union for three years, and there is no dissatisfaction with wages or hours.

MANY WORKMAN COMING.

It is almost certain that the stringency in the labor market will be relieved this fall, and contractors and other employers will be put in a position to undertake large enterprises without fear of scarcity of workers. With the demand for first-class men so much in excess of the supply, incompetent workers and union walking delegates have been arrogant and unreasonable in their demands. In many cases the contractors have been hampered and harrassed itermittently for weeks at a stretch by the agitators, and sometimes been compelled to submit to the most unjust conditions by stress of circumstances. It now appears that there will be enough good men here soon to compel these hold-up men to give value received for their wages or seek other pastures. Quite a number of eastern workmen have been coming in the past few weeks, and more will be here soon.

Jack Kline, secretary of the Builders' Exchange, said yesterday: "There are going to be large additions to the labor forces of Los Angeles this fall and winter from other parts of the country. Every day applications are made at the exchange for work by newcomers. Every mail brings me letters from different parts of the United States asking for information as to labor conditions here. I give the same answer to every one—that good mechanics are in demand at good wages, but poor workmen cannot be used at any price."

HAMBURGER'S OPENING.

Large Crowds Inspect Elegant Fall Stock During the Past Two Days—Artistic Floral Decorations.

Large crowds yesterday and Monday patronized the fall opening of the millinery department at A. Hamburger & Sons' People's Store. Thousands of dollars worth of goods have been imported and locally made, and are on exhibition in the tastefully-decorated rooms on the second floor.

It has been the effort of this large concern to combine quality and style with reasonable prices. Many visitors, representing the wealth and fashion of the city, have been purchasing and admiring ever since the opening, one woman having given at one time an order for seven high-priced hats.

Mr. Johnson, the head of this department, is certainly to be commended, not only for his artistic taste in arranging his display, but for the clever decorations of the room. Ferns and potted plants were principally used, and with great effect. Until very late Sunday evening he and his assistants worked, and the walls and ceilings of his apartment are practically covered with the clinging masses of verdure.

There are hats and hats—a dozen show cases of them. Many are direct from gay Paree. Styles this year are broad and flat. In addition to the imported, high-priced things, Mr. Johnson has a large force of trimmers at work copying direct from European models. One reason for the prices on importations is the 50 per cent. duty which is imposed.

An outsider remarked that this is one of the largest and most complete millinery displays to be found outside New York. More than 600 hats have been on display during the past two days.

RENEWED INTEREST IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL.

SCHOOL YEAR OPENS WITH BRIGHTER PROSPECTS.

Larger Attendance at the Various Colleges Encourages Football Enthusiasts—Santa Ana Nine Will Play Local Team.

The opening of the various schools and colleges throughout Southern California has renewed the interest in football. While none of the colleges have yet selected their material, new men are being anxiously sized up, and the struggle for the pennant promises to be harder than ever before.

Larger attendance at nearly every one of the collegiate schools makes this seem probable, and the teams are therefore likely to average better than they have in the past.

With its 600 students the University of Southern California has the best show for the prize, and the old students have promised that the former defeats of the university will not be repeated so easily as has been the case for the last three years.

WHEELER, THE NEW LOS ANGELES PITCHER.

The Pomona College and Occidental teams are still subjects for speculation, but it is stated that both of these schools will have first-class elevens in the field. Several members of Pomona's champion team will be in the game this year, ready to repeat their former victories.

Pomona College will have a coach and undoubtedly the University of Southern California will secure one also, as the rivalry between the two schools is high, and neither one thinks that it could afford to loose.

ALL-LOS ANGELES TEAM.

There has been some discussion among ex-college players living in the city on the advisability of having a team to represent the city against the northern college teams, or perhaps in a contest with an eastern eleven. A team could be made up of old college players that would be hard to beat, and a game against some well-known 'varsity team would undoubtedly prove a great attraction.

SANTA ANA VS. LOCAL TEAM.

The Santa Ana nine will play a picked team of local experts at Fiesta Park next Sunday afternoon. This will be the fiftieth game played by the Santa Ana team, and if the game is won by them it will be their fortieth victory. They have won games against such pitchers as McPartlin, Jones, Gray and Hartwell, and for an amateur club are considered among the best players on the Coast.

This will probably be the last game of baseball this year at Fiesta Park, as the grounds are to be put in shape for football.

PUGILISM.

GARDNER WANTS A MATCH.

Alex Greggains is in the city for the purpose of negotiating a match for his protégé, George Gardner. Manager McCarey has communicated with a number of eastern fighters among whom is Joe Choynski. "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien has been prominently mentioned, but Gardner is most too heavy for him, and the chances for securing a match with him are considered doubtful. Choynski is the man most favored in the negotiations, and it seems now that there is a strong probability of getting him.

BOWLING TRIOS MATCHED.

HOEGEE-DAYTON ALL-STAR.

The Hoegee-Dayton tenpin team, composed of Heard, Unger and Tompkins, will play a match game with the All Stars, made up of Menneard, Riggins and Parlcer at the Coliseum alleys Friday night. No important games are scheduled for the next two weeks, but it is thought that by that time a winter tournament will be planned, which will include the principal teams of Los Angeles county.

SOUTH PASADENA'S CHANCE.

Long-awaited Arroyo Bridge for Boulevard May Cross the Water Way at Ostrich Farm.

Pasadena has had its much-talked-of public meeting to discuss the boulevard proposition, and the results have given "that tired feeling" to the citizens of Highland Park and Garvanza, who rustled through the plans for the Los Angeles end of the project. They are sore over the dilatory tastics employed by the Pasadenans.

And now South Pasadena thinks it is her opportunity The South Pasadenans were not "stuck" on the proposed route by way of the Campbell-Johnston ranch, anyway.

They want the boulevard bridge to start from the Los Angeles end of Pasadena avenue, and reach to the bluff near the lower corner of the Ostrich Farm. This, they say, would cross the Arroyo Seco at its most beautiful section, a part densely covered with native trees; it would be a direct continuation of the lower line of the boulevard; and it would accommodate the citizens of Lincoln Park, South Pasadena and the adjacent thicky-settled country, as well as Pasadena itself, which the route through the San Rafael hills would not do.

South Pasadenans think this is their opportunity, and the claims of the route will be urged upon the committee appointed at Monday's meeting to investigate various routes.

The city of South Pasadena is in fine condition to give the project financial aid. She has no bonded indebtedness; has municipal money in bank, and a large tax roll.

Citizens of this burg also claim that if the County Supervisors are willing to expend $12,000 on the proposed stretch of county road through the San Rafael Hills, as was stated at Monday's meeting, the board might easily be induced to aid the new bridge scheme, were the other plan dropped.

OLD SPANISH DANCES.

Quaint Figures and Costmues of Early Mission Days to Be Revived at College Settlement Entertainment.

Historic interest will add zest to a pleasant entertainment to be given Friday evening for the benefit of the fund to purchase the College Settlement House at No. 423 Alpine street.

On this occasion a company of señors and señoritas, in the costumes of the early mission days, when Los Angeles was a sleepy, ease-loving Mexican pueblo, will give a reproduction of the songs, dances and quaint figures and steps of that period.

Only a few of the old people, whose homes have been here all their lives, remembered the peculiar steps of several of these dances, and the sole possessor of the music, which always accompanied them, is an ancient Spanish violinist with a face like a Rembrant etching.

The young people are apt learners, however, and from the instructions of the stately dons and doñas, who remembered the early fiestas, they have evolved a reproduction of a typical feast day in the mission times. Songs, costumes, music and environment are to be reproduced as closely as possible. The ushers for the evening are also to wear the striking Spanish costume of the day of long ago.

The College Settlement work has been in progress for several years, and its results have proved its great value to the people of Sonoratown and vicinity. The promoters of this worthy work feel the need of a permanent home for the institution, and it is hoped the entertainment of Friday evening will mark the beginning of a good-sized fund for this purpose.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Yesterday the Police Commission listened to evidence in the case of Officer John Shields, accused of accepting money in violation of the rules of the police department.

Mrs. Kate Lewis came into court yesterday in an attempt to break the will of her father, Blanton Duncan, whom she claims was insane at the time he made a will and cut her out.

In the Police Court yesterday Sevariano Gonsales was identified by a policeman as the murderer of Charles Underwood, and held for trial.

AT THE CITY HALL.

CHARGES ARE HEARD AGAINST OFFICER SHIELDS.

ATTORNEY MUNDAY DECLARES THAT MONEY WAS PAID.

Hearing Continued Until Friday Morning Because no Written Copies of the Charges Were Filed—Defense Declares That Innocence of Officer Will Be Proven.

Whether Detective John Shields accepted $50 reward in violation of the rules of the police department has not yet been officially determined. Yesterday was the day set for the hearing of the charge by the Police Commission, but owing to technical objections from Attorney Earl Rogers, representing Shields, only one witness was examined and the case continued until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Chief Elton did not file with the commission any written charges, and when Mayor Snyder called the hearing yesterday Attorney Rogers demanded a copy. The attorney declared that his client was entirely ignorant of the specific allegations against him, and that the Chief had refused to furnish a copy of the charges. He cited the case of Capt. John Roeder of the fire department, who was furnished copies of the charges against him five days before the trial.

"As counsel for Shields I cannot intelligently conduct a defense unless I know the charges against him," declared Rogers. "We do not yet know what Shields is accused of doing, or when or where he did it. It has been impossible to summon witnesses until we could ascertain these facts. I wish an order from the commission that will enable me to find out what the trial is about."

"You are not entitled to the evidence," replied Chief Elton. "All you are entitled to is the date and the formal charge."

"This man is going to have a fair trial," flamed up Mayor Snyder. "Of course he is entitled to a copy of the charges. The Chief should have filed a written copy with the board. This officer has a family, and I propose that he shall have every opportunity to establish his innocence."

Chief Elton stated that all he had to show were statements of witnesses which were in the nature of evidence. "I couldn't give him my evidence beforehand," declared the Chief.

After a long wrangle about the charges Attorney Rogers was given an opportunity to read the papers in possession of Chief Elton. He glanced them over, and declared that they contained many things of which he had never heard, and of which his client had never spoken. He asked a continuance of the hearing.

Then occurred another long discussion about the propriety of proceeding with the case in the face of objections from the defense. Walker and Stimson favored an immediate hearing, and Keeney, Thorpe and Mayor Snyder wished to give the defense more time to prepare a case.

Attorney M. E. C. Munday, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, brought the discussion to a climax by saying that he wished to leave on the next train for Ventura, to be away several weeks. Walker made a motion that Munday's testimony be taken, which finally carried.

The story told by Munday was substantially the same as that already published. He said that he met Detectives Kelly, Talamantes and Shields in the court corridor during the pendency of the case against P. B. Grace for stealing a diamond pin belonging to I. W. Lord. He asked them not to interfere with his plans, and told them that he hoped to get the larceny case dismissed. Munday stated on the stand that the detectives agreed to keep "hands off," but that Shields said Lord had offered $100 reward, which should be paid. Some days later Lord, Shields, Munday and a brother of Grace from Santa Rosa met in the Hollenbeck Hotel and Lord agreed to ask the District Attorney to dismiss the case against Grace, at that time Munday assured Shields that the reward would be paid. On August 21, according to the testimony, Grace's brother left for home after telling Munday to draw on him for $200 and to pay Shields $50. Two days later Munday declared he drew the money from the Bank of Commerce in the presence of George Simpson, who keeps the Station saloon. He put $50 in an envelope—two $20 and one $10 bill—and crossed to the Station saloon, where he gave the envelope to Shields.

The most interesting development of the case came on September 9, when, according to Munday's testimony, someone slipped a Bank of Commerce envelope containing five $10 bills into the side pocket of his coat while he was temporarily absent from the room. Munday testified that A. J. Monihan, a former law partner, and George Simpson were in the room at the time. Chief Elton had information that the money was to be returned to Munday in a surreptitious manner, and the day before it occurred Munday came to the Police Station on request, and was searched. No envelope of the Bank of Commerce was found.

In response to a request from one of the commissioners, Chief Elton stated that he expected to prove by further testimony that Officer Shields accepted $50 from Munday which he did not report to him, and that when asked if he had received such a sum of money he denied it.

Some asperity marked the cross-examination of Munday by Attorney Earl Rogers. He asked if it was usual for the attorney for the defense to pay the bills of the prosecuting witness, and how it came that Munday was paying rewards offered by Lord. He also asked whether the witness had not been under the influence of liquor at the time of the alleged transaction to such an extent that he dropped money on the saloon floor which had to be gathered up by friends. Witness got ruffled at this line of examination and declared that he had not taken a drink for some days prior to the one on which the money was paid to Shields. Witness cited a number of things which he had done during the day to show the clearness of his mind.

"I was not drunk, and I don't propose to be insulted by you or anybody else," he informed Attorney Rogers. "I didn't come here to be abused. Anybody who says I was drunk is a liar."

After a few more questions had been asked, Munday was dismissed from the stand.

A statement made by Saloon Keeper Simpson is in the hands of the commission corroborating the statements made by Attorney Munday. An affidavit has been filed by Albert Weinberg, who conducts a cigar stand, to the effect that he saw Munday hand Shields an envelope from which the officer took some bills after thanking Munday.

The defense hints that it will spring a surprise, which will establish the innocence of Shields beyond a doubt.

License Transfers.

Adolph Nabel was granted a change of location for his saloon from No. 215 to 312 West Fifth street, by the Police Commission yesterday.

P. Condo, an ignorant Italian who cannot write his name, was denied a restaurant liquor license for No. 220 Ferguson alley, down near the tenderloin.

Daly & McClelland obtained a transfer of the saloon license at No. 105 San Pedro street from Jacob Fickh.

Salter & Weber were given a transfer of saloon license at No. 515 South Spring street from Chris Krempel.

S. E. Morrison was denied a wholesale liquor license at No. 1124 East Seventh street.

Cases against four saloon men for violating the closing ordinance, as already noted, were deferred one week on account of the illness of one of the policemen who made the arrests.

Chief Elton was authorized to design and purchase a special make of stars for special policemen who receive no pay from the city. He was also authorized to provide for the transportation of the twenty new policemen to be appointed.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

FAMILY SKELETONS OF A SOCIETY QUEEN.

MRS. T. A. LEWIS TRIES TO BREAK HER FATHER'S WILL.

Tells of His Brutality and Becomes Herself the Target for a Bitter Insinuation—She Bursts into Tears on the Witness Stand.

Haughty Mrs. Thomas A. Lewis, one of the most beautiful society women in Los Angeles society, swept into court yesterday to break the last will and testament of her father, the eccentric Kentuckian, Col. Blanton Duncan. She said he was crazy when he made his will. Her testimony will be a society sensation because of the things she told.

Technically and in the eyes of the law, Mrs. Lewis was a petitioner. Well, she didn't look the part. Had a woman been on the bench in Judge Shaw's place, judgment would have gone in her favor on account of her gown.

There was nothing of the plaintive, shrinking, quavering-voiced woman witness about this petitioner. She looked at the lawyers who were arrayed against her in scornful disdain. Naturally, in the course of the proceedings, she had to lay bare family secrets and skeletons of sensational character, but this she did with the simple dignity of great pride. Once or twice, as she talked of her parents, both of whom are now dead, she burst into tears.

The cause of the suit is that Mrs. Lewis was cut out of her father's will. He expressly stipulated that she was to get nothing," for reasons known to my executor." In February 27 of this year, he added a codicil leaving her $10 "in addition to the $50,000 formerly given to her."

In the meanwhile, while cutting Mrs. Lewis out, he left legacies to all sorts of persons, including judges of the Superior Court, and Rev. Bresee, $3000, on condition that none of the money go to his church. He left legacies of about $43,000 of this kind. Altogether he bequeathed about $150,000. His estate is said to really amount to not more than $35,000, incumbered with a mortgage of $8000.

These legatees lined up of course with the proponents of the will and against Mrs. Lewis.

After they had disposed of the preliminaries yesterday, Mrs. Lewis was called up to the witness stand. She swept up to the witness stand with the faint shudder of silk and faced the lawyers.

Her own lawyers, Judge Carpenter and Oscar Lawler, questioned her first.

"Yes," she said, calmly, "I have thought for many years that my father was insane."

Then she suddenly burst into a fit of uncontrollable weeping. She bent her head over in her hands and her form shook with sobbing. If there is anything to make a room full of lawyers thoroughly uncomfortable, this is it. They looked from one to the other and glared as much as to say, "Well, why the devil don't you do something?"

But presently the lady recovered her composure and went on to tell her story.

She told how her father had changed from a kind and loving husband and father to become abusive and cruel.

She told of one occasion when she went East to Newport for the summer. While she was at Bridgeport she received a telegram from her father saying that her mother was dying. She started back to Kentucky immediately, wiring her father to keep her informed of her mother's condition all along the way.

She arrived in Kentucky in a state of nervous collapse, but found her mother not seriously ill. She gave way herself then from the shock. Her father told her she better leave the house and go to a hospital as he didn't want two sick people around.

"I knew he was either brutal or crazy," she said.

She claims that one of her father's eccentricities was drinking nothing but cistern water. When she built her house on Figueroa street, Col. Duncan insisted that she build a cistern, and as she could not afford to, he furnished the money himself.

After the house was built, he insisted on filling it with his furniture, and when he quarreled with her afterward he simply looted the house. On another occasion he insisted on her signing a note for $5000, which was to cover everything he had ever given her, computed with compound interest. She signed it and she says that Col. Duncan made her life a misery until the note was paid.

When he got the money, he gave it to a church.

"He talked to people outside about me and there were plenty to listen," said Mrs. Lewis bitterly.

Whereat the opposing lawyers pricked up their ears, and Mrs. Lewis heard more of the same a little later.

She said that Col. Duncan treated her and her mother in the most brutal fashion. Once he quarreled with her and as she fled to escape further abuse, called after her "the vilest curses I ever heard in my life."

Once he got the idea that she was trying to kill her mother, and insisted on taking Mrs. Duncan away to Redondo from the Lewis house, although she was very ill at the time. He had a letter of introduction to the officials of the Redondo Railroad asking them to show consideration and attention, etc. He left Mrs. Duncan while he hunted up the train crew to make them wait on him, and the porter meantime had to put the lady into the smoking car. Mrs. Lewis and a trained nurse were with her.

In the confusion the train started and Mrs. Lewis had no money to pay her fare. Col. Duncan called the conductor and insisted that she be put off between stations. Finally the trained nurse paid her fare and told the old Kentuckian flatly that he was crazy.

The most sensational bit came in the afternoon.

After a moment's consultation among the lawyers, she was asked sharply, "You spoke of your father's making accusations against you; did he make any complaint about your intimacy with certain people?"

Mrs. Lewis did not burst into tears this time. She leaned forward in her chair with her big blue eyes blazing and said with pressure to spare behind each word, "He never did to me. If he said so to other people they were considerate enough not to mention it to me. If he did so, then I am sorry to hear of it."

Another consultation.

"Do you know Maj. Bulwer?"

Mrs. Lewis replied like lightning and with tense lips, "Yes, very well indeed; he is a very dear friend."

"H'm. Well, what was his place of residence?"

Mr. Lawyer chimed in, "Not cross-examination."

Judge Carpenter boomed like a hundred-gun frigate going into action, "Immaterial. Utterly."

The court ruled that she had to answer.

"What do you mean?" she said. "Do you mean all the places he has lived. I don't know what you mean."

"Well, didn't he live at your house?"

Mrs. Lewis said that Maj. Bulwer had lived there on Mr. Lewis's invitation, for more than a year.

She was soon excused. Leaving the stand she seemed distressed and fatigued and asked for a glass of water.

The rest of the day was devoted to taking testimony in regard to Col. Duncan's eccentricities. One witness told of his claim to have the power of the evil eye, another told how he came to the table at the University Club in St. Louis armed with a knife.

The hearing will go on today.

Death Intervening.

Proceedings of court were suspended yesterday to allow an old man to die in peace. Elijah H. Johnson, an old man who has been working as a grocery clerk, was examined for insanity before Judge Smith.

The other day he fainted away while at work, and frightened his family by his strange actions. The examiners of the insane reported to the court that the old man is demented, but recommended that the proceedings be suspended, as the old man is dying.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

CHARLES UNDERWOOD'S MURDERER IDENTIFIED.

HIGGINS SAYS GONZALEZ IS THE GUILTY MAN.

Many Suspicious Circumstances—The Prisoner Refused to Be Sworn or to Stand Before His Accusers—Avoided Looking at Blood-stained Garments.

Sevariano Gonsalez, who for a number of days appeared in the police reports as S. Hernandez, was yesterday held without bail to answer for the murder of Charles Underwood early on the morning of August 21.

The story in brief, as told on the witness stand, by Higgins and Calloway, is as follows:

Charles Underwood, W. B. Higgins and J. H. Calloway were walking along North Los Angeles street, at about 1:30 o'clock on the morning in question, when they were accosted by a Mexican, and some reply was made, following which the Mexican threw a missile at the three men. He then went off in one direction, they in the other.

A moment later Higgins looked around and saw the Mexican following them, and said he would go back and see what he wanted. He went back some distance, stepped into a doorway, and waited till the Mexican came up. As he came abreast of the door, Higgins said to him:

"What do you want?"

With that the Mexican turned, facing him, and struck at him with a knife, cutting a slit eight inches long in his coat and penetrating all his clothing, just sufficiently to scratch the skin. Higgins called out:

"I am stuck."

His assailant started off, when he saw Underwood and Calloway running up. The latter stopped to talk with Higgins, while Underwood started for the Mexican, and soon Underwood's cries told them that he also had been attacked by the Mexican. Both ran to his assistance, and found him bleeding profusely from a stab in the neck, from which he eventually died in the Receiving Hospital.

At 4 o'clock that morning Gonsalez, the man who was yesterday held for trial, was arrested lying drunk in a stairway at No. 107 North Broadway. The officer had seen him ten minutes before the murder, within a block or so of the place where the deed was committed, and had told him he must get off the street. This may have been the first clew.

When he was searched at the station he refused to be seen with his hat on his head by the officers and other persons in the crowd. As often as the hat was placed on his head he grabbed it in anger and threw it upon the floor. In his coat pocket was found an open knife; in the patrol wagon where he sat was found another knife, after he had left the wagon, and which he afterward acknowledged to belong to him. These circumstances all threw a strong suspicion on Gonzales, and they were all brought out in the hearing.

Higgins, who had a good opportunity to see his assailant as he made the lunge at him, standing in the doorway on Los Angeles street, testified positively that Gonzalez was the man.

Calloway testified that he did not get a good look at the murderer's face, but that he wore a light coat, a big hat, and had a moustache.

This description exactly fits Gonzalez, and at the close of Calloway's testimony, Justice Austin said to the interpreter:

"Ask him if he has any objection to standing up."

"I don't have to stand up," was his reply.

When asked if he had any witnesses, he said he had not, and when asked if he wished to go on the stand himself, he said:

"I have nothing to say."

The evidence was considered sufficient and he was held for trial without bail.

When the blood-stained garments of Underwood were produced, the prisoner steadily refused to turn his eyes in that direction. The confident and defiant manner which marked his first appearance was materially changed.

Police Court Notes.

H. Rush, who pleaded guilty to insulting ladies in Eastlake Park on last Sunday, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, or serve 100 days.

A peon and a big knife appear to be natural and inseparable companions, until the police break up the partnership. J. A. Garcia and his knife were parted yesterday.

Jesse Williams was yesterday charged in Justice Morgan's court with robbing Robert Burton of $3. He pleaded not guilty, and demanded a jury trial. It was set for Friday.

D. F. Coon was yesterday held for the Superior Court on a charge of assaulting a man named Settles with a deadly weapon. He beat Settles over the head with a pair of blacksmith tongs. Bail was fixed at $500.

George Neustadt was yesterday arraigned before Justice Morgan on two charges, one for embezzlement, and one for cheating by false pretenses. He will have his hearing on Thursday.

J. H. Smith, the "cobbler" attorney, was before the Police Court yesterday, and his hearing was again postponed to October 7. He is charged with receiving a retainer as an attorney when he had no license to practice law.

WORMY APPLES AND HOME-MADE CHEESE.

HEALTH BOARD CONDEMNS ONE AND COMMENDS OTHER.

Watsonville Must Keep Its Codlin Moth Infected Fruit at Home—No Formalin Used for Preservation of Local Cheeses—Adulterated Pepper.

Wormy apples are unwholesome, but Los Angeles county cheeses are a safe article of diet.

So much, and more, was brought out at the meeting of the City Board of Health last night. There were present at the meeting Drs. Smith, Davisson, Salisbury and Beckett, Health Officer Powers, Secretary McGill of the City health department, Fruit Inspector Drummond, and a few other interested persons. Dr. E. R. Smith presided.

WORMY APPLES.

The first business brought before the board was in the shape of a bag full of wormy apples toted in by Fruit Inspector Drummond, who said they were a sample of fruit shipped in here in carload lots from Watsonville and offered for sale by local dealers, and in some instances sent to the canneries to be converted into "apple sas" of various kinds, worms and all, presumably.

The apples in evidence were badly infected with the larvae of the codlin moth, which is working such ruin in the orchards in some parts of the State, especially in the Salinas Valley, and against which the horticulturists of Los Angeles county are waging a war of prevention and extermination that is costing thousands of dollars. The strenuous efforts that are being made to prevent the spreading of the pest throughout the orchards of the county are regarded as of little avail so long as pest-infected fruit is permitted to be shipped into the county by wholesale.

Inspector Drummond stated that the Watsonville orchardists were at present engaged in putting their sound apples into cold storage for the winter trade, while the culls, consisting of wormy fruit, were being shipped to Los Angeles and other places to be disposed of as best they could. Large quantities of this damaged fruit were being unloaded in this city, and the fruit inspector wanted the Board of Health to take some action concerning it.

A discussion arose as to whether such fruit could be classed as unwholesome. Dr. Beckett inclined to the opinion that if the wormy part of the apple were cut out, the rest of the fruit would not necessarily be unwholesome, or unfit to eat. He thought there would be no harm in canning such fruit if the worm holes were carefully pared away, but there was a question whether all the canners would take the trouble to do this.

Dr. Davisson gave it as his opinion that an apple in which a codlin moth was hatched, was entirely unfit for food. He argued that while many people had eaten wormy apples without apparently injurious effects, no part of worm-infected fruit could be safely regarded as wholesome food. He thought all such apples should be condemned, and not be allowed to be exposed for sale. This view was concurred in, at least tacitly, by several other members of the board.

President Smith thought ordinance No. 4793 (new series) fully covered the case, and at his suggestion, it was moved by Dr. Davisson and seconded by Dr. Salisbury, that the Fruit Inspector and other city officials rigidly enforce the said ordinance, which reads, in part, as follows:

"Section 1. That it shall be unlawful of any person, either as owner, agent or employé, to sell, expose for sale, or to keep or maintain for sale, or to give away, any fruits or vegetables: (a) Infected with scale or other insects, or their larvae or pupae, injurious to fruits, trees, plants, vegetables or vines, or (b) Any fruit or vegetables which have become wholly or partially decomposed, or have been frozen, affected by frost, or affected in any manner so as to be unwholesome or unfit for food.

"Sec. 4. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $100, or shall be imprisoned in the City Jail for not exceeding 100 days, or may suffer both such fine and imprisonment."

Armed with this authority, Inspector Drummond will now proceed to condemn all the wormy apples he can find exposed for sale in Los Angeles, and if any one will persist in the handling of such fruit, he will be vigorously prosecuted.

OUR CHEESE IS ALL RIGHT.

The subject of cheese was introduced in a report filed by Dr. Powers, City Health Officer, in which he sought to make amends for an injustice done some of the local manufacturers of cheese in an official report made by the health office several months ago. In the former report it was stated that analytical tests showed that most of the cheeses exposed for sale in Los Angeles were tainted with formalin, which was used by the manufacturers as a preservative. Subsequent investigations showed that the conclusions arrived at from former tests were erroneous. In the report filed last night, Dr. Powers says:

"Several months ago I began the investigation of the cheeses offered for sale in this city, especially for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent formalin is used as a preservative. The test which was adopted and which was supposed to be absolutely reliable for cheese as it is for milk, is the Hehner test.

"Many samples of cheese were tested, with the result that they showed, with very few exceptions, Hehner's blue formalin reaction. The result appeared to call for further and more careful investigation. By invitation, I went to the factory at Compton, and examined samples of all the milk left there for the manufacture of cheese, and found it free from formalin. And upon examining the curd and cheese manufactured from the same milk, I found that all cheeses prepared with rennet will give the same, or very similar, reaction, if entirely pure, on account of the peptons contained in the rennet and produced in the ripening cheese.

"I have, therefore, discarded the Hehner test in the original form applied, with the result that many cheeses formerly suspected of formalin, have been proven to be free of the same."

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

Dr. Powers, in a statement to the board, again called the attention to the health department's lack of a laboratory for making chemical tests of foodstuffs, etc. He stated that it was necessary to get outside assistance in making nearly all such tests. He spoke of the desirability of entering into a regular contract with a firm of analytical chemists for doing such work. A representative of the firm of Koebig & Fosdick, who was present, stated that they would continue to make analyses for the health department whenever called upon, as before, but he also spoke of the desirability of having the work done by regular contract. The Health Officer was instructed to consult with the City Attorney concerning the drawing up of such a contract, the firm of Koebig & Fosdick to be retained temporarily as chemists of the department.

Considerable discussion took place as to the removal of condemned fruit under the existing contract for the removal of garbage. The Health Officer was instructed to confer with the contractors and the City Attorney as to the necessity of amending the terms of the contract to provide for the removal of condemned fruit wherever found.

ADULTERATED PEPPER.

A letter from Dr. W. L. Woodruff of Troy, Ariz., was read, in which the writer complained that ground pepper sold by a certain wholesale house in Los Angeles was adulterated. The doctor stated that recently while the cook in his family was seasoning a dish of string beans with some of this pepper, the lid came off the pepper box, and most of the contents was poured upon the beans. The stuff was scraped off as best it could, but a good deal remained on the beans, which were not rendered unduly hot by the surplus of seasoning, but all who partook of the beans became ill immediately afterward, the doctor himself being seized with a violent vomiting spell. He inclined to the belief that the sickness was caused by some poisonous substance mixed with the pepper. A sample of the pepper has been sent to Dr. Powers for analysis, and if the commodity is found to be adulterated, its manufacture and sale by the Los Angeles firm will be looked into by the health authorities.

There is a grave suspicion that the pepper in question is at least half peas.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

OPTIMIST'S VIEW OF PETROLEUM INDUSTRY.

REASONS WHY PROSPECTS WERE NEVER BRIGHTER.

San Francisco's Great Gain in Liquid Fuel Consumption—Extensive Plans of Union Oil Company—Standard's Refinery in Operation at Point Richmond.

"It is all a mistake to believe that the bottom has dropped out of the oil business in California," said an official of the Union Oil Company in this city yesterday.

"Just because the unsuccessful operators have been forced to the wall, and on account of the prevailing low price of crude oil some of the more successful companies have found it beyond their power to pay dividends, the impression has gone abroad that the oil business in this State is a waning proposition.

"As a matter of fact, the industry was never in a better condition, and the prospects never so bright as they are today. Here are a few of the big things that will be in operation by the first of the year:

"The Union Oil Company at its two refineries at Bakersfield and Oleum will be consuming more than 3000 barrels a day, and will also be making large shipments to the Hawaiian Islands.

"The Pacific Oil Transportation Company will have its tank vessels in readiness to transport oil to the Hawaiian Islands and elsewhere, and will have its pipe line completed from the Western Union wells in the Santa Maria field to tidewater.

"The Midland-Pacific Company will have begun work on its road from Bakersfield to the sea, as will have the Burson Company on its electric road from Ventura to Bakersfield.

"A number of new refineries will have been started, and the fleet of oil-burning steamers sailing from San Francisco and other Coast ports will have increased to fully 100.

"At least 600 engines of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fé companies will be burning liquid fuel, and it is a safe estimate that the oil consumption of California will have increased from 8,000,000 barrels in 1901 to fully 15,000,000 barrels by January 1, 1903.

"In the face of such prospects, who can say with truth that the bottom has dropped out of the oil business?"

SAN FRANCISCO'S GREAT RECORD.

In reviewing the oil situation in San Francisco, the Oil Reporter published a list of nearly 1000 names of persons and firms of that city who have adopted oil for fuel within the past two years. This list includes the big hotels, newspaper plants, iron works and various other manufactures, laundries and office buildings, and, in fact, almost every large consumer of fuel.

In the opinion of the Reporter the list will be doubled numerically within the next year, and concludes with the following:

"California, with its inexhaustible supply of oil, with its vast oil fields still to be discovered, in a few years will be one of the greatest manufacturing empires in the world.

"Today it is using at the least estimate at the rate of 13,000,000 barrels of crude oil yearly. In two years the consumption will have doubled the present, and what ten years will bring to pass no one can prophesy.

"Today California is known for its gold, its wheat, its fruit, its wine. Soon it will be famous for its manufactures. When that time comes oil will be recognized as the cause, and will be given the credit for California's increased prosperity and wealth."

STANDARD'S REFINERY.

The Standard's eight-inch pipe line being laid from Bakersfield to Point Richmond is now nearly 160 miles long. When completed it will be 276 miles in length. Although the work has been delayed on account of the hot weather in the San Joaquin Valley, and the non-arrival of pipe covering, it is expected that the line will be completed by the first of the year.

Work has been pushed on the Standard's refinery at Point Richmond, which, though by no means completed, is handling 1000 barrels of crude oil daily.

POPULAR WITH OIL MEN.

Oil men are becoming interested in the idea of holding a miners' convention in this city the coming winter, and are already lining up to lend their support, should the plan of the Southwest Miners' Association be carried out.

The association is fostering the convention idea, and already has the assurance that the funds will be forthcoming. It is estimated that at least $2000 will have to be raised.

Oil men are anxious to have a voice in the matter, and have already held several conferences, with the association management.

OIL SHIPMENT INCREASING.

The shipments of oil from the McKittrick district are gradually increasing, and the average daily yield has reached from sixteen to eighteen barrels. Only a small amount of development work is now in progress in the field, but the pumps are kept going at a lively rate.

Another matter of interest to the producers in the district, is the statement that the Southern Pacific will shortly designate Olig as a regular point of shipment, instead of McKittrick. At the present time the freight charges are so much per car to the latter point, and an additional charge of $2.50 per car is made on all shipments starting from Olig.

DOHENY LEAVES FOR EAST.

Edward L. Doheny, accompanied by his wife and party of friends, left for the East yesterday in his private car. The party will visit Chicago, and be absent about three weeks. On his return Mr. Doheny will arrange to visit the property of the Mexican Petroleum Company near Tampico, Mex., leaving this city about October 15.

SPREADING OUT.

UNION'S EXTENSIVE PLANS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

FULLERTON, Sept. 16.—The Mission Transportation and Refining Company, owned by the Union Oil Company, will shorten its pipe line between the Fullerton field and the point where it touches the Salt Lake route, near Long Beach, by putting in a cut-off line, covering much more territory in Orange county.

Other branch-feeding lines will also be laid and this company will soon expend a lot of money in the Fullerton oil fields, having now applied to the Supervisors for a franchise for a pipe line, beginning at the pumping station known as the Graham & Loftus, thence northwesterly 2000 feet, to the divide between Soquel and Brea Cañon, the northeast corner of the Rancho San Juan Cajon de Santa Ana, thence westerly along the general course of Brea Cañon two and one-half miles to a point at the north end of Cañon in section 2, thence southerly about 4000 feet, thence easterly two miles to the boundary line of Orange and Los Angeles counties, thence easterly along the oil wells located about a mile north of the Sansinena Rancho house to the Santa Ana Habra, thence southerly about two miles to intersection of Coyote Creek at S. M. Smith's house on the north line of section 7, about one mile east of the county boundary. The company has also applied for a franchise for a line or pipeline along the edge of the highway hereinbefore described. For these franchises the company agrees to pay Orange county an amount equal to one per cent. on the gross receipts from use, operation or possession of franchise, outside of municipal corporations.

THREE CHICAGO DOCTORS

Failed to Do for Miss Mabelle L. LaMonte What Was Accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She Has Written a Faithful Account of Her Case to Convince Other Suffering Women.

The beautiful young lady whose portrait we publish in this article has only one object in view in allowing us that great privilege, and that is to convince other young women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively restore their health and relieve their suffering surely as the sun shines.

MISS MABELLE I. LaMONTE,
Leader Nielsen Singing Society, Chicago, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was in an awful state for nearly two years with a complication of female troubles which three doctors called by different names, but the pain was all the same. During the times of my monthly periods for it meant a couple of days of awful agony. I finally made up my mind that the good doctors were guessing; and hearing from different friends such good reports of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I tried that. I felt better the day I did, for it was the dawning of a new life for me. I took six bottles before I was cured, but when they were taken I was a changed woman once more. Your Compound is certainly wonderful. Many of my friends have used it since, and nothing but the best do I hear from its use. Yours, MABELLE L. LAMONTE, 222 E. 31st St., Chicago.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure Miss LaMonte—why not you? You cannot tell until you try. If you are ill, and really want to get well, commence its use at once, and do not let any drug clerk persuade you that he has something of his own which is better, for that is absurd. Ask him to produce the evidence we do.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of others have done, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had such a vast and successful experience in treating female ills. She has cured thousands of others and she will cure every sick woman who will simply ask and follow her advice.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, Mass., $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonials are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, Sept. 16, 1902.

FINANCIAL.

POOR PEOPLE WARNED. Under the head, "Country Papers Please Copy," the Wall Street Journal of New York says a lot of pointed things that are apropos to ignorant people with an itch to speculate, which they ought to heed. The article is as follows:

"Wall street is usually regarded by people not directly acquainted with it in one of two ways. It is conceived as a den of dens tenanted by sharks, octopuses, leeches and other fierce animals which lie in wait for the unwary stranger and devour him, or else it is looked upon as a sort of "Tom Tiddler's ground," whereon one may find—as narrated in the song—gold and silver lying loose, simply waiting to be picked up by the casual stroller. In times of depression and more than ordinary political excitement the former view is usually preferred, but for a year or two past the latter has been distinctly the more common. And upon the prevalence among the people there have been built up two trades which deserve a passing mention.

"One is the wholesale peddling of shares, fully paid and non-assessable, for a few cents each by means of flamboyant advertisements in the daily press, with glowing promises artfully held out of enormous profits, illustrated by familiar historic examples. This is commonly promotion "for the people," brought within the range of the most modest purse. No one need hesitate to buy a few shares. Sometimes a dollar or 50 or 25—we believe we have seen shares offered at 1 cent apiece. It is by no uncommon for offerings of this sort to be made with the statement that the selling price will be advanced on a certain date, and the sellers are apparently not unwilling to place themselves in the logically curious position of begging people to buy shares from them before the price is advanced. Philanthropy of this sort seems to be accepted by the public as a natural virtue in promoters, for apparently the same must pay or it would not be so ostentatiously exploited.

"How the reasoning underlying this kind of business seems to be that a "share" in a corporation, when "fully paid and non-assessable," are attractive to every one because of the interest excited by the large company promotions and the great speculation on the Stock Exchange in the last year or two. Moreover, when these shares are offered at a few cents each, every one becomes interested in a "corporation" and participate in the "boom" that all corporation stocks are enjoying. "Standard Oil stock has sold at $800 per share, and so has Calumet & Hecla; therefore buy stocks in the Beadmont Spindletop Oil Refining Company at 2 cents per share, fully paid and non-assessable," or in the Mexican Amalgamated Copper Company at a similar price and grow rich without labor." In the other trade is that of peddling "tips" on the market. One advertiser will assure you that "My clients all bought St. Paul at such and such a price and A.C.P. at so and so. Were you on? Stop speculating at random and take my service. I do not guess. I know what the market will do tomorrow." Another will say: "A certain low-priced stock will advance 20 points but will not decline 2½ points. My clients will be duly advised when to get aboard. Terms $1 weekly." Another will say: "I am in a position to know what Morgan, Keene and the Standard Oil people are doing. Communicate with me and I will put you next for a share of 'good things,' and so on. This kind of business must also be profitable for those who conduct it, for advertising costs money, and plenty of advertising is being done.

"However, no sensible man supposes for a moment that first-class business enterprises need promotion on the basis of half-page or page advertisements offering stock at a few cents a share. Indeed, anyone of experience it must be obvious that the chance of making money by buying "shares" so advertised is infinitesimal. Furthermore, it is not possible, even more absurd to suppose that the secrets of the market are at the command of advertising "promoters" who offer their "information" for a few dollars a week. A little thought should convince anyone that ordinary intelligence, that no one really had voluable information would be obliged to peddle it in this fashion.

"And yet, so strong is the popular superstition that Wall street is absolutely filled with gold that almost any kind of a "cheap-jack" plan in accordance with that theory will suffice to extract the pockets of the public money in almost all cases has been very easily earned and saved with difficulty.

"We do not suppose that the readers of the Wall Street Journal as a whole need to be cautioned against such schemes as these. Yet, from inquiries occasionally receive it is clear that there is reason to fear that many people are caught by baits only a little more artistic. We cannot too strongly warn against parting with one cent of money in these days for any but securities either tried or proven, or clearly showing actual merit. There has been no time in years when it is so necessary to know values as at present.

"All street offers many opportunities to those who know values and possess some capital. But until people learn that some stocks are cheap at $1 per share and others dear at 2 cents per share, and until people learn that those who really know something about the market do not need to peddle their information for a living, it is to be feared that much money will continue to be lost both in and out of Wall street."

In point of depression and more than ordinary excitement the former view is usually preferred, but for a year or two past the latter has been distinctly the more common. And upon this acceptance among the people there has been built up two trades which deserve a passing mention.

One is the wholesale peddling of stocks, fully paid and non-assessable, at a few cents each by means of flamboyant advertisements in the daily press, promising profits artfully held out by referring to enormous profits, illustrated by famous historic examples. This is commonly known as "for the people," and the intention "for the people," and within the range of the most slender purse. No one need hesitate to buy 50 or 75—we believe we have even seen offered at 1 cent apiece. It is only uncommon for offerings of this kind to be made with the statement that the selling price will be advanced at a certain date, and the sellers are generally not unwilling to place themselves in the logically curious position of urging people to buy shares from them at a time when the price is advanced. Success of this sort seems to be appreciated by the public as a natural virtue in itself, for apparently the public must pay or it would not be so constantly exploited.

For the reasoning underlying this kind of business seems to be that because a corporation, when "fully paid and non-assessable," are attractive and not over-subscribed, therefore every one because of the interest shown by the large company promoters and the great speculation on the New York Exchange in the last year or two. Communicate with me and I will put you next for a share of the winnings" and so on. This kind of business will be profitable for those who conduct it, for advertising costs money and plenty of advertising is done.

Now, no sensible man supposes for a moment that first-class business enterprises need promotion on the basis of lurid page advertisements costing only a few cents a share. A spark of experience it must be said, lessens the chance of making money by buying "shares" so advertised. Furthermore, it is difficult even more absurd to suppose that the secrets of the market are at the command of advertising "sharps" who offer their "information" for a few dollars a week. A little thought should convince anyone of ordinary intelligence, that no one who had voluable information would be obliged to peddle it in this way.

And yet, so strong is the popular superstition that Wall street is absolutely filled with gold that almost any kind of "get-rich-quick" plan in accordance with that theory will suffice to extract money from the pockets of the public money in almost all cases has been very easily earned and saved with difficulty.

It is not to suppose that the readers of the Wall Street Journal as a whole are to be cautioned against such folly as these. Yet, from inquiries occasionally receive it is clear that there is reason to fear that many people are caught by baits only a little more attractive. We cannot too strongly protest against parting with one cent of money in these days for any but securities tried or proven, or clearly based on actual merit. There has been no time in years when it is so necessary to know values as at present.

Wall street offers many opportunities to those who know values and possess capital. But until people learn that some stocks are cheap at 2 per share and others dear at 2 per share, and until people learn for themselves who really know something about the market do not need to pedal information for a living, it is certain that much money will continue to be lost both in and out of Wall street.

COMMERCIAL.

EGGS DOWN. The Wholesale Produce Association put out a card yesterday, Tomatoes, gallons, per box. The old figure was $3.25.

FRESH PECANS. Advices from the East say that a good pecan crop is assured. Capt. Wygal, from the Pecan settlement, was in the city recently, and said: "The pecan weevil has practically destroyed the crop in and around Camp, the county can now look forward to them having quite a good crop promised in Los Angeles county. It will be remembered that it was thought that the pecan trees that were set out as a yield from pecan trees would be delayed many years. There are trees that have never given over a scant yield, this year bearing full. If every part of the country makes as good a showing in my section, the crop may prove as yielding 250,000 bushels."

COMMERCIAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

CITRUS FRUIT SHIPMENTS. Shipments of citrus fruits from Southern California on Monday were no carloads of lemons. The total for the season, November 1, 1901, to date is 11,836 carloads, of which 11,836 were lemons.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

Prices and conditions in the local produce markets are not different than they were the opening day of the week. For autumn business is very good, and few complaints of dull days are heard. Farmers with good potatoes on hand ought to be in clover, prices for fancy stock are hovering round $1.50 per hundred. Fresh ranch eggs are scarce, and extra poultry is none too plentiful, especially as to hens. Vegetables generally are in good demand, and steady in price. Fresh fruit is abundant.

With the coming of October 1 it is expected that business will be brisker than ever.

More fluctuations are to be noted in provisions—bacon and salt meat. Rex bacon has gone up ¼ cent, so has Diamond C. bacon. Cudahy bellies have also advanced 1 cent; short clears ¼ cent, and backs ¼ cent.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The tension of the money market was somewhat relieved today, and stocks responded with a straggling recovery. The repressive effects of the money situation were demonstrated by the subsidence of activity in the market, the volume of dealings falling below half a million shares for the first time in several weeks. Late yesterday it became known that $2,500,000 in gold from South America in transit to London had been secured for New York. This failed to reassure sentiment immediately, and prices of stock declined during the morning. St. Paul, Louisville and Nashville, Reading, Norfolk and Western and Wabash fell a point or over when an opening money rate of 13 per cent. was reached. A relapse to 10 per cent. was followed by a rally, and the rate fell to 6 per cent. in the afternoon. Recoveries were general, and the Gould group, the Wisconsin Central stocks, Amalgamated Copper and some of the important steel companies were notably strong. The report of an additional shipment of $1,250,000 in gold from Australia, of $1,000,000 from London tomorrow, and of the arrival at San Francisco today of a $750,000 installment helped to reassure sentiment. There was a prompt recovery in sterling exchange in response to the gold engagement, and discount rates hardened in London and Berlin, following yesterday's lead by Paris. Further gold imports were thereby rendered unprofitable. The conviction grows that foreign gold supplies must be looked to for relief of the New York market. In this connection, it is interesting to note that the great foreign reserve banks are well-equipped to meet demand. The gold in the Bank of France is nearly $40,000,000 greater than a year ago. Its note circulation has expanded over $15,000,000 in the same time, but its discounts and advances are $1,250,000 less. The Imperial Bank of Germany has over $12,000,000 gold more than a year ago, while its discounts and advances have been reduced about $20,000,000, and its note circulation is also slightly less. The presentation of checks to the sub-treasury for the anticipated government interest were much larger today than yesterday, but their effect on the money market was again counteracted by the deposit at the sub-treasury of $40,000 for transit to New Orleans. Although the applications at Washington for government deposits are reported to have taken up all of the available $5,000,000 government bonds it is evident that none of the deposits will come to New York. The bond market was dull and irregular in sympathy with stocks, steadying after early heaviness. Total sales, $1,825,000. United States new is advanced ½ and the old 3s, ¼ per cent. on the last call.

New York Money.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Close: Money on call, firm at 6@14 per cent.; closed offered at 8 per cent.; prime mercantile paper, 5@6 per cent. Sterling exchange steadier, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.85 for demand and at 4.82½ for sixty days. Posted rates, 4.83½ and 4.86; commercial bills, 4.81½@4.82; bar silver, 52½; Mexican dollars, 40; government bonds, strong; railroad bonds, steady; State bonds, inactive.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Wheat started out weak on cables that did not respond to yesterday's local advance and on the warm weather and on prospects of better northwestern receipts. The weather in particular was bearish, in that it favored a good movement of spring wheat. Offerings, however, were light. Trade at times was very dull, but long holders sold a good deal of stuff to scalpers, who, in turn, dumped it on the bulges and weakened the market still further. There was a good cash demand, sales were predicted and the estimated receipts for tomorrow were much curtailed from the receipts today. This stopped selling in the late deliveries, and to aid in the check came the advice that the Northwest did not care for selling much stuff here. Trade was not large in the aggregate, and the sale scattering purchases helped matters. There was still some fear over the results of the decision in the cash injunction cases and long November wheat came out. September closed weak, ¾ off, at 72¾. December closed 68½@68¾ at the opening; advanced to 69¼, and closed easy, ¼ lower at 68¾. Damage fear was practically the only bullish feature of the corn market, for receipts were improved, the weather was favorable to movement of the crop and cables were indifferent. Offerings were light until late in the session, when there was a drive in September, which pressed prices down. September closed ¾ down at 58; December closed weak, ¼ to ⅜ to ½ off at 43¾@44½. The demand in oats fell off to an almost imperceptible volume. Price fluctuations were very narrow, September closed weak, ⅜ off, at 23¾. December closed weaker, ⅛ to ¼ off, at 31. Provisions were only fairly active at times. Hogs ruled lower at the stock yards and influenced products heartishly; January pork closed 17½ to 20c off; lard 15 to 17½c down, and ribs 13½c lower.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—There is a quiet movement in wool that amounts to considerable volume when all put together. The feeling is that prices are hardening, and that wool not sold today will be wanted tomorrow. Leading wool dealers say they feel very comfortable about the situation; that the product is easy to sell, and full prices are obtainable. FARMERS GATHERED FOR AN INSTITUTE.

INTERESTING SESSIONS HELD AT SAN BERNARDINO.

Many Topics of Import to Tillers of the Soil Treated for General Benefit—William Bunch Wanted on Forgery Charge.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 16.—The opening sessions of the Farmers' Institute, held under the auspices of the University of California and conducted by Prof. A. J. Cook, were held today in Judge Bledsoe's courtroom, which was effectively, but not elaborately, decorated with flags and flowers. The committees in charge of the institute are: Arrangements, W. L. Vestal, R. C. Harbison, C. E. Dunscomb, Horace Holbrook, H. C. Warner; Exhibits, Maj. Rochlssen of Colton; Decorations, James H. Boyd, A. J. Downer, A. Huddleston; Music, Mrs. H. M. Barton, Mrs. Frank Donnatin, Prof. George P. Skinner. The institute is a university-extension movement carried to the farmers. The objects are to promote agriculture, to show where wear and tear can be diminished, labor saved, methods of cultivation and production improved, and the general welfare of the soil tiller advanced. It aims to disseminate intelligence that will promote skill and profit in orchard, field and garden; dairy, stockyard and apiary.

While the attendance at this morning's session was not as large as had been anticipated, it was representative of the progressive farmers and fruit growers of San Bernardino and vicinity, and in the afternoon the courtroom was comfortably filled with an intelligent body of men and women. In two of the rooms on the second floor of the old Courthouse, convenient of access, is an exhibit of the varied products of the county, which, although not large, is highly creditable, embracing many splendid specimens of the soil, particularly in the line of grapes and deciduous fruits, peaches, pears, plums, apricots, apples, pumpkins and so on, together with a display that hints at the vast mineral resources of the county. In the county exhibit room on Court street, near the Courthouse, tables are spread, so that visitors who bring their lunch baskets with them may enjoy a meal in comfort. The institute was opened at 10 o'clock with prayer by Rev. Dr. J. Francis Davies. Miss Mollie Tyler rendered a piano solo, and Judge F. F. Oster delivered a short but eloquent address of welcome to the visitors, which was responded to in happy themes by Prof. E. J. Wickson. Prof. A. J. Cook discussed the "Silo," and Dr. E. W. Reid talked about "Frost." The session concluded with a vocal solo by Eugene Wilkerson.

Dr. Reid, in a talk on "Frost," spoke strongly in favor of coal-baskets or oil pots to protect orchards from its blighting influence.

The afternoon session opened with a piano solo by Prof. Skinner. The question box occupied considerable attention, questions covering a wide range of subjects being put and answered to the enlightenment and satisfaction of all present. Prof. Wickson made an address on "Progress in Practical Education in Agriculture." Prof. S. W. F. Fletcher spoke on "Pollination," and was followed by Dr. John R. Haynes in "The Initiative and Referendum." The evening session, which was also well attended, opened with music by a male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Kirkpatrick, Moore, Stopher and Kirkpatrick. Some time was devoted to the question box, after which Prof. Cook gave an instructive talk, illustrated, on "Mexican Orange Worm." Prof. E. Duryea talked on the "Manufactures of Slover Mountain," where the big cement works are located, near Colton, and E. G. Gilbert spoke entertainingly and instructively on "Environment, the basis of evolution and perfection in the trotter." The session closed with a duet by Mrs. J. S. Wood and Mrs. H. M. Barton.

Prof. Cook is a model leader, and elicits much valuable information from the speakers by asking pertinent questions.

The programme for tomorrow, the closing day, includes: "Fertilising—Why? When? What?" Thomas C. Wallace; "The Present Situation in Fruit Growing," Prof. E. J. Wickson; "Parasitic Plants," S. B. Parish.

Afternoon session: "Our Birds," illustrated, Prof. A. J. Cook; "Poultry," S. M. Butler; "The Exchange," A. H. Naftzer.

Evening session: "The Farmer of Today," E. J. Yoakum; "Farm Ideals," W. C. Fuller; "Forestry," T. P. Lukens.

WHOLE BUNCH WANTED.

The officers are looking for William Bunch, a dope fiend of some local notoriety. A few days ago he presented a check at the San Bernardino National Bank for $60, drawn by himself in his own favor, against an Oxnard bank. The bank declined to honor it unless he would get another indorsement. Bunch left and returned shortly with the name of a well-known citizen, which had evidently been forged with considerable skill. The money was paid, but it has been learned that Bunch has no money in the Oxnard bank. Bunch's present whereabouts are unknown.

REMARKABLE CAREER COMES TO A CLOSE.

MRS. E. A. PIPER LAID AT REST IN SANTA BARBARA.

Said to Be the Only White Woman Who Ever Crossed the Andes Mountains—Once Lost Two Years in South America.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 16.—The remains of the late Eva Agnes Piper, who died at Oceanside Sunday, were interred here this afternoon. Services were held at Hiller's undertaking parlors. Mrs. Piper was 75 years of age, had been a resident of Santa Barbara several years, and had led a life full of adventure and remarkable experiences. For several years her husband, Dana Piper, who died in Ecuador about six years ago, was employed in South America surveying the Amazon River and its tributaries from mouth to source. While thus engaged, Mrs. Piper accompanied him. At one time she became separated from him while in an isolated section of the continent, and it was only after a continuous search, covering a period of two years, a portion of which time was spent alone, that husband and wife were reunited. Mrs. Piper is said to have been the only white woman to cross the Andes Mountains, and she at one time made the overland trip across the continent of South America, from ocean to ocean. She was a linguist of unusual ability, having mastered several languages, and some of her literary work, principally of an historical nature, received wide recognition. A short time before her death, she disposed of her property at Oceanside with the intention of coming to Santa Barbara and write a book containing a record of her recollections of the great country traversed by the Amazon River. Immediately after making arrangements for her departure for this city, Mrs. Piper became ill and died. She was a prominent member of the W.C.T.U., the National History Society and the W.R.C. She was also a member of the Episcopal church.

NOVEL DISCIPLINE.

LOMPOC, Sept. 16.—Prof. E. N. Mabry, principal of the grammar school, has provoked discussion by certain new methods of discipline used in his work. One is the practice of requiring a boy or girl caught cheating in class work to say or write in presence of the school, "I am a thief." Some days ago one of the boys was found to have a paper with certain answers on it which he had not yet used. The class was polled viva voce and sentence was pronounced, but the boy maintained that he was no thief, and would not pronounce himself as such. Thereupon the professor suspended him and later called the board of trustees together to confirm his action. Instead of doing so a set of resolutions was passed, one of which provides "that no pupil in this school hereafter be required to say in public: 'I am a thief.' The act of suspension was annulled.

LOMPOC BREVITIES.

The pipe is all on the ground for the municipal water system. It will be dipped in asphaltum before being laid, and the system will be put in as rapidly as possible.

The warehouses are all full of mustard and grain. Some of this will doubtless move before the bean harvest, otherwise new storerooms must be secured.

W. S. McKay has thrashed about 25,000 bags of oats, grown by him on mesa lands west of town. The quality is good. Fewer beets are grown than usual, other crops proving more profitable. The quality of the apples this year is exceptional, though the yield is not so large as last year, the fruit is much better. A few buyers have inspected the crop, but no bids have been made for the fruit.

Several earthquake shocks have been felt at Santa Rita, between Lompoc and Los Alamos, during the week. That section was in reality worse shaken by the July disturbances than Los Alamos, and not a week has elapsed since in which slight shocks have not been felt.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Presbyterians of this city are going to build a $10,000 church to replace the old edifice at Oak and Meta streets. They have a fine lot, and the congregationtion is claimed to be the wealthiest in the city. The present quarters are too small. The following committee of nine has been appointed to secure plans and estimates: Rev. C. B. Rogers, J. S. Collins, Thomas Gould, T. G. Morrison, D. A. Webster, J. H. Reppy, Mrs. D. S. Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jons.

WILL CONTEST.

Stephen R. Sealy and William R. Sealy have filed a petition in the Superior Court praying that the will of Woodson Sealy, deceased, be laid aride. They are brothers of the deceased, and claim that the will now in probate was not the last, for the reason that deceased at the time the will was made was not of sound mind, that he was weak, unable and incapacitated by disease to make a will. They set up the claim that deceased was under undue influence of Theodore and Addie Kelsey, who induced him to believe that the petitioners had mistreated and neglected him.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

Y.W.C.A. Reception.

If all the philanthropic people of the town were not around inspecting the elegant new quarters of the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon and evening it is a certainty that not many were left behind. Hundreds came during the afternoon, and many hundreds more during the evening. The regular officers of the organization attended to the general reception of visitors, and, besides, the various rooms maintained by some of the church organizations were attended to by ladies of their respective congregations. Mrs. S. S. Salisbury and Mrs. Dannkin represented the ladies of the Immanuel congregation in the room furnished by that church, while Mrs. William Horace Day, Mrs. Lee Chamberlain and Mrs. A. T. Stewart received for the First Congregational people in their apartments. In general charge of the Entertainment Committee was Mrs. W. F. Callander, assisted by the Misses Frances Barber, Louise Botsford, Florence Field, Laura Emery, Kate Kirkpatrick, Addie Doran and Della Bates.

The reception continued until 10 o'clock last evening, and the masculine element was noticeable, among the throng under the electric lights. Miss Tatham, the general secretary, had the opportunity of seeing the varied beauties of her especial system of lighting, for which she had worked so long. Her idea has been to do away with the usual isolated chandeliers, shedding dazzling illumination over some spots and leaving others in shadows. By diligent search she at last found an electric contractor who would instead put up incandescent lamps in small groups, close together, over the entire ceiling. The effect at night is splendid, giving soft and equal lights to all parts of the large rooms.

Morgan-Bridges.

Miss Eleanor Bridges was married last evening to Don D. Morgan, the ceremony being performed at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bridges of No. 2854 West Pico street. Rev. J. M. The bride was gowned in cream chiffon, trimmed with cream satin. White and green, showing from intertwined smilax and roses, formed the decorations of the parlor. Miss Fannie Franken played the wedding march. Koster catered for the supper, which followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will make their home at San Gabriel, where he is in charge of the powerhouse of the San Gabriel Electric Company.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Kern celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their marriage Monday evening at their home, No. 802 East Clanton street. Games and music helped to pass a delightful evening, and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Kern have recently made their home in this city, coming from Minneapolis, Minn. A number of their Minneapolis friends were present. Miss Sue Tiffany, also of the city where they made their former home, assisted Mrs. Kern in receiving.

First University Function.

The first of the social functions of the local college year was held in the rooms of the Y.M.C.A. in the University of Southern California Monday evening. The affair was a reception by the Y.M.C.A. to the new men students. Maynard Beckwith gave an address of welcome, and brief remarks were made by others. Light refreshments were served.

Misses Frances Griffith and Bessie Lloyd attended as bridesmaids. Messrs. William Street, brother of the groom, and Bert Robbins standing with the groom. The familiar strains of Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus" were played by Miss Ada Street, sister of the groom. There were about fifty immediate friends present.

FORESTRY ON A HUGE SCALE.

A Texas Company Will Practice it on a Million and a Quarter Acres of Pine Land.

[Bureau of Forestry Bulletin.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5, 1903.—Forestry on a huger scale than has ever been attempted before in this country by a private corporation will be practiced in Southeast Texas, when the Kirby Lumber Company puts into use the working plan for its lands, to be prepared by the Bureau of Forestry.

The lumbering operations of the Kirby company are proonably the largest in the world. They extend over a tract of a million and a quarter acres of pine lands, which contain about 50 per cent. of all the long-leaf pine of Texas—a vast single body of virgin forest, reaching out over seven counties, and uninterrupted, except for the clearings around the villages and farms, which it incloses.

This great forest is estimated to have contained, uncut—and the estimate is low—six and a quarter billion merchantable feet of lumber, board measure. The cuttings already made amount to only a small percentage of what the great forest originally contained.

The company operates seventeen mills, which now make an annual cut of 250,000,000 feet, board measure, and supports a population of 15,000 people. Since the forest is mature, and is helped, rather than harmed, by the pulling of the larger trees, the annual cut is to be increased to 400,000,000 feet. In addition to the trees used for lumber, which are cut down to an low as a diameter as 12 inches, 7,000,000 ties are being cut out of the forest from trees between 9 and 12 inches in diameter, to fill a contract with the Santa Fé Railroad.

It is just because its operations are on such a huge scale that the Kirby company has decided it must protect itself by adopting some system of forestry. Large as its holdings are, unless they are properly managed and protected, they must sooner or later be exhausted.

Even if the obligations to the 15,000 people dependent for a living on the lumbering operations should be ignored, the investment made in mills and equipment is too great to imperil by exhausting the timber supply.

Forestry receives little encouragement when the profits of lumbering are small, the markets poor, and the operations conducted with difficulty; but on the Kirby tract these conditions are reversed. The company is making a high profit on its timber, the demand for lumber is excellent, and lumbering operations are made exceedingly easy, by the lay of the land and the condition of the forest. The lands are in Jasper, Sabine, Hardin, Newton, St. Augustine, Angeline and Tyler counties, and were bought with an eye to simplifying and cheapening lumber operations. The labor supply is steady, and a railroad runs through the forest from north to south.

Last winter Overton W. Price, assistant chief, and Thomas H. Sherrard, field assistant, of the Bureau of Forestry, made a preliminary examination of the lands at the company's request, and returned a report stating the lines along which forestry might be practiced, with profit in the Kirby company's forest. The company accepted the report, and asked that a complete working plan be made.

The task of preparing this working plan will begin November 1, to be in charge of Mr. Sherrard, an expert on southern pine men, established in three months the measurements and the figures on which the plan is based.

Several problems must be worked out, whose solution will be of value wherever lumbering is practiced. The long-leaf pine belt. The most important of these is the fire question. The first necessity is to protect those lands from fire, which kill the reproduction, and which repeatedly burn over the floor in the long-leaf forest. While they do no damage to the trees, all the young growth is killed. The fire problem, briefly stated, is how it is best to attempt to protect the forest, or to limit the fires to cut-over areas. Since long-leaf pine in five years attains a size large enough to protect itself from any but the severest fires, it is probable that the systems of protection will apply only to the cut-over within the last five years.

The cutting of trees in the Kirby tract brings up for settlement a number of interesting questions, not only to the company, but to every lumberman in the country. On the Kirby tract, between nine and twelve inches in diameter are used for saw timber. The question has been raised by the bureau whether it would be better to allow all the trees between nine and twelve inches to grow two more years, and under to grow two more years, and then be available saw timber, and so get more out of the tops of the trees. A great deal of measuring and figuring will have to be done before this point.

...WERS DRAWS NEAR FOR PASADENA PARADE.

...AL ROSE TOURNAMENT MEETING OVERDUE.

New Year's Fete Will Likely Be Called Soon—City Hall Contract Let—Treasurer Scored—Hold-up Thief Caught—Americus Club Busy.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 39 South Raymond avenue, Sept. 17.—Now is the season of the year that the Tournament of Roses Association issues its tools to cut flowers for the annual Tournament of Roses of Song. In fact, the annual meeting of the directors is some time past due. Secretary Lloyd Macy says that President James R. H. Wagner is expected home a few days, and will likely call a meeting at once. President Wagner, to whose hustling management was accomplished last year, is a resident of Santa Barbara, and the task of securing another man to run the tournament and parade of flowers must be tackled, and tackled at once.

The office of president of the Tournament of Roses is one that has to be filled by a man, and as nearly all the leading men of the city have had a turn as director, at least, they have become pretty artful dodgers. Each year it seems more difficult to secure the right man.

Those who assume the management this year will find considerable responsibility attached to it, and a difficult task to uphold the pace set by last year's sports. Last year's celebration was probably the most successful ever held. This was largely due to the great football game between Stanford and Michigan, which attracted a tremendous crowd. The only event that can equal the Stanford-Michigan game will be one between elevens as good and as evenly matched. At the close of last year's tournament business a meeting between two of the leading celebrities of the country was talked of, and the people will rather expect the new management to provide something of the sort.

The parade of decorated vehicles is, of course, the principal event of New Year's Day, as the occasion is primarily a pleasure to eastern visitors, but the football game draws the crowd from all sections of the country, the rose parade being an old story to the natives.

Last year's management inaugurated a new order of things. Tournament Park was leased as a permanent property of the association. Handsome grand stands were built. But the association still owes one thousands of dollars on the grounds, which is the principal thing to be squared up by the present board of directors. The original intent was that it should be financed by initiation fees of one dollar, the system was done away with last year, and a larger sum than ever before was raised by subscription.

The present officers this year are: President James R. H. Wagner, Secretary Lloyd Macy and Directors W. H. Holcomb, C. C. Reynolds, A. K. Macomber, B. A. Garrad, H. C. Merritt and E. L. Du Bois.

CITY HALL CONTRACT LET.

The City Council yesterday accepted the bid of Dawson & Eldridge for the building of the new City Hall and jail on Fair Oaks street. The Mayor was authorized to sign the contract. The successful bidders are Los Angeles men, and they have local contractors, but they say they will give Pasadena subcontractors and workmen a fair show on the work.

FOR THE BOULEVARD.

The Council adopted the following petition presented by Councilman Wilson, and having to do with the boulevard project:

We, the undersigned, certain citizens of Los Angeles county have in various ways presented to this Council their intention to petition for the construction of a boulevard from said city of Los Angeles to the Campbell-Johnston ranch on the south side of Arroyo Seco, and that this city take the necessary steps to unite said boulevard at the limits of the city and connect by a bridge at or near Madeline street, Garvanza, this Council recognizing the public spirit of said citizens, and desirous of uniting in a fair manner all suggestions for the improvement of the city and approaches thereto; and, whereas, the precise character of same is somewhat undetermined, and the expense not fully ascertained, that said matter be and is hereby referred to the Committee of the Whole, with instructions to investigate and thoroughly investigate and report to the Council.

SCORCHER NOT BUSY.

Councilman J. H. Cambell's application for more deputies brought forward from the Council chamber seats moved that the matter be granted for a period of one month. Twombly opposed it. The City Treasurer ought to do his work with the aid of the force he has, and that he should do better than he is. This led to a discussion of the City Treasurer, who is said to have irons in the fire. The petitions were granted.

Councilman Twombly how the ordinance would be made up if the latter was not allowed, and suggested that "perhaps Campbell get in and work himself."

CITY COUNCIL ROUTINE.

The Council reported that there are pieces of property in the city for tract that cannot be sold at the prices fixed by the city. Also that these properties will be condemned. The matter was referred to a committee to report next week.

The Finance Committee reported, recommending that the salaries of Deputy Clerk Hopkins and Deputy Treasurer Frank Healy be raised $15 to $90 per month. The recommendation was ordered drafted.

The City Attorney reported in reference to the request of the American Electric Company for permission to string wires, that he could see no objection to granting the permission. The wires were strung on the poles of the Western Union Company, with the consent of the City Engineer. A number of residents on Union street and Raymond avenue protested against the granting of the request of Hodge Bros.' machine shop, which makes a terrific noise. The protest was filed.

CAUGHT WITH BOODLE.

Carlos Dubois, a Frenchman, was returned to Saticoy yesterday, where he is alleged to have stolen several hundred dollars from Lamarti, an Italian peddler. Dubois was staggering through the streets of Pasadena under the weight of $300, which he carried in a gunny sack, when, early Monday morning he was noticed by Officer Pinkham. The Frenchman's face didn't make much of a hit with the policeman, who shadowed him about a little, suspecting that he might commit a burglary or a hold-up.

At length Pinkham did the hold-up himself and as the visitor could not answer the policeman's questions very satisfactorily, he was taken to the police station and all day yesterday was kept in the sweat box with Chief Freeman as chief sweater. The ruse proved to be rather an easy mark for the chief, who finally, bit by bit, or drop by drop, learned that Dubois had robbed his employer, the peddler. Telephone communication corroborated the suspicion and an officer came down here for Dubois yesterday.

AMERICUS CLUB.

The Americus Club last night received eighteen new members and two associate members, Rev. Robert J. Burdette and D. W. Herlihy. A veteran corps was formed to which those active members who have served for three campaigns or more and wish to retire on their laurels, are eligible. They apply for membership to the veteran corps and are admitted on vote of the club. Members of this corps hold the highest rank in the battalion.

The resignation of James H. Cambell as captain of Co. C was accepted and Second Lieutenant E. O. Nay was elected to succeed him. John A. Westring was elected second-lieutenant to succeed Nay. Cambell was made honorary aide on the staff, a position also occupied by Maj. Newton Bangham, and to which only retiring majors are eligible.

Following the business meeting the club drilled on the streets until a late hour.

MORE HOLD-UPS.

The highwayman has not yet gone out of business. Yesterday Claudio Valenzuela reported that he was held up on East Colorado street on the night before while he was returning home from Lamanda Park. His assailant smashed his face and mulcted him of $2. The Mexican exhibited a cracked visage to prove what he said. The police are much puzzled by the numerous reports of highway robbery. It is possible that some of them are imaginary, but it is just as certain that a bold, bad highwayman is loose in the community.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

The death of Harry Dwight, the nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dwight of No. 510 South Pasadena avenue, occurred Monday night from Bright's disease. He was a graduate of the High School, and leaves two brothers, Edwin and Sherman. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the First Congregational Church.

A rancher ten miles east of the city yesterday reported to the police having seen the two boys who stole John S. Cox's horse driving past his place. They inquired the direction to San Bernardino. He says the horse showed signs of having been worked pretty hard. Chief Freeman thinks that the thieves are two runaways from Los Angeles.

James F. Ker of No. 165 North Moline avenue was driving with his sister and another woman yesterday afternoon near Grand avenue and Arbor street when the horse took fright at a boy on a bicycle and ran away, throwing the occupants out and severely bruising them.

At a meeting of the Board of Health yesterday afternoon Health Officer Rowland reported seven cases of typhoid fever since the first of August. The question of requiring physicians to report all cases of tuberculosis was seriously discussed, but no action was taken.

Mrs. Stephen O. Bowen died yesterday morning on South Euclid avenue. She was a native of Connecticut and had lived here two years. Mrs. Bowen was the mother of O. E. and G. S. Bowen and Mrs. W. T. Gaylord of this city and Mrs. C. F. Palmer of Palo Alto.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Mitchell have purchased of A. K. McQuilling fifty feet frontage on South Fair Oaks avenue adjoining Hotel Mitchell at $79 per front foot. The property will later be improved with an addition to the hotel.

Edward B. White of No. 312 Pleasant street fell and broke his hip yesterday while trimming some pepper trees. He is the father-in-law of Henry Ramel, and being eighty years of age, the accident is regarded as quite serious.

Roland McCoy was yesterday sentenced to serve twelve days in jail for carrying concealed weapons. He owed $2 on a previous offense, and when arrested was still "toting" a gun, so he got $10 fine this time, and had to take the time alternative.

Rev. D. D. Hill, the first Congregational pastor to preach in Pasadena, will deliver the sermon in the Congregational Church next Sunday. Two weeks following Rev. Robert J. Burdette will preach.

Superintendent of Schools J. D. Graham has opened his office in the Wilson High School, and is daily besieged with pupils who will enter school on the 22nd inst.

Mrs. Otto Freeman is expected to arrive from Chicago this morning and arrangements for the funeral of her husband will at once be made.

Mrs. J. A. Goodrich arrived home yesterday from Holliston, Me., where she has been visiting relatives for nearly a year.

TEN THOUSAND POUNDS OF FISH IN A DAY.

WONDERFUL RESULT OF CATALINA ANGLERS' TOURNAMENT.

Rod-and-reel Catch of Albicore by Thirteen Boats Monday Likely the Greatest in the World's History—Fishermen "Called Down."

AVALON, Sept. 16.—The "boys" went after albicore yesterday. The result was astounding. Never before in the world's history is it likely that such a display of fish, taken with rod and reel, was made. There were thirteen boats engaged in the tournament, and they brought in 315 fish. There were other parties fishing who brought in large catches, which increased the number actually hung on the circle of racks and piled up in the center to 401. The albicore were large, averaging above twenty-five pounds. There were not a dozen in the lot but would have weighed above twenty pounds, while more than one hundred ranged from thirty to thirty-five pounds. Averaging them at twenty-five pounds, gives 10,000 pounds as the aggregate weight, or five tons of fish. The entire catch of the day was placed on racks until the racks gave out, and the remainder was thrown in a heap on the ground, where everybody who possessed a camera or kodak took a shot at the lot.

The boats in the tournament were the Mildred, Harry Elms, skipper, with Thomas McD. Potter and Percy Neale as angler. Theirs was the banner catch, numbering seventy-seven fish; the next largest catch was by the Nestella, George Farnsworth and George Emerson, anglers. Their catch was forty-one. The Nick, Harry Nichols, skipper, with Al Shade and Bert Gould as anglers, came third with twenty-nine. The Idlewild, Newberry, skipper, was a close fourth with twenty-eight, and the Violet G., Tad Gray, skipper, Dr. C. W. Girdlestone and C. S. Fox of Riverside, anglers, and the Spray, A. Schinneller and J. B. Harmon were tied for fifth place with twenty-seven each; the Fortuna, George S. Patton, Jr., angler, had twenty-one; the Pauline, Jack Elcock, skipper, Otto Mandel and Henry Coleman, anglers, seventeen; Henrietta, seventeen; Helen, Harry Doss, skipper, fifteen; Katherine, George Johnson, skipper, eight; Augusta, George Michaelis, skipper, Judge M. T. Owen and J. J. Bauer, anglers, seven; Juanita, four.

Potter and Neale, with the Mildred, lost a lot of time by reason of filling their boat and they were obliged to leave off fishing and come in to discharge cargo at 11 o'clock, when they had sixty-eight fish. They returned to the carnage, and at 1:30, when they stopped fishing, they had nine more.

While the photographs were being taken Justice Allen took occasion to give the fishermen a "calling down," characterizing the exhibition as a wanton slaughter which was a shame and disgrace to them, and stating that he should see that it did not occur again. The boatmen and fishermen in justification state that they do not expect to repeat the occurrence, but that they selected the albicore for their sport simply because it is not a market fish, and is never used on the table, and they exist in these waters in myriad numbers, a few thousand of them, more or less, cutting no figure. They also justify themselves in the fact that as all fish are cannibals and kill and eat one another, what matters it who does the killing? These fish were all returned to the water, and other fish will feed upon them instead of hunting down and slaying their fellows when they want a good square meal.

It is a case of kill, anyway, and, say the fishermen, "we may as well have some sport out of the game, for in the economy of nature nothing is wasted. We have simply victimized these fish and saved the lives of hundreds of others, possibly of a superior variety, which will minister to the wants of mankind."

COVINA.

FRUIT EXCHANGES BRANCHING.

COVINA, Sept. 16.—The steady growth of the fruit-exchange movement among the orange growers in this section has been such that the time has arrived when it is neither feasible nor advantageous to handle the fruit through one, or even two associations. The Covina Citrus Association was organized in 1896; three years ago sufficient members withdraw to form the Covina Orange Growers' Association, yet the parent branch grew, and grew, and this fall it has given birth to two more, the Covina Valley Association and the Covina Uplands Association. The withdrawal of this membership has necessitated the equitable division of the property, and to accomplish this it has been found that it will be necessary for the Covina Citrus Association to disincorporate, and this is being done as fast as the legal formalities can be complied with. Last evening the members remaining within the parent association, and not members of any other association, held a special meeting to take the preliminary steps toward reorganizing. It was definitely decided to adopt a new name, and the Covina Highlands Citrus Union was chosen, and the first directorate will consist of J. S. Beardsley, S. P. Jennison, G. N. Atwood, A. M. Seeley, J. P. Forrester, C. E. Bemis and W. P. Watts.

McKinley Memorial Sunday was fittingly observed in Covina; public flags were at half-mast and preceding the regular morning sermon the Rev. S. H. Enyeart of the M. E. Church, in language eloquent and impassioned eulogized the martyred President and statesman. Upon the rostrum was a picture of the three martyred Presidents, draped with the Stars and Stripes.

ALHAMBRA.

TEMPLE'S TRIAL.

ALHAMBRA, Sept. 16.—The examination of Charles Temple, charged with the murder of Thomas Bayse, was commenced Monday morning before Justice W. M. Northrup at San Gabriel. Mr. McComas represented the State from the District Attorney's office, assisted by Lucien T. Earl. The prosecution took only five witnesses out of the seventeen, but the preliminaries and examination of these witnesses occupied all of Monday and today until noon. The State then rested, satisfied that complaint had been sustained. The defense called for further time, as it could not produce two important witnesses, and by consent the case went over to Saturday at 10 a.m.

CRAZY WANDERER.

A man whose strange actions roused the suspicions of several persons at Garvalia was picked up this morning by Justice Northrup, Deputy Constable De Loassa and L. H. Dequine back of the Parkers & Haig ranch. The man would take a hop, skip and a jump, turn handsprings and frequently stop and take out a piece of paper and write something. When finally cornered he pulled out a Bible, placed a piece of paper on it, and wrote: "If anything is wrong with me, communicate with Mr. Brown, 2615 First street, Los Angeles." Justice Northrup sent him to the County Jail as a vagrant, with an interrogation as to his sanity attached to the commitment.

POMONA.

SCOTT "BOOZE" TRIAL.

POMONA, Sept. 16.—The trial of F. E. Scott, manager of the Pomona "Athletic" Club, which commenced here today, promises to be long drawn out. Thus far only the preliminaries have been entered into. The defense is contesting every point, and first filed an affidavit that Justice Merriam, who was called by Recorder Barnes to try the case, was biased in his opinion, and accordingly disqualified to preside, but the court overruled this affidavit, and no change of venue was granted. Other affidavits were filed, alleging prejudice, and the prosecution filed counter affidavits to the effect that all of those swearing to the affidavits of the defense claiming partiality were either members of the Pomona "social" or "athletic" clubs. The examination of jurors has commenced. An adjourned session of the court was held tonight.

READY FOR SCHOOL.

Preparations are made for the opening of the public schools next week. The buildings have now all been renovated, connections made with the sewers, and the new sanitary system installed. The new supervising principal, Fred A. Wagner, will be in his office at the Central school building from 10 to 12 a.m., and from 2 to 4 p.m., the rest of the week. Saturday at 9 a.m., he will address a meeting of teachers and parents at the Central school building on matters pertinent to educational work. Indications point to a larger attendance than ever before.

POMONA BREVITIES.

SAN PEDRO.

SHOOTER'S PRELIMINARY.

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 16.—The preliminary examination of Henry L. Borini, alias Frenchie, the longshoreman who is charged with the shooting of Andrew Erickson, a sailor from the schooner Irene, in Hanny Valley on the morning of the 7th inst., was begun before Justice Downing this morning. Deputy District Attorney F. R. Willis represented the State and F. H. Thompson appeared for the defendant. Albert Walhstrom, Reynolds, Mary Strand, Ben Johnson and other witnesses told their stories of the fight. The examination will be continued tomorrow, when the testimony of Erickson, the wounded sailor, will be taken in the Sisters' Hospital, Los Angeles. The trouble was the outcome of a beer-guzzling night of dissipation in the vilest spot along the Coast. The drunken party that was celebrating was made up of sailors and union agitators. The bullet that laid Erickson out entered his back and lodged in the lower part of the left lung.

MEXICAN INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATED.

NINETY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOUTHERN REPUBLIC.

Orations and Musical Programmes Given at Elks' and Turnverein Halls Before Large Audiences—Tributes to Mexican Patriots.

Human liberty and independent government received homage last night by a crowd that packed Elks' Hall from door to stage, the occasion being the ninety-second anniversary of the independence of Mexico. Among those on the platform was "Uncle Billy" Workman, who, long ago, in the early days of the pueblo, was official orator on a similar occasion.

The hall was prettily decorated, and pictures of William McKinley and President Roosevelt adorned the stage, beside the portrait of the immortal Hidalgo. Immense American and Mexican flags were joined together above the stage.

The programme was largely musical, the participants being under the direction of Mrs. M. G. Gonzalez. One of the prettiest of the musical numbers was the singing and acting of the coon song, "The Ragtime Millionaire," by the wee tots, Georgie Gonzales and Baby Edna.

Among the orators of the evening were Gen. Johnstone Jones and Hon. Will A. Harris, who aroused much enthusiasm by their references to the pleasant relationship now existing between Mexico and the United States.

The evening was opened by the Mexican national anthem, played by the orchestra, followed by well-applauded remarks from R. J. Dominguez, president of the day. A ball ended the celebration.

The first, second, third and fourth stanzas of the national anthem were sung respectively by Beatrice Vejar, M. Lagatolla, Miss Louisa Gonzalez and A. Acosta. The remainder of the programme was as follows: Official orator, A. R. Vejar; "The Ragtime Millionaire," Master Georgie Gonzalez; oration in English, Gen. Johnstone Jones; "Johnnie Took the One I Wanted," Baby Edna; poem in Spanish, F. J. Del Pozo; mandolin solo, Louis Kramer; piano accompaniment, C. H. Lanbenheimer; "Dear Heart," solo, Miss Beatrice Vejar; oration in English, Hon. Will A. Harris; "Toreador" (song from "Carmen") in costume, A. Acosta; piano accompaniment, Miss Maud Roney; "I Want to be the Leading Lady" (Little Stella Gonzalez;) "La Cachucha," Rhea Buisseret; "Tit for Tat" Myrtle Gonzalez; solo on "The Rosendolin," Rosendo Uruchurtu. This instrument was invented by the little blind Mexican wonder, "Hush My Little One," soprano solo Mrs. M. G. Gonzalez; piano accompaniment, Miss Agnes Buisseret; "The Tempest of the Heart," M. Lagatolla; "The Bridge," Little Lottie Buisseret; solo, Cavalleria Pietro Buzzi; song selected, Miss Mary Moore; grand finale, "The Red, White and Blue," by Mrs M. G. Gonzalez.

JUNTA PATRIOTICA.

The anniversary was celebrated by the Junta Patriotica de Juárez, in the Turnverein Hall on South Main street last night. The hall was handsomely decorated in the American colors and the green, white and red of the Mexican flag. A tableau, with America, Justice and Liberty as the center figures, around which were grouped the States of the Mexican republic, represented by little girls prettily dressed in white, occupied the center of the stage, and won warm applause.

The honorary president, Hon. Guillermo Andrade, was unable to attend, having been called to San Francisco by the serious illness of his daughter. Señor J. S. Redona, the president of the Junta Patriotica, made a short address, introducing Señor F. A. Campusano, who was followed by Hon. R. F. Sepulveda, F. A. Allender and D. A. Matta, who made patriotic speeches.

The Mexican orchestra rendered several selections during the programme, and Miss Vernie Grubb sang ballads; the Señoritas Bush gave an exhibition of fancy dancing, and Pedro Sormano gave an "Imitacion Asiatica."

The vote of thanks to the public by the junta was delivered by Vice-President Oscar Chaves, who said:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: By your assemblage here in this vast meeting, you have demonstrated that it is your desire to keep fresh in memory the names and the deeds of those heroes who gave their lives that Mexico might belong to the great family of nations, and that the sons and daughters of that land should enjoy the benificent blessings of civil liberty; that the rights of man should triumph over that of kings.

"Today the people of Mexico are the supreme sovereigns of the land. Happy and contented Mexico today lays the wreaths of the oak and the laurel upon the graves of Hidalgo Allende, Aldama Jemenez and Abasolo, the patriot heroes, whose names are fit to adorn the list of the world's great defenders of liberty.

"And tonight, in my humble way I am willing to say, I am grateful to the patriot dead of my native land. And, you people who have so kindly assisted us by your contribution and your welcome presence, you of Mexico and you of this great Republic, I desire to thank you for what you have done. You have made it possible that we, one and all, could this day light the fires on the altar of liberty."

Following the programme a ball was given by the junta.

HAVOC FROM LEAKED GAS.

V. E. Stockwell Terribly Burned and Room Wrecked in Explosion on West Ninth Street.

V. E. Stockwell was terribly burned last night by the explosion of accumulated gas from a leaking pipe, while trying to light the gas in a house into which he had just moved at No. 120 West Ninth street. Until yesterday he resided at No. 4536 Arroyo Seco avenue, but desiring to live nearer his work, he moved to the Ninth-street house. During the afternoon he moved most of his furniture into the place. He noticed the smell of gas, but paid no attention to it. About dark he closed the house and went to dinner. Returning later he tried to light the gas in the front room. For that purpose he mounted a step-ladder, and the instant he lighted a match there was a terrific explosion. The illuminating gas being lighter than air, had accumulated near the ceiling, and when the match was lighted the explosion followed.

Stockwell was hurled bodily through the front door, and the windows and doors of the room were blown out, the place being almost completely wrecked. He was terribly burned and bruised. All the skin on both his hands peeled off like a glove, and the injuries he received from the fall were severe.

He was taken to Nance's drug store at the corner of Ninth and Main streets, where Dr. Cates attended him. Later he was taken home. It was discovered that the escaping gas came from a defective joint, which began leaking as soon as the gas was turned on at the meter.

Says a ortomobile's
Nex' thing that she'll sport;

Throwed 'em all away,

DOODLERS' METHODS.

St. Louis Grand Jury Continues Its Investigation into the Corrupt Practices of City Officials.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Sept. 17. — The grand jury today continued its inquiry into the boodling methods of certain municipal legislators. John J. Burke, whose testimony yesterday most interested the grand jury, appeared again for further questioning. Burke is not a member of the present combine, and was not a member of the combine which passed the lighting bill in the House, but he is believed to know about the recent movements of Walker Charles F. Kelly, whom, above all other persons, the grand jury desires to find.

Circuit Attorney Folk adjourned the grand jury early, and summoned several of the witnesses to appear before him in private, prior to their examination by that body again.
